Nixon Sends First Lady Off On Trip

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon ended a weekend in the Florida sun by seeing his wife Pat off on a goodwill mission to South America before heading back to Washington late today where energy and Watergate problems faced him.

Hailing Mrs. Nixon as "the best ambassador the U.S. has," the President flew with her by helicopter to Homestead Air Force Base about 40 miles from his Key Biscayne home and escorted her aboard the presidential jet for a six-day, 9,000-mile journey.

"She will be not only in an official capacity," he said in brief airport remarks, "...but she will do something she has done in all her travels around the world...she will bring the best wishes of the American people to all the people of the countries she visits."

Nixon returned to Key Biscayne where he planned to spend several more hours before returning to Washington tonight.

Nixon was scheduled to meet tomorrow with Jordan's King Hussein, who is in Washington for talks on his border problems with Israel and the future fate of the Palestinian refugees.

New developments were expected on the Watergate front. U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica decides, probably this week, whether to turn over a federal grand jury's sealed report to the House Judiciary Committee. Sources have said the secret memorandum deals with the panel's assessment of Nixon's role in the coverup.

White House lawyers delivered the first batch of requested documents to the committee Friday, but the committee was seeking still more.

And while Nixon's tax lawyers were compiling a report addressing the President's controversial tax returns, Newsweek Magazine reported that Internal Revenue Service special agents were looking into their preparation.

The Newsweek story came after Rep. Wilbur Mills, a member of the Congressional Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation which is looking at Nixon's taxes, said Friday the committee's report might give more impetus for the President to resign than the Watergate scandal. The White House denounced that remark as a "cheap shot."

San Francisco Municipal Strike Cripples Services

Sewage System, Public Hospitals Hardest Hit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Striking city workers tightened their stranglehold on San Francisco today, halting all public transportation and creating a crisis in the sewage system and public hospitals.

The new BART subway system was shut down in the city when pickets appeared at stations before dawn. With the Municipal Railway out of service during the weekend, thousands of persons who work in the city were without transportation.

At San Francisco General Hospital more workers stayed off their jobs today and officials appealed for volunteers to help feed and care for helpless patients.

Raw sewage was polluting San Francisco Bay at the rate of 100 million gallons a day because workers shut down three treatment plants. Waste was reported washing up on some beaches.

The AFL-CIO Teachers Union, representing half the public school teachers, called on teachers and pupils to stay home. Without school buses many could not go anyway.

The Municipal Railway drivers, the teachers, and BART workers were not involved in the strike against the city, but they refused to cross picket lines posted by the strikers.

Nearly one half million people who daily ride the cable cars, buses, and trolleys had to find alternative transportation when Municipal Railway Workers honored the picket lines.

The walkout was joined by the AFL-CIO Teachers Union, which represents half of the city's public school teachers.

Negotiations were scheduled for tonight with Mayor Joseph L. Alioto to act as mediator between five members of the boards of supervisors and representatives of the striking Service Employees International Union, which represents 10,000 city workers.

Negotiations had broken down Saturday when a union committee refused a board request that strikers show good faith and lift picketing of sewage treatment plants because 100 million gallons of untreated effluent a day had been pumped into the bay and ocean.

Travelers going to and from San Francisco International Airport found limousine and taxi service stopped during part of the day yesterday. Pickets finally allowed the passenger service to continue.

However, airport spokesman William Hansen said, "I don't know how long it will last."

San Francisco General Hospital, operating with only doctors, nurses and volunteers, moved 61 patients to private facilities yesterday and said others would be moved out as necessary for their health. The public hospitals were without adequate laundry, maintenance and food services.

The issue revolved around the unions demands for a $16 million increase in pay and benefits. The board of supervisors offered a 5 per cent package which would cost $5 million.

The board's offer would give raises ranging from $2 a week to junior clerks currently making $7,028 a year to $21 a week for plumbing inspectors who make $22,020 a year. Top administrators would get higher raises.

Lack of janitorial services left public buildings and airport terminals filled with trash and the Department of Health issued warnings that health hazards existed along the beaches because of the untreated sewage.

Hearst Is Considering New Tape

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Randolph Hearst considered his response today to the latest tape recording from his daughter's kidnapers who attacked his food giveaway program and demanded two imprisoned Symbionese Liberation Army members be granted a nationwide television appearance.

The tape also contained sharp criticism by Patricia Hearst of her parents' efforts to win her release. She charged her family with "indifference to the poor" and said she had been "written off" by them.

Three copies of the latest tape turned up as the Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers broke a 16-day silence Saturday night with the 25-minute recording, which included 11 minutes spoken by Patricia.

The first tape, a noisy and sometimes inaudible recording, was received by San Francisco radio station KSAN-FM Saturday night. A more understandable copy was left by the SLA in a San Francisco movie theater Sunday night, and today the FBI said that a third copy of the same tape had been found by janitors at a cafeteria and turned over to police.

The last tape apparently had originally been intended for Oakland radio station KDIA, but personnel there said they were unable to find it when

PREDICTED RAIN STORM A DAY LATE

The predicted rainstorm that threatened to mar the weekend for Marin and Southern Sonoma held off until early today.

Sporadic, sometimes heavy showers dampened the journey for Marin and Southern Sonoma commuters this morning. There is a 70 per cent chance of rain tonight clearing, tomorrow.

By 8 a.m. today, Fairfax recorded .5 of an inch; Woodacre, .47 of an inch; San Anselmo, .41 of an inch; Mill Valley, .38 of an inch; Larkspur, .36 of an inch; Corte Madera, .35 of an inch; Bolinas and Belvedere, .33 of an inch; Sausalito, .22 of an inch; Tamalpais Valley, .19 of an inch, and Novato, .1 of an inch. Rainfall in San Rafael was .41 of an inch by 11 a.m.

Members View Impeach Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two members of the House Judiciary Committee contended today that the panel had requested only as much information from the White House as is necessary to rapidly complete its impeachment investigation.

"The information we have asked for has been specifically described," Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said. "There isn't the slightest intention of anybody on the Judiciary Committee of going over to the White House on a fishing expedition or pawing through documents."

The 38-member committee is seeking from the White House six tapes, various documents, and an index of White House files. The information is in addition to what President Nixon's lawyers have agreed to turn over to the panel.

The President's chief Watergate attorney James D. St. Clair, wrote the committee that its request for more data amounted to "virtually unlimited access to presidential documents" and would "completely destroy the presidency as an equal coordinate branch of our government."

Appearing on the NBC-TV Today Show with Edwards, Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., said St. Clair's letter indicated that there is a "misunderstanding that is most unfortunate" on what the committee ie seeking.

Both McClory and Edwards said that if the panel did not obtain what it has requested, it will use its subpoena power to try to force the President to relinquish the material.

"Without question, if we don't get what we're looking for ... the committee will undoubtedly authorize the issuance of a subpoena," McClory said.

"It's by far in the best interest of the country and of the President to get this over expedtiously," he said. "The only way for that to occur is to get good cooperation from the White House."

A Louis Harris public opinion poll published today showed that 54 per cent of persons questioned felt the committee should recommend impeachment if Nixon did not provide the information it seeks. Thirty-two per cent opposed such action.

In response to a question whether they felt the President had been "frank and honest" on Watergate matters or had "withheld important information," 18 per cent said they believed he had been honest while 71 per cent thought he had withheld material.

Edwards said that the committee "almost unanimously feels that it is entitled to all of the material that it has requested and that it will insist upon getting all of the information."

Idleness, Poor Health Among The Major Retirement Problems

By JACK GOURLAY
Associated Press
(First of 10 articles)

The first day of retirement is a special day. The hours ahead are yours to do with as you please. No watching the clock; no fighting rush hour crowds. It's time for a leisurely breakfast, dressing casually, strolling through the neighborhood, watching TV, reading, puttering around the home.

But this can't go on forever. Soon, you run out of projects at home, you grow weary of visiting other idle men and women. TV, magazines and movies pall on you. Your welcome at the son or daughter's home begins to wear thin. You lose your appetite, become irritable and disagreeable.

Time drags. You're at a loss as to how to fill it. For some, it is a tragic time. One-third of all suicides in the United States are over age 65. The reasons are well-known.

Active society rejects the retiree. Intellectually and sociologically, he becomes less involved, less interested in problems of the world. He becomes lonely. He has ceased to be of any "use."

Sooner or later, the agonizing question has to be faced: Is life worth living after 65?

According to Dr. Frederick C. Swartz, chairman of the American Medical Association's Committee on Aging, enforced idleness robs retired persons of the will to live full, well-rounded lives, deprives them of opportunities for compelling physical and mental activity, and encourages physical atrophy and decay. The retired worker is robbed of initiative and independence. As a result, his physical and mental horizons become narrowed so much that he succumbs to habitual and compulsive grumbling about his compaints.

"Unfortunately," Dr. Swartz points out, "compulsory retirement at age 65 has helped to brainwash thousands into the belief that at age 65, one is 'over the hill'."

Most doctors believe there is a direct relationship between enforced idleness and poor health.

Los Angeles Drops Ehrlichman Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Los Angeles County prosecutors agreed today to drop state charges of conspiracy and burglary against former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman and two others in connection with the Ellsberg break-in.

Ehrlichman, former No. 2 man in the White House, still faces a state perjury charge in Los Angeles and he has been indicted on federal charges by a Watergate grand jury in the 1971 break-in of the Beverly Hills office of Dr. Lewis Fielding, psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch and Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski met this morning and afterward made a joint announcement, saying the California charges were dropped so they would not conflict with federal prosecution of the case.

Charges also were dropped against G. Gordon Liddy, at one time counsel for President Nixon's 1972 campaign organization, and David R. Young, one of the directors of the White House "plumbers" who carried out the Ellsberg burglary.

Ehrlichman, Liddy and four others were indicted last week on federal charges in the case. Fielding's office was burglarized on Labor Day weekend, 1971.

The purpose, witnesses have said, was to find out more about Ellsberg, then under indictment for leaking the Pentagon Papers to the press.

Busch and Jaworski said the California perjury charge against Ehrlichman would not be dropped because "it involves protection solely of a state interest." This was not explained.

The Busch-Jaworski statement mentioned unspecified "matters of national interest" among reasons for seeking dismissal of other state charges.

"Also the indictments would be exposing defendants to trial in two different jurisdictions and in fairness to those defendants charged in both jurisdictions and in the interests of justice they should be tried in one jurisdiction," the statement said.

Bumpers Sets Sights On Fulbright

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Gov. Dale L. Bumpers today said he would challenge fellow Democrat William Fulbright for the Senate seat Fulbright has held since 1944.

Bumpers, 48, said in announcing the plans that "faith in the government is at an all time low and that people are pleading for leadership."

He said the "highest calling for man" is to serve his state and nation. Bumpers has served two terms as givernor. He came out of political obscurity in 1970 to defeat Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's bid for a third term by the widest margin in Arkansas history.

Fulbright, 68, is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and already has announced he will seek another term.

Gas Lines Reported Shorter; Plan Begins

Marin County's voluntary odd-even gasoline sales system went into effect today, with a marked decrease in the length of lines of cars waiting for gasoline at many service stations.

A gasoline station in San Rafael, which last Monday at 8 a.m. had a line of cars about three blocks long, today had cars waiting for a turn at the pumps, but no line extending out into the street at the same hour.

Today, which is of course, an odd-numbered day, was reserved for motorists with odd-numbered license plates and those with personalized plates which contain no numbers. Tomorrow will be the day for those with even-numbered plates.

Saturdays are to be for everyone, and Sundays, the stations plan to close.

Dealers plan not to sell gasoline to anyone whose car already has more than half a tankful when he arrives at the station.

Commercial vehicles may be gassed up on any day at a station where the firm has an account; otherwise they must follow the odd-even plan.

No penalties are included in the plan for violators, as in the mandatory state plan adopted by several urban and suburban counties.

The decrease in lines today may have been due in part to many motorists' filling up their tanks just before the weekend — and then, in a fashion now becoming a normal way of life — staying home.

Highways yesterday in the Bay Area were used only by relatively few motorists — and most of them driving at the 55-per-mile-an-hour speed limit or even more slowly.

New Ordinance On Bars Before Council

A new ordinance to require bars to apply for conditional use permits before opening in Mill Valley will be discussed by the city planning commission today at 8 p.m. at city hall.

The new regulation is designed to give the city more control over how many bars will be allowed in the city.

No penalties are included in the plan for violators, as in the mandatory state plan adopted by several urban and suburban counties.

The decrease in lines today may have been due in part to many motorists' filling up their tanks just before the weekend — and then, in a fashion now becoming a normal way of life — staying home.

Highways yesterday in the Bay Area were used only by relatively few motorists — and most of them driving at the 55-per-mile-an-hour speed limit or even more slowly.

New Ordinance On Bars Before Council

A new ordinance to require bars to apply for conditional use permits before opening in Mill Valley will be discussed by the city planning commission today at 8 p.m. at city hall.

The new regulation is designed to give the city more control over how many bars will be allowed in the city.

Mrs. Meir Begins New Term In Office

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir began a new, four-year term as Israel's leader today, winning a two-month political battle with a narrow parliamentary victory.

Mrs. Meir's Labor party coalition received a 62-to-46 vote of confidence last night following a stormy, 10-hour debate in the Knesset (parliament).

With nine members of the Knesset abstaining and three others absent, the 75-year-old grandmother obtained only three votes more than the required majority of legislators present.

Mrs. Meir, in a policy statement during the Knesset session, insisted Israel would refuse to give back all Arab territory seized in the 1967 Middle East War.

She said, however, her government "is guided by the striving for peace" and "has the capacity to decide and act in the international sphere."

The opposition accused Mrs. Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan of building war fever to solve their political problems.

"The panic button should not be pushed for political purposes." Reserve Maj. Gen. Ariel Sharon, a leader of the rightwing Likud bloc, said in reference the current Golan Heights military alert.

Dayan, who had refused to join the new government, changed his mind Tuesday in what was said to be a reaction to a reported Syrian troop buildup.

"If you can't be sure of what the minister of defense says, what is left of the credibility of the government?" Menahem Begin, head of the 39-seat Likud, said.

Dayan responded, "The government was not formed by any trick. There was no connection between the formation of the government and the announcement about the Syrian situation."

As soon as the vote ended, Mrs. Meir took the oath of office for another four-year term as prime minister.

Her new 23-member cabinet was essentially the same as the outgoingone, with Dayan, Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon and Foreign Minister Abba Eban keeping their old posts.

Mrs. Meir had been attempting to build a new coalition since the Dec. 31 elections in which her ruling Labor party suffered a setback.

Automakers Begin Plant Curtailments

DETROIT (UPI) — With their stocks of unsold cars at near-record levels, U.S. automakers this week are curtailing or ceasing operations at 17 assembly plants and putting more than 66,000 workers on one-week furlough.

It was one of the most massive series of layoffs in the industry that has already trimmed more than 100,000 workers indefinitely from plant payrolls. Most won't be recalled until the big cars they build begin to sell or their plants are converted to small car production.

Automotive analysts will be closely watching the March 1-10 sales figures due Wednesday to see if the modest sales gains of February continued into early March. If the traditional spring sales upturn doesn't begin, layoffs could become even greater.

While sales in February were off 27 per cent from one year ago, the Feb. 21-28 sales period marked the fourth in a row in which the selling rate exceeded the rate for the comparable period in the preceeding month.

This allowed the nation's car dealers to drop their inventories of unsold cars from a record 81-day supply at the beginning of February to a 74-day supply entering March—more than 1.7 million cars At the present sales pace, that would be enough to last until mid-May.

The automakers traditionally build more cars than they sell during the winter months to prepare for a spring sales surge. Favorable news on the availability of gasoline for spring and summer vacations could produce that spurt, executives say.

March production had been scheduled higher than any month this year, but layoffs at General Motors Corp. were bigger than expected.

GM is idling 56,300 workers at 15 assembly plants and four Fisher Body fabricating plants; Ford Motor Co. is curtailing operations at a big car assembly plant and a parts plant, idling 2,1000; and Chrysler Corp. is closing its Jefferson Ave. assembly plant in Detroit for a week, idling 4,800 workers.

Even American Motors Corp., the smallest of the automakers and the only one showing consistent sales gains this year, is caught up in the layoffs this week. Some 2,900 workers at AMC's Milwaukee, Wis. plant, who build bodies for mid-sized Matador and Ambassador models, will be idled this week.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Bishop Loses Sight Of Eye

Morkovski

Dr. Richard Ruiz said yesterday Bishop John L. Morkovski's left eyeball was ruptured by a blow, probably from the barrel of a pistol. The physician said it would be impossible to restore sight in the eye.

Bishop Morkovski, who also suffered multiple cuts and bruises on the face and scalp, will remain in St. Joseph's Hospital for several days. Ruiz said his condition is satisfactory.

Two gunmen came to Morkovski's door Friday asking to use his telephone to report an accident. They pistol whipped the bishop, took his wallet and his car keys.

Detente Remarks

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev says talk about secondary matters has hindered attempts at the European Security Conference to ease tensions between East and West.

Brezhnev, in comments to a group of French journalists, said yesterday the two power blocs still were pushing ahead with detente despite the hindrances. "One can hardly say the process of relaxation has slowed down," he said.

"I am prepared to admit that much has appeared at the Geneva conference which is often inessential, which hinders the solution of the central questions of the conference," he said.

Outpost Fighting

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government troops fought rebel forces today near the provincial capital of Kompot and continued their effort to reopen the road linking Phnom Penh to its only deepwater seaport.

The High Command said government soldiers backed by heavy air support and artillery fought to drive rebels from the north and east sides of Kompot, a provincial capital of 45,000 besieged since March 1.

Hepatitis Link

CHICAGO (UPI) — Hepatitis has been linked to the piercing of ear lobes for insertion of earrings, a team of medical researchers reported today.

The investigation, which traced seven cases of hepatitis to lobe puncturing with unclean instruments, started after a mother complained that a jeweler used soiled needles on her daughter's ears.

The researchers, headed by Dr. Carl J. Johnson of the Jefferson County Health Department in Lakewood, Colo, found that the jeweler had been using blood-stained instruments and soaking them in alcohol between procedures.

The alcohol solution does not destroy the hepatitis virus, Johnson said.

Zoo Bombed

BELFAST (UPI) — Bombers attacked the city zoo for the second time in three weeks today, blowing up a hut on the grounds and slightly injuring two workmen, police said.

The blast today was almost a carbon copy of the first bomb, which destroyed a workman's hut at the zoo but caused no casualties.

The bomb attack came shortly after the Provisional Irish Republican Army Belfast brigade called for an escalation of violence in the city following the death of a youth in a bomb blast outside a Roman Catholic church.

Union Victory

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — Unions representing 85,000 workers called off a four-day general strike today after winning sweeping gains. Emperor Haile Selassie, his kingdom beset by turmoil, indicated he had no intention of stepping down.

The Ethiopian Trade Union Federation ordered its members back to work after winning a series of demands including large wage increases, free education for poor children and the right to be paid while on strike.

The return to the job by agricultural, petroleum, airline, textiles and public transport workers culminated one of the most tumultuous periods in this ancient African kingdom's history.

Retains Power

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The Social Christian Party retained its dominant position today in national elections that saw the country's major political groups hold their own against regional challenges.

With about 90 per cent of the votes counted, computer projections gave the left-of-center Social Christians 71 seats in the 212-member Chamber of Representatives, a gain of four seats.

The Socialists were expected to finish with 59 seats —a loss of two — and the Liberals to remain with 34.

Corruption Paper

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — "Police corruption in Philadelphia is ongoing, widespread, systematic and occurring at all levels," according to a long-awaited report from the Pennsylvania Crime Commission.

The report on Philadelphia police corruption was released today despite objections from the Fraternal Order of Police.

The order asked commonwealth court for a temporary injunction to halt the release of the report, claiming the names of the policemen should not be "smeared all over the newspapers."

The report, which followed nearly two years of investigation, said corruption exists in all the city's 22 police districts and involves officers from patrolmen to inspector.

A New Triangle In Meat Trading

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Japan's growing appetite for high grade beef is producing a new "meat trade triangle" in which the United States sells steak to Japan and uses the money to help pay for hamburger from Australia, an Agriculture Department report said today.

Roger S. Lowen, a department trade specialist, said in the report that Japanese consumers, who also buy large amounts of relatively cheap lean beef from Australia, have been showing a growing demand for high quality "marbled" beef of the kind produced in this country.

As a result, the U.S. share of Japan's beef imports, although still far smaller than Australia's, is rising rapidly. Sales of U.S. beef to Japan could leap to 80 million pounds this year, compared with 20 million pounds last year and just 1.2 million pounds two years ago, Lowen said.

The trade specialist said forecasts of increased Japanese imports this year, are based on hopes that energy problems can be solved. If an energy shortage leads to a recession in Japan or a heavy drain on Japanese foreign exchange, demand for imported beef could drop, he said.

Lowen said U.S. earnings from Japanese sales will help offset the dollars flowing out of this country to pay for imports of cheaper hamburger-grade beef "which satisfies the needs of middle-income consumers." U.S. imports of this kind of meat, mainly from Australia, will come to about 1.5 billion pounds this year.

Lowen indicated growing sales of American beef to Japan would not make much of a dent in domestic supplies of steaks, roasts and other high-grade cuts. Even if exports rise to 100 million or 200 million pounds, they would still represent less than 1 per cent of current U.S. production, "and could help to provide a long range incentive to U.S. producers to increase output," he said.

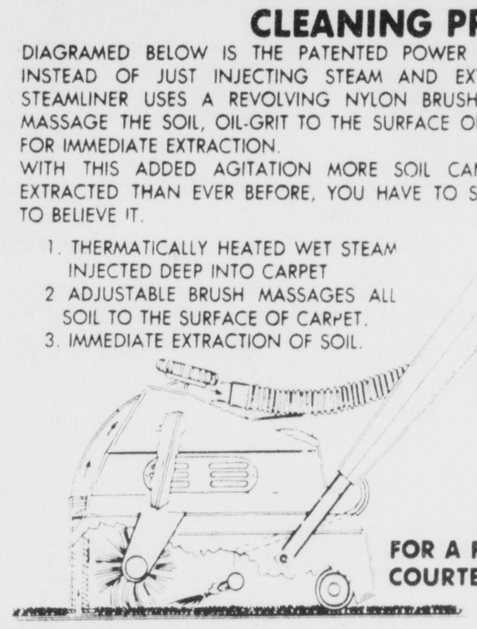

Japanese consumers currently eat about 8.5 pounds of beef per person annually compared with 116 pounds per person in the U.S. Barring economic setbacks Japanese consumption could rise to 20 pounds per person by 1985, Lowen said.

Agriculture Department reports based on prices last November show Japanese housewives were paying $6.49 a pound for imported tenderloin from the United States and $4.86 a pound for chuck beef from this country. In contrast, frozen steaks from New Zealand were bringing $2.11 a pound.

We share your frustration.

First of all, we'd like you to realize that we fully understand the inconvenience and frustration that you and your family are going through to get gasoline.

As much as we wish that there were some magic formula to solve the problem, we know of none.

We just don't have enough petroleum to satisfy all the needs of our customers. And until there are more supplies, or reduced demands—or a combination of both, we're going to have a tight situation.

Meanwhile, we're doing everything we can at Standard to supply you. But the reality is that right now there is just so much crude oil available. And the government sets needed priorities that reduce the amount of gasoline we have for our company stations and dealers.

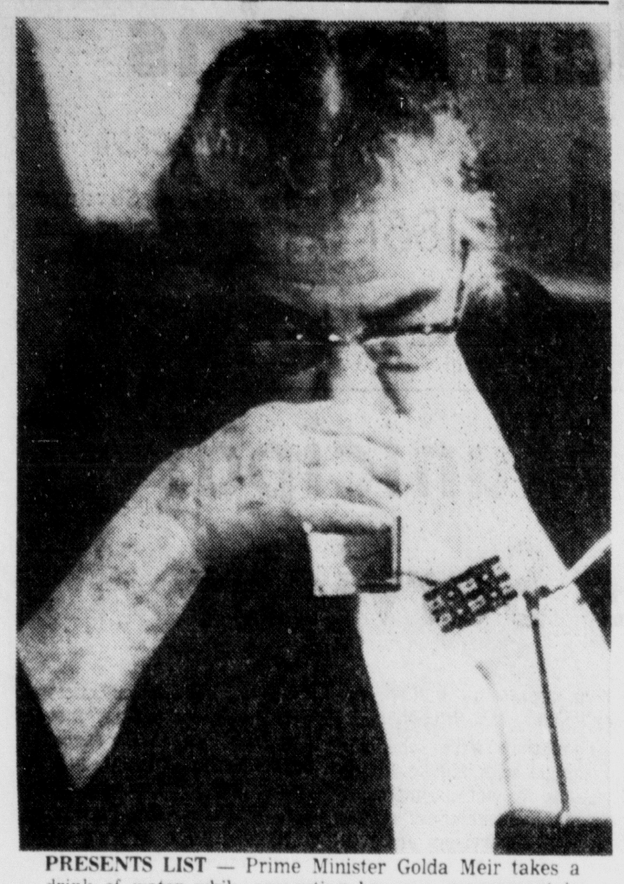

Obviously we're disappointed because we can't always provide the kind of service you know us for. But one thing we are trying, is to have many of our Standard Stations open during non-working hours wherever possible. We're encouraging our Chevron Dealers to do this also, so people will have a better chance to get gasoline on the way to-and-from work.

California's new Odd/Even Marketing Plan should help shorten the lines, as will the provision whereby stations will not make sales of less than a half tank. We'll be cooperating fully with the new system wherever it's adopted.

And, of course, your efforts to conserve fuel by driving less, using car pools, and planning your shopping trips, holidays and vacations more efficiently will definitely help use less gasoline.

Again, we wish there was some quick and easy solution. But there isn't. We can only say that we're doing everything we can to ease the problem, and we thank you for your patience and cooperation.

We're encouraging our Chevron Dealers to do this also, so people will have a better chance to get gasoline on the way to-and-from work.

California's new Odd/Even Marketing Plan should help shorten the lines, as will the provision whereby stations will not make sales of less than a half tank. We'll be cooperating fully with the new system wherever it's adopted.

And, of course, your efforts to conserve fuel by driving less, using car pools, and planning your shopping trips, holidays and vacations more efficiently will definitely help use less gasoline.

Again, we wish there was some quick and easy solution. But there isn't. We can only say that we're doing everything we can to ease the problem, and we thank you for your patience and cooperation.

New Grumbles From British Coal Miners

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's 269,000 coal miners returned to their jobs today after a 13-week slowdown and four-week national strike. But new disputes hit the trouble-plagued coal industry.

There also was grumbling over the pay raises that brought salaries to a range of $103.50 a week for underground coal face workers to $82.50 for other underground workers and $73.50 for surface workers.

"We have now got up to the level of men cleaning out the lavatories in car factories," said Nottinghamshire miner Owen Fletcher who now makes $73.50 a week.

With the coal dispute over, British industry returned to a normal five-day work week today, ending more than two months of a three-day work week imposed to save energy. However, it was believed industry would not be back to normal for several more weeks.

At Cotgrave colliery near Nottingham 400 miners reported for work and then returned home. They objected to the number of supervisors giving instructions underground.

At Betteshanger in Kent, 60 miles east of London, safety workers and maintenance men announced an overtime ban. They said management sent some of them home Sunday before the general return to the job, on the grounds there was no work for them.

In Yorkshire, some of the men who man the cages in which miners ride up and down mine shafts threatened a series of one-day strikes. They said their share of the new pay agreement was not enough.

In South Wales, the only miners' local out of 49 in the coal field to vote against the new pay deal also returned to the job.

Coal Board officials said little more than one half the normal weekly coal production of 2.3 million tons is likely this week. They said it will be two to three weeks before full scale production is restored.

The state-run Coal Board said that despite the new trouble, miners were digging coal again in all 20 British coal fields.

"But we are reminding the men that not only will machinery be rusty but they, too, will be rusty after four weeks off work. Everyone must give special care to safety regulations," a spokesman said.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's new Labor Party minority government ended the coal strike within 48 hours after taking office with a $230 million pay deal Wednesday night—highest in the industry's history.

The three-day week was rescinded from midnight Friday. But because new factories and offices usually work on weekends, normal working became fully effective only today.

Gordon Alsopp, a pit safety official in Nottinghamshire, said, "Absenteeism will be very high. Many of the men will be afraid of accidents and at times downright frightened."

The miners went on a full-scale strike Feb. 10 after a three-month slowdown cut Britain's fuel supplies and forced former Prime Minister Edward Heath to impose a three-day work week Dec. 31. Heath then called national elections on Feb. 28, but resigned when he lost his parliamentary majority.

The small Liberal Party, which holds the balance of power in the House of Commons, threatened to topple Wilson's minority government if Labor adopts a strongly socialist position tomorrow at the opening of parliament.

90-Year-Old Driver Has Some Advice

LAKE ANN, Mich. (UPI) — Lawrence E. Taylor, 90, got his first traffic ticket since 1905 recently, and blamed it all on modern America.

"The craziest damn fools are driving," he said. "They've got a lot of speed and they don't know how to handle it and there's a lot of other things they don't know how."

Taylor got his first ticket in 1905 or "thereabouts" when his vehicle didn't act right and a few horses were scared. He paid the small fine without fighting the case.

Last week, Taylor got his second ticket—this time for allegedly failing to yield the right-of-way on a turn.

Although Taylor said he was "disgusted," he paid the $15 fine in district court in nearby Beulah.

"He would have fought the case except that he is a busy man and has too much work to do to stand trial," said Magistrate Leonard Case.

Taylor drives almost every day—when the weather is not bad—in search of lumber to make boxes he sells to local growers for packing fruit.

Asked what it takes to be a good driver, Taylor said:

FEO AND THE GAS LINES

BY MILTON FRIEDMAN

*Reprinted from "Newsweek"

As I write this in Chicago, lines are forming at those gas stations that are open. The exasperated motorists are cursing; the service station attendants are fuming; the politicians are promising. The one thing few people seem to be doing is thinking.

How is it that for years past, you and I have been able to find gas stations open at almost any hour of the day or night, and complete confidence that the request to "fill up" would be honored with alacrity and even with a cleaning of the windshield? To judge from the rhetoric that pollutes the air these days, it must have been because there was a powerful Federal Energy Office hidden somewhere in the underground dungeons in Washington, in which an invisible William Simon was efficiently allocating petroleum products throughout the land, riding herd on greedy oil tycoons lusting for an opportunity to mess things up and create long lines at their gas stations.

Of course, we know very well that the situation is precisely the reverse. The lines date from the creation of a real Federal Energy Office run by a very visible, able and articulate William Simon. Which is the cause and which the effect? Did the lines produce the FEO or the FEO the lines?

CONSIDER WEST GERMANY

After the Arabs cut output, Germany imposed no price controls on petroleum products. It did initially restrict Sunday driving but soon removed that restraint. The price of petroleum products jumped some 20 or 30 per cent, but there were no long lines, no disorganization. The greedy consumers found it in their own interest to conserve oil in the most painless way. The greedy oil tycoons found it in their own interest to see to it that petroleum products were available for those able and willing to pay the price.

Other European countries, like the U.S., imposed price controls. And, like us, they had chaos.

The Arab cut in output can be blamed for higher prices, but it cannot be blamed for the long lines. Their creation required the cooperation of shortsighted governments.

The world crisis is now past its peak. The initial quadrupling of the price of crude oil after the Arabs cut output was a temporary response that has been working its own cure. Higher prices induced consumers to economize and other producers to step up output. It takes time to adjust, so these reactions will snowball. In order to keep prices up, the Arabs would have to curtail their output by ever larger amounts. But even if they cut their output to zero, they could not for long keep the world price of crude at $10 a barrel. Well before that point, the cartel would collapse.

The effects of consumer and producer reactions are already showing up. The European countries that introduced rationing and restrictions on driving have eliminated them. World oil prices are weakening. They will soon tumble. When that occurs, it will reveal how superficial are the hysterical cries that we have come to the end of an era and must revolutionize our energy-wasting way of life. What we have been witnessing is not the end of an era but simply shortsightedness.

At home, unfortunately, our problems will not be over so soon. The panicky FEO forced oil companies to shift so much production to heating oil that we face a glut of heating oil but a paucity of gasoline. The FEO's allocations among states have starved some, amply supplied others. Its order that refineries operating at high levels must sell oil to those operating at low levels sounds fine. In practice, however, it reduces the incentive for the recipients to buy oil abroad and produces a wasteful use of oil at home.

We have the worst of both worlds: long lines and sharply higher prices - indeed, higher than I believe they would have been without the waste resulting from FEO controls.

Is rationing the solution? Far from it. It is the problem. We already have rationing of producers and distributors. Coupon rationing of final consumers would simply be the hair of the dog that bit you.

ABOLISH FEO

The way to end long lines at gas stations is to abolish FEO and end all controls on the prices and allocation of petroleum products. Within a few weeks, your friendly dealer would again be cleaning your windshield with a smile.

How can thinking people believe that a government that cannot deliver the mail can deliver gas better than Exxon, Mobile, Texaco, Gulf and the rest?

How sweet it is! that the spotlight of scientific research is being focused more and more on the roles vitamins play as disease-preventing nutrients. Scientists are becoming fascinated with how they influence the body. For example, a Massachusetts physician, working in conjunction with the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, has recently reportsd this:

Animals given high doses of vitamin A show greater resistance to infection. Their "immune response" - so important in fighting off diseases - is increased. Furthermore, according to a syndicated newspaper column, written by another physician, this researcher believes that vitamin A will eventually play an important role in prevention and treatment of certain cancers.

difficult to accept the feeling of no longer being needed on the job. Contact is lost with close work associates. Even in the family, there is quite often a loss of dignity and status.

If he hasn't developed any interests beyond those connected with his work, if he offers little more to the family than his presence under-foot 24-hours-a-day, he finds himself isolated, and while isolation doesn't cause illness, it does increase the chances of physical or emotional disturbances.

Whatever the precise percentage adversely affected by retirement may be, the problem exists and, psychologically, retirement at 65 does mean "going over the hill" for many. But it doesn't have to. The main factor in growing old is inactivity. That is why the experts insist that anyone approaching retirement ag should involve himself in actively preparing for it.

The old notion of retirement as a withdrawal into seclusion, a shrinking from society, is obsolete. Retirement is a perfectly normal eveolution in the pattern of living.

According to Mortimer Adler, retirement "should be a transition from toil to leisure . . . from devoting part of one's time to earning a living to devoting all of it to living well." It should be thought of as a graduation, a moving up from a lower to a higher grade of life.

There is no set time which is best for retirement. Nor is there an exact definition of "old age." It hits each of us at a different age. Its timing depends on many factors: the kind of work one does; family responsibilities; the state of one's health; one's financial resources. It also depends on your temperament and personal goals Most recent research into intellectual retention shows that the mind remains alert and active far beyond middle age.

Proof of this is all around us. Verdi produced Falstaff at age 80; Agatha Christie was writing novels in her 80s; David Ben-Gurion was active through his mid-80s.

One's mind can be active well into the 80s. The only thing we know for certain is that someday each of us must make the switch from making a living to some less demanding activity which we should be prepared to continue for some time to come because retirement can last for decades.

Fifteen to 20 years can be a long time, surely enough time for you to want to do something much more satisfying than to just sit around and vegetate.

Physical or mental decline in age is largely a matter of attitude. But one who is prepard and has the proper outlook toward retirement knows that age is no obstacle to achievement and fulfillment.

Housing Policy

The proposed housing policy for the Srawberry area and Ring Mountain master plans will be discussed by the Marin County Planning Commission, the Ring Mountain Advisory group and the Strawberry Area Community Council in a joint meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Strawberry Recreation Center, according to Sandra Dorsaneo, community council secretary.

Quesada Files For Election

Quesada, who didn't seek reelection to the council, has advocated that the city absorb the sanitary district. "I think the sanitary district should be done away with and put in the city," he said.

The district and the city boundaries are about 84 per cent contiguous, Quesada said.

Novato School Budget To Get A First Look

An estimate on a preliminary budget for the 1974-75 school year is scheduled to be presented to the Novato Unified School District board at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato High School lecture hall.

Eugene DeBrecht, assistant superintendent, business, said the estimate, not yet completed, is expected to be ready by the time the board meets. The district's budget last year was $11,701,771.

The board also is scheduled to have a closed session to instruct its representatives on negotiations with teachers.

Marinite Heads Research Group

Dr. Jared B. Sharon of Fairfax has been named president of the New Voter Educational Research Foundation, a San Rafael-based organization that prepares material for citizenship education in California schools.

Dr. Sharon is assistant dean of instruction and director of community college development at the College of Marin. He replaces Marin County Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer, who resigned to run for county clerk.

Lotte Schiller of Mill Valley, a trustee of Tamalpais High School District, and Barbara Stidham of Terra Linda, were named educational vice president and administrative vice president, respectively.

Subdivision Map Is Before Council

The Rohnert Park City Council will meet at 7 p.m. today in city hall to consider approval of a final map for a 196-unit subdivision proposed by the Forhim Corp.

Also scheduled for consideration is the purchase of a new fire truck and several police vehicles. A council meeting last Monday was adjourned until today because a lengthy discussion of city wells preempted several other agenda items.

they went to the cafeteria Saturday.

FBI agent in charge Charles W. Bates said all three copies had been sent to FBI headquarters in Washington for analysis. The SLA had demanded in the recordings that the tapes not be turned over to the FBI.

Asked if he thought Patricia had been forced to make her critical statements, Bates said: "I don't know but I think it's a logical assumption."

The kidnapers said the food giveaway program set up by Miss Hearst's father, newspaper editor Randoph A. Hearst, did not meet their demands and was a "sham."

They also said before Miss Hearst can be released, two SLA members in custody awaiting trial for murder must be given broadcast time on nationwide television to tell how they have been treated during confinement.

The prosecutor of the two accused men said their lawyers "must make the first move" on that demand. Alameda County Dist. Atty. Lowell Jensen said last night that the defense attorneys for Joseph Remiro, 29, and Russell Little, 26, "are calling the shots." However, he said, the court would make the final decision.

The SLA, which abducted Miss Hearst from her Berkeley apartment on Feb. 4, made the television demand in a tape recording received Saturday night by San Francisco radio station KSAN-FM.

Miss Hearst, 20, also said that her family has displayed an "indifference to the poor" for not providing more money for the food program.

The tapes were the first word received by the Hearst family in 16 days. There were several inaudible sections. However, these were clarified Sunday night when the SLA left a copy in a small San Francisco movie theater.

Report On Gnoss Field On Agenda

The Novato City Council will have a hearing on the Gnoss Field master plan and environmental impact report at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The master plan, which calls for $7.3 million in improvements at the county airport north of Novato, was referred to the city for comment.

Body Of Man Found In Park

The body of a 29-year-old Oakland man, Daniel Dolittle, was found in Samuel P. Taylor State Park yesterday, slumped over a sawed-off shotgun, a shotgun wound in his forehead.

The body was found by Clayton Shinn of Novato, according to the coroner's office. It appeared to have been there, about 40 yards from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, more than two days.

The 12 gauge shotgun with which he shot himself had been purchased Thursday, the sheriff's department reported.

Teacher Policy Airing Tonight

Mill Valley School District plans for laying off teachers in order to meet the district budget for next year will be discussed by the district board today at 8 p.m. at Alto-Edna Maguire School.

Supt. Peter Palches said that nine letters of dismissal were sent to teachers Friday.

District Business Mgr. Carroll D. Killingsworth will also present details of a proposed plan to encourage teachers to retire before age 65.

OBITUARIES

Randolph Pettersen, Ex-Supervisor, Dies

Randolph N. (Rudy) Pettersen, whose lengthy and varied career included stints as a seafarer, boxing champion, bridge builder and Marin County politician, died Saturday in a Martinez convalescent hospital at the age of 86.

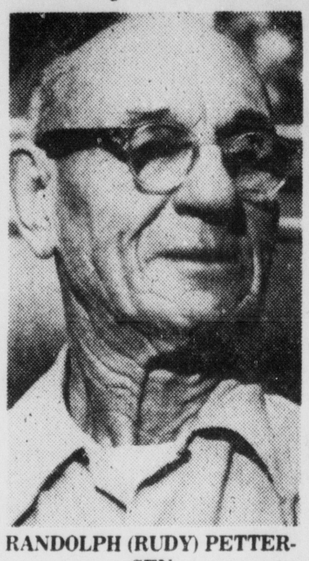

He was a former Marin County supervisor and Sausalito city councilman.

Pettersen was born in Norway, one of 16 children of a pattern maker at an iron foundry in Bergen. In 1902, after eight years of grammar school, he began a career of sailing, first going to sea on a Norwegian ship.

His early years at sea were spent plying between the world's ports on vessels from a dozen countries. He later recounted memories of typhoons, exotic ports and the monotony of shipboard food in the days before refrigeration.

After a number of years at sea, Pettersen joined the U.S. revenue cutter service, the forerunner of the Coast Guard. From there, he began sailing on private yachts, and it was as mate on the yacht Seafarer that he first came to Marin County.

From 1914 to 1916 he sailed the boat out of Sausalito, and about the same time he joined the Olympic Club in San Francisco, and earned the international light heavy and heavyweight championships under the club's banner.

During World War I, Pettersen worked as a rigger, going to work at the close of the war as first mate and pilot aboard the ferries which ran between Sausalito and San Francisco.

In 1920 he went into business for himself, buying an 80-ton steamer and shipping milk and other commodities as the Marin Transportation Co.

He later sold the business, and in 1929 he started to work on the Golden Gate Bridge project as rigger and barge foreman, maintaining later that he was the only man who worked on the bridge from start to finish.

During the years of the bridge's construction, Pettersen entered politics, serving 14 years as a Sausalito city councilman. He also was a county supervisor from 1937 to 1939, appointed by the governor to fill an unexpired term.

Before World War II, Pettersen retired and moved with his late wife, Emily to "Viking's Rest," a home he built in Forest Knolls. Earlier, Pettersen had built 24 houses in Sausalito.

Pettersen was a member of San Rafael Lodge No. 1108, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

He is survived by two daughters, Adeline Thompson of Martinez and Rosalind Pettersen of San Francisco, three grandsons and two great-granddaughters.

The funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

JOHN LUC

John T. Luc of Antioch, publisher of the Tiburon Ebb Tide, died yesterday in a Sacramento hospital following open heart surgery Feb. 21. He was 47.

Luc, a six-year resident of Tiburon who recently moved to Antioch, bought the Ebb Tide in 1968. He was also head of Marin Addressing Service, a Tiburon business established in 1969.

Luc, a longtime pilot who championed the cause of the private airplane enthusiast, founded California Flying Magazine in 1972, a statewide publication.

He was born in New Orleans, La.

He entered the Air Force as a young man and became an accomplished air traffic controller, receiving a variety of commendations during a 26-year career with the military.

A combat veteran, Luc saw duty in the China-Burma-India campaigns of World War II. He was one of the last Americans to escape Quelin, China, before the Japanese invasion there, and survived for two months behind enemy lines as he made his way through the jungle to meet Allied forces.

He is credited with building the first air traffic control facility in Korea during the Korean War. He also served with the U-2 program at Yucca Flats, Nev.

He retired from military service in 1968 at Hamilton Air Force Base with the rank of chief master sergeant.

He was an accomplished photojournalist and knowledgeable in all aspects of weekly newspaper production. "A newspaperman's work is never done," he once told a reporter.

He was a member of Sigma Delta Chi, a national journalist society; the National Pilots Association, and other pilot organizations.

He is survived by his wife, Nadine; three sons, John Luc Jr. of Miami, Fla.; Fred A. Luc of Baltimore, Md., and David R. Luc of Novato; a daughter, Sheryl Rose Villerot Gadbury of Illinois; his mother, Mrs. Edward Trebes of Tampa, Fla; a sister, Mrs. Anne McEwan of Tampa; a brother, Edward Trebes Jr., of Tampa, and four grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at St. Hilary's Church in Tiburon.

Burial will be with full military honors.

L.R. MEDEIROS

Mass of Christian Burial for Lionel R. Medeiros, assistant administrator of the San Rafael Post Office, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. James Catholic Church in Petaluma.

Medeiros, 45, died Friday in a San Mateo hospital after being suddenly taken ill.

A native of Provincetown, Mass., he lived in Southern Sonoma the last four years. He was a graduate of the Massachusetts Maritime Academy and spent more than 17 years as a captain in the Merchant Marine. Most of his life was spent in the yacht sales business on the East Coast.

He moved to San Francisco in 1965, working for the Postal service there for two years before taking the San Rafael post.

He was a member of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association of America.

Survivors include his wife, Sheila Medeiros of 1625 Putnam Way, Petaluma; a daughter, Roberta Medeiros of Petaluma; a sister, Gloria Hautenan of Provincetown, and his mother, Agnes Medeiros of Provincetown.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at the Sorensen Funeral Home. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery, Petaluma.

FRANK WHITMIRE

Frank Whitmire of 106 Washington Street, a longtime Petaluma resident, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness. He was 67.

Born in Arkansas, he was an engineer. During his 35 years in Southern Sonoma he worked for several Bay Area construction companies. He also was a salesman for the Bourke Hatchery in Petaluma, and he owned Bunce's grocery store on Petaluma Boulevard South for several years.

Survivors include two daughters, Donna Meer of Petaluma and Glendora Law of Bellview, Wash.; two brothers, James B. Whitmire of Davis and A. W. Whitmire of Idaho; a sister, Bertha Acord of Fresno, and four grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Parent Funeral Chapel. Burial will be in Cypress Hill Memorial Park, Petaluma.

EDWARD PINGER

Private funeral will be tomorrow for Edward B. Pinger of Tiburon.

Pinger, 53, of 11 Seadrift Landing, was found dead in his bed by the manager of his apartment building at 8 p.m. Friday, according to the Marin County Coroner's office. An autopsy was planned.

A native of New York, Pinger, general manager of a burglar alarm system firm, was a resident of California since 1937. He lived in Marin County two years.

Surviving are two sons, Edward B. Pinger, Jr. and Whitney A. Pinger, both of San Francisco, and a sister, Barbara P. Riordan of Berkeley.

Burial will be at Skylawn Memorial Park, San Mateo.

Planners To Review General Plan

The San Rafael Planning Commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the public works conference room at city hall to continue its review of the first two chapters of the preliminary general plan.

No public discussion will be permitted at the workshop meeting, according to the planning department.

Project Report Will Be Studied

Whether or not to accept the proposed environmental impact report for the Hilarita moderate income housing project in Tiburon will be discussed by the Tiburon City Council today at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Accepting the report is one of the final steps that must be taken before construction can begin on the long delayed project, according to Jean Ellingsen, planning secretary.

Moratorium On Council Agenda

The Sausalito City Council is to vote on a moratorium on development when it meets at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway.

The development freeze is being proposed to allow the city time to complete a traffic study.

Councilmen also are expected to set a special election on the 12-unit Glen Grove condominium project, which was approved by the council and protested in a referendum petition signed by 611 citizens.

Girl Born To Natalie Wood

The infant, delivered by caesarian section late Saturday night.

Know Your P's and Q's About Plate Collecting?

WANTED: One rare, gilt-edge plate in pure white translucent china—hand-painted with a garland of wild roses. You find this prize plate in a jungle of antiques at a garage sale and buy it for $10.

THE YEAR is 1979. An eager collector wants to buy your wild rose plate for $395! If you sell it, you suddenly make $385, because you knew how to spot a "sleeper" with true artistic worth and rarity.

Will this plate multiply in value to 10, 15 or even 20 times its original price as other plates have done?

For instance, a china plate first priced at only $10 in 1969 now brings $245. Another exceptional plate originally priced at $25 in 1965 now sells for $1,050.

WHAT is the secret of success in collecting plates for profit? A suburban Chicago art dealer says, "The amateur collector needs professional guidance. You should know what to look for, when to buy, and much more."

According to this dealer, when you know the guidelines, there's much more than profit in collecting rare plates. There's pride of ownership almost unequalled by any other hobby. There's the joy of discovering stunning porcelain, glass, pewter, or silver plates for dramatic wall displays.

You can choose designs by Pablo Picasso, Grandma Moses, André Restieau, Andrew Wyeth, and other noted artists. There are all kinds of themes—nature scenes, stirring historical events, childhood vignettes, portraits of world heros, and much more.

FREE INFORMATION. To help you get started in the rewarding hobby of plate collecting, this dealer now offers free information on request. It tells how to choose potentially priceless heirlooms for as little as $15 or $20. Individuals (not dealers) are invited to send for the free facts without obligation. To get yours, send your name, address, and zip code to Bradford Galleries, 996-F Sunset Ridge, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Please mail your request by March 23, 1974, to reserve your free copy while the supply lasts.

difficult to accept the feeling of no longer being needed on the job. Contact is lost with close work associates. Even in the family, there is quite often a loss of dignity and status.

If he hasn't developed any interests beyond those connected with his work, if he offers little more to the family than his presence under-foot 24-hours-a-day, he finds himself isolated, and while isolation doesn't cause illness, it does increase the chances of physical or emotional disturbances.

Whatever the precise percentage adversely affected by retirement may be, the problem exists and, psychologically, retirement at 65 does mean "going over the hill" for many. But it doesn't have to. The main factor in growing old is inactivity. That is why the experts insist that anyone approaching retirement ag should involve himself in actively preparing for it.

The old notion of retirement as a withdrawal into seclusion, a shrinking from society, is obsolete. Retirement is a perfectly normal eveolution in the pattern of living.

According to Mortimer Adler, retirement "should be a transition from toil to leisure . . . from devoting part of one's time to earning a living to devoting all of it to living well." It should be thought of as a graduation, a moving up from a lower to a higher grade of life.

There is no set time which is best for retirement. Nor is there an exact definition of "old age." It hits each of us at a different age. Its timing depends on many factors: the kind of work one does; family responsibilities; the state of one's health; one's financial resources. It also depends on your temperament and personal goals. Most recent research into intellectual retention shows that the mind remains alert and active far beyond middle age.

Proof of this is all around us. Verdi produced Falstaff at age 80; Agatha Christie was writing novels in her 80s; David Ben-Gurion was active through his mid-80s.

One's mind can be active well into the 80s. The only thing we know for certain is that someday each of us must make the switch from making a living to some less demanding activity which we should be prepared to continue for some time to come because retirement can last for decades.

Fifteen to 20 years can be a long time, surely enough time for you to want to do something much more satisfying than to just sit around and vegetate.

Physical or mental decline in age is largely a matter of attitude. But one who is prepard and has the proper outlook toward retirement knows that age is no obstacle to achievement and fulfillment.

Housing Policy

The proposed housing policy for the Srawberry area and Ring Mountain master plans will be discussed by the Marin County Planning Commission, the Ring Mountain Advisory group and the Strawberry Area Community Council in a joint meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Strawberry Recreation Center, according to Sandra Dorsaneo, community council secretary.

Quesada Files For Election

George C. Quesada, outgoing Novato city councilman, has filed for a seat on the Novato Sanitary District board in the June 4 election.

Quesada, who didn't seek re-election to the council, has advocated that the city absorb the sanitary district. "I think the sanitary district should be done away with and put in the city," he said.

The district and the city boundaries are about 84 per cent contiguous, Quesada said.

Quesada's entry brought the field to eight candidates for three seats.

Novato School Budget To Get A First Look

An estimate on a preliminary budget for the 1974-75 school year is scheduled to be presented to the Novato Unified School District board at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato High School lecture hall.

Eugene DeBrecht, assistant superintendent, business, said the estimate, not yet completed, is expected to be ready by the time the board meets. The district's budget last year was $11,701,771.

The board also is scheduled to have a closed session to instruct its representatives on negotiations with teachers.

Marinite Heads Research Group

Dr. Jared B. Sharon of Fairfax has been named president of the New Voter Educational Research Foundation, a San Rafael-based organization that prepares material for citizenship education in California schools.

Dr. Sharon is assistant dean of instruction and director of community college development at the College of Marin. He replaces Marin County Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer, who resigned to run for county clerk.

Lotte Schiller of Mill Valley, a trustee of Tamalpais High School District, and Barbara Stidham of Terra Linda, were named educational vice president and administrative vice president, respectively.

Subdivision Map Is Before Council

The Rohnert Park City Council will meet at 7 p.m. today in city hall to consider approval of a final map for a 196-unit subdivision proposed by the Forhim Corp.

Also scheduled for consideration is the purchase of a new fire truck and several police vehicles. A council meeting last Monday was adjourned until today because a lengthy discussion of city wells preempted several other agenda items.

they went to the cafeteria Saturday.

FBI agent in charge Charles W. Bates said all three copies had been sent to FBI headquarters in Washington for analysis. The SLA had demanded in the recordings that the tapes not be turned over to the FBI.

Asked if he thought Patricia had been forced to make her critical statements, Bates said: "I don't know but I think it's a logical assumption."

The kidnapers said the food giveaway program set up by Miss Hearst's father, newspaper editor Randoph A. Hearst, did not meet their demands and was a "sham."

They also said before Miss Hearst can be released, two SLA members in custody awaiting trial for murder must be given broadcast time on nationwide television to tell how they have been treated during confinement.

The prosecutor of the two accused men said their lawyers "must make the first move" on that demand. Alameda County Dist. Atty. Lowell Jensen said last night that the defense attorneys for Joseph Remiro, 29, and Russell Little, 26, "are calling the shots." However, he said, the court would make the final decision.

The SLA, which abducted Miss Hearst from her Berkeley apartment on Feb. 4, made the television demand in a tape recording received Saturday night by San Francisco radio station KSAN-FM.

Miss Hearst, 20, also said that her family has displayed an "indifference to the poor" for not providing more money for the food program.

The tapes were the first word received by the Hearst family in 16 days. There were several inaudible sections. However, these were clarified Sunday night when the SLA left a copy in a small San Francisco movie theater.

Frank Whitmire of 106 Washington Street, a longtime Petaluma resident, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness. He was 67.

Born in Arkansas, he was an engineer. During his 35 years in Southern Sonoma he worked for several Bay Area construction companies. He also was a salesman for the Bourke Hatchery in Petaluma, and he owned Bunce's grocery store on Petaluma Boulevard South for several years.

Survivors include two daughters, Donna Meer of Petaluma and Glendora Law of Bellview, Wash.; two brothers, James B. Whitmire of Davis and A. W. Whitmire of Idaho; a sister, Bertha Acord of Fresno, and four grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Parent Funeral Chapel. Burial will be in Cypress Hill Memorial Park, Petaluma.

EDWARD PINGER

Private funeral will be tomorrow for Edward B. Pinger of Tiburon.

Pinger, 53, of 11 Seadrift Landing, was found dead in his bed by the manager of his apartment building at 8 p.m. Friday, according to the Marin County Coroner's office. An autopsy was planned.

A native of New York, Pinger, general manager of a burglar alarm system firm, was a resident of California since 1937. He lived in Marin County two years.

Surviving are two sons, Edward B. Pinger, Jr. and Whitney A. Pinger, both of San Francisco, and a sister, Barbara P. Riordan of Berkeley.

Burial will be at Skylawn Memorial Park, San Mateo.

Planners To Review General Plan

The San Rafael Planning Commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the public works conference room at city hall to continue its review of the first two chapters of the preliminary general plan.

No public discussion will be permitted at the workshop meeting, according to the planning department.

Project Report Will Be Studied

Whether or not to accept the proposed environmental impact report for the Hilarita moderate income housing project in Tiburon will be discussed by the Tiburon City Council today at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Accepting the report is one of the final steps that must be taken before construction can begin on the long delayed project, according to Jean Ellingsen, planning secretary.

Moratorium On Council Agenda

The Sausalito City Council is to vote on a moratorium on development when it meets at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway.

The development freeze is being proposed to allow the city time to complete a traffic study.

Councilmen also are expected to set a special election on the 12-unit Glen Grove condominium project, which was approved by the council and protested in a referendum petition signed by 611 citizens.

Know Your P's and Q's About Plate Collecting?

WANTED: One rare, gilt-edge plate in pure white translucent china – hand-painted with a garland of wild roses. You find this prize plate in a jungle of antiques at a garage sale and buy it for $10.

THE YEAR is 1979. An eager collector wants to buy your wild rose plate for $395! If you sell it, you suddenly make $385, because you knew how to spot a "sleeper" with true artistic worth and rarity.

FICTION? Not altogether. Today, many average people with only average incomes make money buying and selling collector's plates while they enjoy one of the most fascinating of all hobbies.

Will this plate multiply in value to 10, 15 or even 20 times its original price as other plates have done?

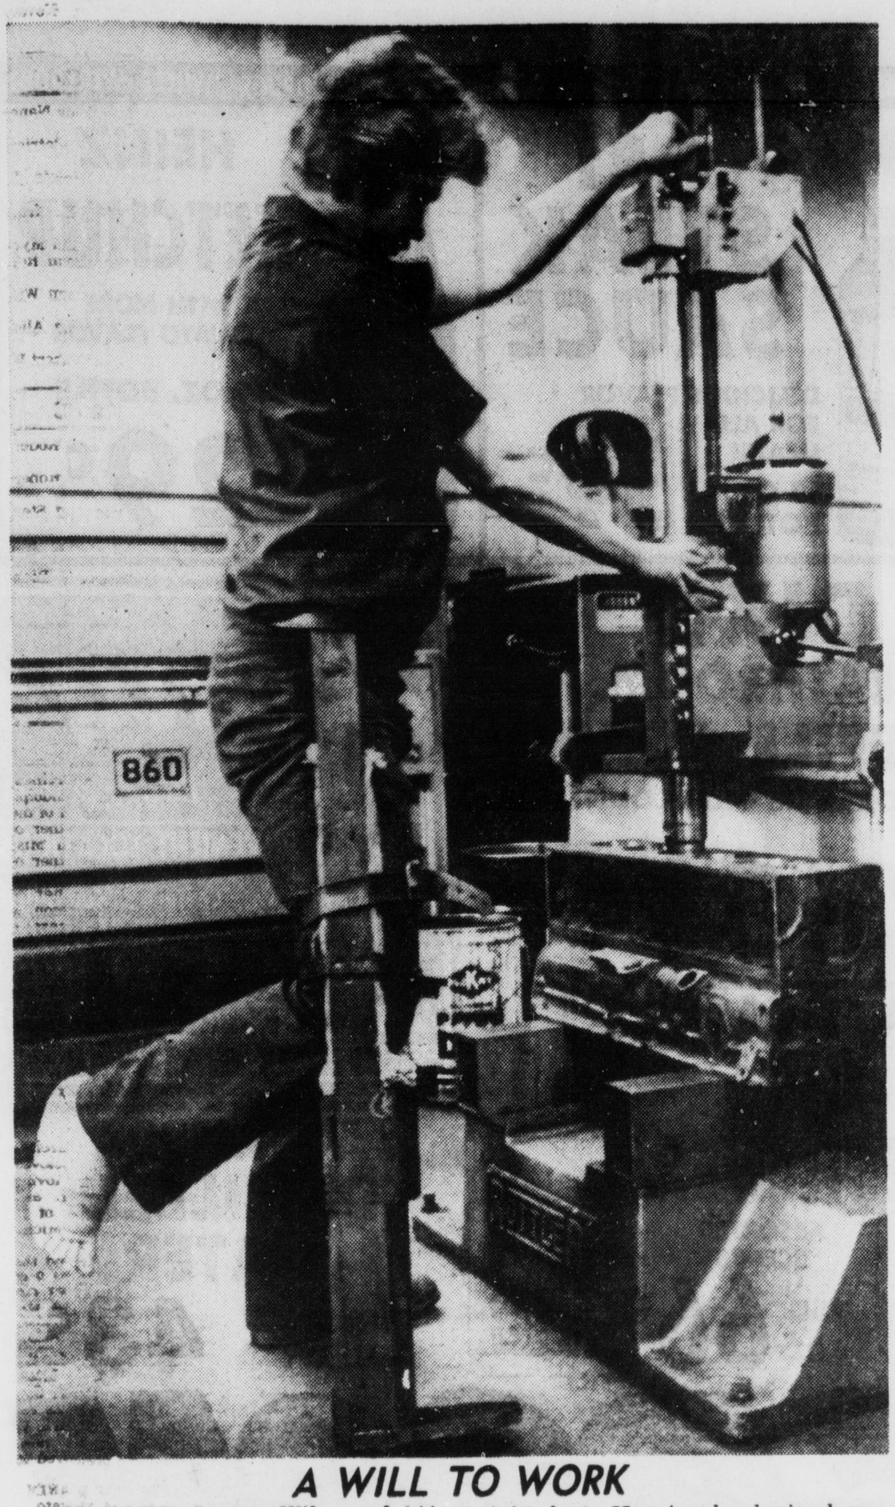

For instance, a china plate first priced at only $10 in 1969 now brings $245. Another exceptional plate originally priced at $25 in 1965 now sells for $1,050.

WHAT is the secret of success in collecting plates for profit? A suburban Chicago art dealer says, "The amateur collector needs professional guidance. You should know what to look for, when to buy, and much more."

According to this dealer, when you know the guidelines, there's much more than profit in collecting rare plates. There's pride of ownership almost unequalled by any other hobby. There's the joy of discovering stunning porcelain, glass, pewter, or silver plates for dramatic wall displays.

You can choose designs by Pablo Picasso, Grandma Moses, André Restieau, Andrew Wyeth, and other noted artists. There are all kinds of themes – nature scenes, stirring historical events, childhood vignettes, portraits of world heros, and much more.

FREE INFORMATION. To help you get started in the rewarding hobby of plate collecting, this dealer now offers free information on request. It tells how to choose potentially priceless heirlooms for as little as $15 or $20. Individuals (not dealers) are invited to send for the free facts without obligation. To get yours, send your name, address, and zip code to Bradford Galleries, 996-F Sunset Ridge, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Please mail your request by March 23, 1974, to reserve your free copy while the supply lasts.

Sadat Attempts New Oil Policy

CAIRO (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat called Arab oil ministers together today in a move to iron out differences leading to a delay in formal talks on lifting the petroleum embargo against the United States.

Nine Arab oil states agreed to meet in Tripoli, Libya, Wednesday to discuss the boycott after plans for full-scale talks in Cairo broke down yesterday when three of the nations failed to send representatives.

Egyptian government officials said Sadat met the oil ministers at the Western Desert resort where he is currently on a working vacation. No details of the meeting were released.

Sadat was pressing the Egyptian and Saudi Arabian line in favor of relaxing the oil embargo as the ministers prepared to leave for a full-scale conference in the Libyan capital of Tripoli Wednesday.

The meeting with Sadat today was attended by ministers fromsix Arab oil-producing nations and by envoys from the other three nations to be represented in Tripoli.

Egypt, anxious to repay the United States for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East peace efforts, called Sunday's session of Arab oil ministers in Cairo.

Oil ministers from six nations —Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, Bahrain and Abu Dhabi —showed up, but three Arab hardliners—Algeria, Libya and Syria—refused to appear.

Diplomatic sources said Egypt and Saudi Arabia might have tried to force a decision to end the embargo Sunday, but were persuaded by Kuwait to wait until the Tripoli meeting in order to preserve a semblance of Arab unity.

Kuwaiti Oil Minister Abdel Rahman Atiki met with Sadat at a western Egypt desert resort and later praised the Egyptian leader for "political wisdom and his keen desire to preserve Arab solidarity."

The ministers held only informal conversations Sunday in a hotel suite, never coming to the conference hall where they were to meet.

The Egyptian newspaper Al Akhbar said the ministers agreed at the discussions "to consider the question of lifting the embargo on the basis that the American attitude has changed and that lack of confidence in America has been removed."

Diplomatic sources said Algeria and Libya were opposed to ending the boycott, but the position of Syria, a traditional hardliner, was uncertain because of Kissinger's recent Middle East mission to Damascus.

The sources said Egypt had promised Washington the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries (OAPEC) would come to a decision on the embargo at Sunday's abortive meeting in Cairo.

The oil talks were originally scheduled to take place in Tripoli, but Egypt switched the site to Cairo, citing a lack of hotel rooms in Libya because of an international fair.

The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar said, however, Egypt actually made the switch because Libya "does not agree to the lifting of the Arab oil embargo against the United States."

The Arabs ordered the embargo, along with cuts in oil shipments to Europe, during last October's Middle East war in an effort to put political pressure on the West.

Bonanno Back With Family

SAN PEDRO (UPI) — Salvatore Bonanno, son of Mafia chieftain Joseph (Joe Bananas) Bonanno, spent his first weekend at his San Francisco-area home after serving three years of a five-year federal prison term.

The Bonannos were the subject of the popular book, "Honor Thy Father." Terminal Island prison officials said Bonanno, 41, was given two years off for good behavior but still owes $11,500 in fines and will be on probation for five years.

He was convicted of perjury, conspiracy, mail fraud, attempted extortion and concealing ownership of a home on Long Island, N.Y., to prevent the government from seizing it to settle a $50,000 tax claim. In recent years the younger Bonanno has lived in Campbell.

Mid-Income Food Price Pinch Less

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The rapid increase in food prices during the past year has treated upper and middle income consumers comparatively easier than the poor, the Agriculture Department indicated today.

The report showed the cost of feeding a family of four on a "liberal diet," including beef roasts and other comparatively higher-priced foods, reached $64.60 a week in January, up 19.4 per cent from a year earlier.

In the same period, the cost of feeding the same family on a "moderate diet" rose to $53.20 weekly, an increase of 20.6 per cent; a "low cost diet" climbed to $41.70 a week, 21.5 per cent above a year earlier, and an "economy diet," which is used as the basis for setting government food stamp allotments went up 22.3 per cent to $33.50 weekly.

The grocery estimates were made by tracing changes in average national retail prices for the individual foods included in the four sample diet plans prepared by Agriculture nutritionists as representative of what families at various income levels might buy.

All four diet plans are designed to provide adequate basic nutrition.

The difference is mainly in the kinds of foods used, with the upper income diets including more and higher-grade meats and other more costly foods. Lower cost diets include more of traditionally cheaper items such as beans and cereals.

A Legislative Plan To End Labor Strife

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Three liberal Assembly Democrats have proposed legislation designed to end California's farm labor strife by conducting secret elections to determine union representation.

The bill is backed by the AFL-CIO and United Farm Workers Union leader Cesar Chavez. It marks the first time the two allied unions have backed a farm labor elections bill.

The measure will be cosponsored by Assemblymen John Burton of San Francisco, Richard Alatorre of Los Angeles, and Alex Garcia of Los Angeles.

William Grant, director of organizing for the rival Teamsters Union, said the measure needs some modifications but generally believes "there is a good possibility of getting legislation now" to settle farm labor disputes.

Growers have withheld comment on the bill. In the past, they have insisted that such legislation contain protection against harvest-time strikes and secondary boycotts — features that are not included in the new bill.

The bill would create a full-time three-member Agricultural Workers Commission, named by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The commission would supervise the elections.

Earlier this year, the Senate killed farm labor legislation, and Assembly negotiators have been unable to iron out a compromise bill suitable to the UFW, Teamsters and growers.

Sears Testifies Vesco's Actions 'Wild, Wild' on SEC Subpoena

NEW YORK (UPI) — Financier Robert L. Vesco "was wild, wild" and was being driven "up the wall" by the Securities and Exchange Commission's efforts to subpoena him and his executives shortly before the 1972 presidential elections, a witness at the Mitchell-Stans testified today.

Harry L. Sears, the star government witness in the trial of John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans, testified that he conveyed Vesco's state of mind to Mitchell, telling him how frantic Vesco was in his desire to circumvent the subpoenas.

Mitchell, former attorney general in the Nixon administration, and Stans, former commerce secretary, are on trial in federal court on charges of obstructingjustice, trying to impede an SEC investigation of Vesco in exchange for his secret 1972 cash contribution of $200,000 to the Nixon campaign — and of lying to the grand jury about it.

Sears had testified previously that when subpoenas arrived for four Vesco executives on Oct. 20, 1972, Vesco had asked him to phone Mitchell in Washington for help.

Sears said Mitchell replied "This time I'm going to go to the White House — I'm going to call John Dean."

Dean at that time was counsel to President Nixon .

Elaborating on that testimony today, Sears said "I did not ask Mr. Mitchell to stop the subpoenas or that I had been asked to tell him to stop them.

"I told him Bob was up the wall regarding the subpoenas. I said he was wild, wild."

Sears said that Vesco was particularly worked up about the subpoena to him personally and said "there's no way I'm going to testify down there again."

Sears had testified earlier that Vesco was sure the SEC staff was going to ask him about the $200,000 contribution.

"Mr. Vesco asked me in no uncertain terms to call Mr. Mitchell and see if anything could be done about that subpoena."

Pressed by assistant attorney John R. Wing as to whether Vesco had not asked that Mitchell stop the subpoena, Sears replied: "Mr. Vesco asked me to call Mr. Mitchell and told me the subpoena was to be — stopped is as good a word as any, but I don't recall using that word."

When the four Vesco executives appeared at an SEC hearing late in October, they declined to answer on the grounds of their constitutional rights under the Fifth Amendment. When he advised Mitchell of that, Sears said, Mitchell, who was then Nixon's reelection chairman replied, "I'm sure relieved."

Another Kind Of Little-Noticed Pollution

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
8 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, MARCH 11, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

We hear a lot these days about pollution of the environment. Not only are air and water pollution recognized as dangerous, but increasingly such things as highways and high-rise buildings are attached as pollution in another form.

We hear little, however, about still another form of pollution which has increased as insidiously as that of air and water — and which has its own dangers: pollution of the language.

LANGUAGE POLLUTION causes words and expressions to take on different meanings, and finally to become meaningless. It robs the language of exactness. Already it has produced a new Babel in the English-speaking world.

Take, for instance, the world "gay." This has always — until lately — been a pleasant word, connoting light-heartedness, happiness, joy. But the language polluters have turned it into a dirty word, meaning homosexual.

Most of the language pollution is more subtle. We read daily, in newspapers and other periodicals, the world "incident" applied to murder, bombing, kidnaping, even massacre. To call My Lai an "incident" may have helped assuage the consciences of Lieutenant Calley and others involved, but it scarcely expressed the immensity of the tragedy.

Other words are adopted to gloss over other crimes. Wanton vandalism becomes "trashing." Theft is a "rip-off." Indecent behaviour masquerades as "self-expression."

Of course, we are all familiar with the White House-coined "inoperative statement," to gloss over the fact that a lie was told or incorrect information given.

NOWHERE, however, has this language pollution become more marked than in the recent misuse (yes, in this newspaper, too) of the term, "political crime."

Historically, a political crime is an act that is not itself criminal but is treated as criminal solely for political reasons. For instance, when American colonists hanged an effigy of King George III or a royal governor, that was a political crime. Hanging an effigy was no crime; the crime lay in criticizing the government. In those countries where tyranny still prevails, almost anything may be a political crime, depending on the governmental mood of the moment.

But we have seen the kidnaping of Patricia Hearst called a "political crime." The same term has been applied to the violent escape attempt of six San Quentin prisoners. Bombings of buildings have been called "political crimes." So have hijackings of aircraft.

These are not political crimes. They are crimes, period. The fact that someone attempts to clothe his criminal act in the costume of political dissent does not make the act less criminal. Kidnaping, murder, arson, hijacking, vandalism are crimes. If the motive is political blackmail, that makes them crimes no less.

THE DANGER in language pollution is that it muddies the thinging thus it leads to breakdown of the restraints of society — the restraints which have been found necessary over long centuries to lift man above the jungle life of other animals.

It is possible to allow air, land and water to become so polluted that their pollution will destroy civilization. It is possible also to allow language — the bridge which enables each generation to benefit from what its forebears learned instead of beginning all over again — to become so polluted that the same result follows.

"I think they have something meatier in mind."

Democrats Have Strange Worry: Afraid They May Win Too Big

Democrats fear too big a victory. They want to win decisively. They want to win big in this fall's congressional elections. They have every reason to be confident they will do so.

But there is a haunting anxiety they will do too well. What if they get a veto-proof Congress — so many Democratic seats in both House and Senate that, with any reasonable degree of party unity, they can be virtually sure of overriding a presidential veto of anything they pass?

That would mean that the Democratic Congress would have to take full responsibility for the size of the budget, for whatever deficit it caused, for every act and every failure to act on energy, inflation, prices — everything.

If the Democrats refused to cooperate with President Nixon and then, with a veto-proof Congress, failed to deliver, they would face, they fear, an acute backlash from the voters.

WHO'LL BE THE DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE? Like other cautious professionals, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., says he doesn't know, but here is his profile of the best kind of candidate the party should choose: "Get a man with knowledge, experience and integrity. Forget charisma."

WHERE DID U.S. MIDEAST POLICY ORIGINATE? The question is usually asked in terms of whether Nixon is carrying out Kissinger policy or whether Kissinger is carrying out Nixon policy. There is plenty of credit for both, but it deserves to be put into the record that to a very considerable extent both are carrying out William Scranton policy.

The former governor of Pennsylvania, who was the president's first choice for secretary of state, undertook a special mission to the Middle East at Mr. Nixon's request during the interregnum.

The simple, central theme which dominated the report he gave to the president-elect, when he met with him in his office in the Pierre Hotel in New York — Henry Kissinger was also present — was: In our own interests and in the interest of peace and stability in the Middle East, the United States must pursue a more even-handed policy toward the Arabs and the Israelis.

Scranton stressed the word "more" — a more even-handed policy because he held that the United States has a responsibility to help make Israel a viable and secure nation.

That is what Mr. Nixon and Kissinger have been doing ever since with remarkable success.

NO OIL CRISIS IN CHINA. That's the proud boast of the People's Republic of China. The Peking Journal, the Red Flag, proclaims that China is not only self-sufficient but has oil for export.

China's energy needs are not great. There are no privately owned automobiles and few official cars. China's millions either walk or ride bicycles.

But China used to be dependent on foreign oil. No longer. It produced 50 million tons of petroleum in 1973, and production is mounting. Japan will get a 50 per cent increase in oil deliveries from China this year.

INFLATION — WHO SUFFERS MOST? Obviously, rising prices hit everybody and hurt everybody. But there is one very sizable group of Americans which is more adversely affected than any other. That group comprises the 20 million senior citizens living in retirement on fixed incomes. There is little they can do when their heating bill doubles, when food prices skyrocket, and when gasoline prices mount. The 11 per cent increase in Social Security benefits helps — but not much.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK. On the state of the economy from economist Alan Greenspan: "Short of gravely mishandling the gasoline problems, the worst of the current economic difficulties may be close at hand. The president might turn out to be right after all; there might not be a real recession this year."

1974, Los Angeles Times.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON: A Wind From '29

SATELLITE BEACH, Fla. — In 1929 I had never been to Florida or much of anywhere else; yet the other night, as I rolled down Highway A1A past the "vacancy" signs, it occurred to me that maybe this was the way it felt then. The wind was out of the north-northwest and the temperature was down at freezing. It fit the news I picked up on first bounce from an all-news station in Washington:

President insists fuel crisis is past. Wholesale prices up again in February.

EVERY STORY about economics; every one bad news. I felt we had been down this road before, in a boom town in a boom time, and then the cold wind had come out of the north and the boom was gone and the promises blown away.

That was the fantasy part, perhaps. But the headlines were real. What happened here on the Space Coast of Florida has been an overstatement of the economic boom in the rest of the country; it is easy to use it now as a forecast of what is on the way.

Satellite Beach, the municipality, did not exist before Von Braun, Debus, Shepard and Glenn came down. Titusville did, and Cocoa and Merritt Island, up the highway, but the creation of the Kennedy Space Center changed them totally — I hesitate to say forever. Before the way they were described condescendingly as "citrus shipping" centers between Daytona and Fort Pierce. In the '60s they were overrun by engineers, construction workers and their camp followers. The demand for new houses and hotel space seemed unlimited. At its peak, the payroll in Brevard County hit 100,000.

THEN IT WAS DONE. Men were on the moon. The Space Coast celebrated, but briefly. The layoffs began. Already, the original pads and equipment out along the beach are rusting in the salt air and being overblown by the sand. Already there is a space nostalgia hobby under way, and collectors sift for pieces of space scrap the way others do for Civil War relics.

The NASA-Air Force payroll has been cut by more than half since its peak five years ago. Another 1,700 are on their way out now, with the end of the Skylab program. There are high hopes for the space shuttle, but that will not come till near the end of this decade. Overall, county employment is down to 83,000.

And yet, up through last year, the local economy kept growing. It had had infusions not only of space technicians, like my cousin Dick Adams in Titusville who worked for Boeing, but also of people who liked the area for its living conditions and spinoff job opportunities, like my boyhood pal Bob Craft who retired from the Air Force and settled here in computer software. Everybody I know seems to have a friend or relative who came to the Space Coast.

Many of those who left the space program went into real estate or tourism. Jim Guest, who departed the program five years ago, now has a realty company with half a dozen offices in the county and two outside. Retirees kept the turnover high. Despite the payroll drop, county retail sales were up 18.7 per cent in 1972 and another 35.7 per cent last year. Tom Myers, business editor of the Cocoa paper Today, called it "a prostitution economy — no visible means of support."

BUT TODAY the means have become all too visible — or invisible, because they have shrunk so. The gasoline shortage has reduced visitors nearly to the vanishing point. Ocean-front hotels, in high season, were begging for guests at $9 a night. The business that came over to the ocean from Walt Disney World near Orlando has dropped straight down, as the Disney take has dropped.

High interest rates have slowed the real estate turnover, although this would still be a dreamlike buyers' market if loans were freely available. In most of its particulars, the situation here parallels what is happening all the way up to Maine and across to the redwood coast of California.

And, as I headed south passing only occasional cars, past the hotels nearly dark, the headlines came out of Washington about the president's assurances on energy, his predictions against recession, and my mind rambled on about the parallels to 1929. It was one more time when deep inside I wanted to believe what he said, but what I could see with my own eyes made it hard to do.

1974, Baltimore Sun.

PAUL E. PETERZELL

There's Odor Of Watergate In State Lease Of Cabins

Planted on public park land on a scenic cliff above the ocean are 14 cabins held by powerful folk under exclusive leases with the state.

All these folk want is to keep the public out of the cabins. After all, they pay $41.66 a month to use them. Never mind that they would be worth $50,000 each if private. Never mind the 1972 state law that ordered the leases terminated 10 days ago.

AND NEVER DOUBT that power doesn't pay. Just take a look at deliberate attempts by the Parks and Recreation Department to rig it so present lease holders can stay put another 15 years. First, they renewed the leases an extra year by taking advantage of a loophole in the law, then waited until they were running out this year to draft a bidding prospectus on their future use by a "concessionaire."

The prospectus was written to insure the present lease holders have an edge on getting picked as the "concessionaire." These persons even got copies of the draft so they could be sure it was written to preserve their special advantage.

The department, however, had the gall last week to refuse to disclose provisions of the draft to the Independent-Journal. When pressed by a superior in the parent Resources Agency, they lied to him by saying no such document even existed.

They made this claim almost eight weeks after they had sent copies of the document to the lease holders, the I-J learned subsequently.

ESPECIALLY GALLING was the department's blatant violation of the California Public Records Act, which clearly made the document a public record. Frank Bechler, administrative assistant to the director of the department, William Penn Mott Jr., refused to even listen to pertinent sections of the act. He simply insisted it was his right to decide whether the document was public.

It seems noteworthy that neither Sen. Peter H. Behr nor Assemblyman William T. Bagley, both R-San Rafael, has spoken up during the current scheming over the future of the cabins.

THE BEST SOLUTION was offered by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, who happens to be running in Marin for his party's nomination for Congress. Burton told Mott the cabins should be torn down immediately and the site restored to its natural state.

Burton, of course, has an advantage over Bagley and Behr since he is a Democrat and presumably does not feel uncomfortable attacking a cozy deal worked out by the Reagan administration.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

If our leadership can be said to be lacking, so is the will of the people to make sound rather than emotional judgements on the problems which confront us. — John S. Knight.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY: Letters To The I-J

Outraged At 'Smear' Political Advertisement

As a San Anselmo citizen, I am not sufficiently familiar with the local issues in Fairfax to comment on the validity or lack of validity of the charges it contains, but it seems to me that the ad violates the I-J's own political advertising rules of ethics in two distinct areas: (1) The headline "Watergate West" has absolutely no bearing on the subject matter of the text and is just an attention-getting headline and an implied smear by identity transfer; (2) this particular ad was carried on the Saturday prior to the municipal election, without reasonable time for the candidates named therein to respond.

. . . I was outraged by it, as I have been by the whole political morass which this country has been subjected to. If we expect political office to be an honorable public service, we have to start right here at home. This sort of advertising certainly doesn't help.

JAMES F. REED

Time With Assistants Devoted To People

It is obvious "What came first in president's priorities?" (re: editorial of Feb. 27) was peace in our time. A review of the events of 1972 confirms the emphasis that President Nixon placed on foreign affairs and bringing the POW's home. The junior senator from Connecticut, Senator Weicker, in the breakdown of the White House log from June 20 to July 21, 1972, gives Henry Kissinger, the man conducting foreign affairs, 151 minutes of the president's time, 2,551 minutes in private conversation with Haldeman, 744 minutes with Colson and 734 minutes with John Erhlichmann, all Watergate figures, also, all the president's aides. However, the junior senator does not apportion any of the time the president spent with Halderman, Erhlichmann and Colson on the domestic affairs of state, during the period under scrutiny. Consequently, it would be most reasonable to assume that 4,200 minutes of the conversations that the president had with his aides, concerned the well being of 211 million inhabitants of these United States of America and, perhaps, 29 minutes, if any, devoted to Watergate.

It would appear to me that the best interests of the people would be served if the junior senator and the other 534 members, more or less, of Congress, would assume their legislative duties. One has only to look at their record of accomplishment to conclude that a congressionally-directed government would be a disaster.

C. E. BUDAR

Difficult Material Handled Expertly

I am writing to commend your women's editor, Barbara Hosmer, who wrote an article on some work I am doing with women in this community. I am a psychotherapist and much of the information I relayed to Barbara was technical. Also, I am not the easiest person to follow sometimes when I am speaking theoretically.

Barbara did an outstanding job of pulling together a number of complex concepts which resulted in the article, "A Social Worker's Attitudes Growing" in the Feb. 27 issue.

Thank you for having Barbara on your staff. She impresses me as an excellent heraldress of the myriad points of view currently being expressed by women during this time of great change.

Plenty Of Precedent For Banning Smoking

The rights of non-smokers are the subject of more and more discussion in Marin County, which is an encouraging development.

More information usually makes for better understanding. I would like to offer some . . .

Oakland recently passed an ordinance prohibiting smoking in most stores.

Smoking is excluded from city council chambers in Sunnyvale, Palo Alto, San Juan Capistrano, and Huntington Beach.

Arizona, finding that only 25 per cent of Arizona citizens smoke, has adopted legislation restricting smoking in elevators, buses, and public buildings. Violators are subject to a fine of $10 to $100.

Sacramento, . . . enacted an ordinance prohibiting smoking in public elevators, in the city council chambers, in theaters, in buses, in retail stores, and in halls and waiting rooms of health care facilities. It also prohibits smoking in restaurants holding 50 or more persons, unless the restaurant provides a "no smoking" area of at least 10 per cent of the seating.

. . . Non-smokers are a 2-to-1 majority in the population. The physically harmful effects of smoke on the non-smoker are medically established; moreover, many non-smokers are actually allergic to tobacco smoke. ### Canadian Slaughter Of Baby Seals Shocking

Every spring in the Gulf of St. Lawrence in Canada, Canadian hunters are allowed to crush the skulls of 50,000 seal pups. At this rate of destruction the seal will soon be extinct. There is one new regulation though; it is that a baby seal must be killed before it is skinned. That shocked me because I don't see how anybody could kill a baby seal, much less skin it alive. # Another Kind Of Little-Noticed Pollution

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

We hear a lot these days about pollution of the environment. Not only are air and water pollution recognized as dangerous, but increasingly such things as highways and high-rise buildings are attached as pollution in another form.

We hear little, however, about still another form of pollution which has increased as insidiously as that of air and water — and which has its own dangers: pollution of the language.

LANGUAGE POLLUTION causes words and expressions to take on different meanings, and finally to become meaningless. It robs the language of exactness. Already it has produced a new Babel in the English-speaking world.

Take, for instance, the world "gay." This has always — until lately — been a pleasant word, connoting light-heartedness, happiness, joy. But the language polluters have turned it into a dirty word, meaning homosexual.

Most of the language pollution is more subtle. We read daily, in newspapers and other periodicals, the world "incident" applied to murder, bombing, kidnaping, even massacre. To call My Lai an "incident" may have helped assuage the consciences of Lieutenant Calley and others involved, but it scarcely expressed the immensity of the tragedy.

Other words are adopted to gloss over other crimes. Wanton vandalism becomes "trashing." Theft is a "rip-off." Indecent behaviour masquerades as "self-expression."

Of course, we are all familiar with the White House-coined "inoperative statement," to gloss over the fact that a lie was told or incorrect information given.

NOWHERE, however, has this language pollution become more marked than in the recent misuse (yes, in this newspaper, too) of the term, "political crime."

Historically, a political crime is an act that is not itself criminal but is treated as criminal solely for political reasons. For instance, when American colonists hanged an effigy of King George III or a royal governor, that was a political crime. Hanging an effigy was no crime; the crime lay in criticizing the government. In those countries where tyranny still prevails, almost anything may be a political crime, depending on the governmental mood of the moment.

But we have seen the kidnaping of Patricia Hearst called a "political crime." The same term has been applied to the violent escape attempt of six San Quentin prisoners. Bombings of buildings have been called "political crimes." So have hijackings of aircraft.

These are not political crimes. They are crimes, period. The fact that someone attempts to clothe his criminal act in the costume of political dissent does not make the act less criminal. Kidnaping, murder, arson, hijacking, vandalism are crimes. If the motive is political blackmail, that makes them crimes no less.

THE DANGER in language pollution is that it muddies the thinging thus it leads to breakdown of the restraints of society — the restraints which have been found necessary over long centuries to lift man above the jungle life of other animals.

It is possible to allow air, land and water to become so polluted that their pollution will destroy civilization. It is possible also to allow language — the bridge which enables each generation to benefit from what its forebears learned instead of beginning all over again — to become so polluted that the same result follows.

"I think they have something meatier in mind."

Democrats Have Strange Worry: Afraid They May Win Too Big

Democrats fear too big a victory. They want to win decisively. They want to win big in this fall's congressional elections. They have every reason to be confident they will do so.

But there is a haunting anxiety they will do too well. What if they get a veto-proof Congress — so many Democratic seats in both House and Senate that, with any reasonable degree of party unity, they can be virtually sure of overriding a presidential veto of anything they pass?

That would mean that the Democratic Congress would have to take full responsibility for the size of the budget, for whatever deficit it caused, for every act and every failure to act on energy, inflation, prices — everything.

If the Democrats refused to cooperate with President Nixon and then, with a veto-proof Congress, failed to deliver, they would face, they fear, an acute backlash from the voters.

WHO'LL BE THE DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE? Like other cautious professionals, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., says he doesn't know, but here is his profile of the best kind of candidate the party should choose: "Get a man with knowledge, experience and integrity. Forget charisma."

WHERE DID U.S. MIDEAST POLICY ORIGINATE? The question is usually asked in terms of whether Nixon is carrying out Kissinger policy or whether Kissinger is carrying out Nixon policy. There is plenty of credit for both, but it deserves to be put into the record that to a very considerable extent both are carrying out William Scranton policy.

The former governor of Pennsylvania, who was the president's first choice for secretary of state, undertook a special mission to the Middle East at Mr. Nixon's request during the interregnum.

The simple, central theme which dominated the report he gave to the president-elect, when he met with him in his office in the Pierre Hotel in New York — Henry Kissinger was also present — was: In our own interests and in the interest of peace and stability in the Middle East, the United States must pursue a more even-handed policy toward the Arabs and the Israelis.

Scranton stressed the word "more" — a more even-handed policy because he held that the United States has a responsibility to help make Israel a viable and secure nation.

That is what Mr. Nixon and Kissinger have been doing ever since with remarkable success.

NO OIL CRISIS IN CHINA. That's the proud boast of the People's Republic of China. The Peking Journal, the Red Flag, proclaims that China is not only self-sufficient but has oil for export.

China's energy needs are not great. There are no privately owned automobiles and few official cars. China's millions either walk or ride bicycles.

But China used to be dependent on foreign oil. No longer. It produced 50 million tons of petroleum in 1973, and production is mounting. Japan will get a 50 per cent increase in oil deliveries from China this year.

INFLATION — WHO SUFFERS MOST? Obviously, rising prices hit everybody and hurt everybody. But there is one very sizable group of Americans which is more adversely affected than any other. That group comprises the 20 million senior citizens living in retirement on fixed incomes. There is little they can do when their heating bill doubles, when food prices skyrocket, and when gasoline prices mount. The 11 per cent increase in Social Security benefits helps — but not much.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK. On the state of the economy from economist Alan Greenspan: "Short of gravely mishandling the gasoline problems, the worst of the current economic difficulties may be close at hand. The president might turn out to be right after all; there might not be a real recession this year."

1974, Los Angeles Times.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON: A Wind From '29

SATELLITE BEACH, Fla. — In 1929 I had never been to Florida or much of anywhere else; yet the other night, as I rolled down Highway A1A past the "vacancy" signs, it occurred to me that maybe this was the way it felt then. The wind was out of the north-northwest and the temperature was down at freezing. It fit the news I picked up on first bounce from an all-news station in Washington:

President insists fuel crisis is past. Wholesale prices up again in February.

Postage increase takes effect.

EVERY STORY about economics; every one bad news. I felt we had been down this road before, in a boom town in a boom time, and then the cold wind had come out of the north and the boom was gone and the promises blown away.

That was the fantasy part, perhaps. But the headlines were real. What happened here on the Space Coast of Florida has been an overstatement of the economic boom in the rest of the country; it is easy to use it now as a forecast of what is on the way.

Satellite Beach, the municipality, did not exist before Von Braun, Debus, Shepard and Glenn came down. Titusville did, and Cocoa and Merritt Island, up the highway, but the creation of the Kennedy Space Center changed them totally — I hesitate to say forever. Before the way they were described condescendingly as "citrus shipping" centers between Daytona and Fort Pierce. In the '60s they were overrun by engineers, construction workers and their camp followers. The demand for new houses and hotel space seemed unlimited. At its peak, the payroll in Brevard County hit 100,000.

THEN IT WAS DONE. Men were on the moon. The Space Coast celebrated, but briefly. The layoffs began. Already, the original pads and equipment out along the beach are rusting in the salt air and being overblown by the sand. Already there is a space nostalgia hobby under way, and collectors sift for pieces of space scrap the way others do for Civil War relics.

The NASA-Air Force payroll has been cut by more than half since its peak five years ago. Another 1,700 are on their way out now, with the end of the Skylab program. There are high hopes for the space shuttle, but that will not come till near the end of this decade. Overall, county employment is down to 83,000.

And yet, up through last year, the local economy kept growing. It had had infusions not only of space technicians, like my cousin Dick Adams in Titusville who worked for Boeing, but also of people who liked the area for its living conditions and spinoff job opportunities, like my boyhood pal Bob Craft who retired from the Air Force and settled here in computer software. Everybody I know seems to have a friend or relative who came to the Space Coast.

Many of those who left the space program went into real estate or tourism. Jim Guest, who departed the program five years ago, now has a realty company with half a dozen offices in the county and two outside. Retirees kept the turnover high. Despite the payroll drop, county retail sales were up 18.7 per cent in 1972 and another 35.7 per cent last year. Tom Myers, business editor of the Cocoa paper Today, called it "a prostitution economy — no visible means of support."

BUT TODAY the means have become all too visible — or invisible, because they have shrunk so. The gasoline shortage has reduced visitors nearly to the vanishing point. Ocean-front hotels, in high season, were begging for guests at $9 a night. The business that came over to the ocean from Walt Disney World near Orlando has dropped straight down, as the Disney take has dropped.

High interest rates have slowed the real estate turnover, although this would still be a dreamlike buyers' market if loans were freely available. In most of its particulars, the situation here parallels what is happening all the way up to Maine and across to the redwood coast of California.

And, as I headed south passing only occasional cars, past the hotels nearly dark, the headlines came out of Washington about the president's assurances on energy, his predictions against recession, and my mind rambled on about the parallels to 1929. It was one more time when deep inside I wanted to believe what he said, but what I could see with my own eyes made it hard to do.

There's Odor Of Watergate In State Lease Of Cabins

Planted on public park land on a scenic cliff above the ocean are 14 cabins held by powerful folk under exclusive leases with the state.

All these folk want is to keep the public out of the cabins. After all, they pay $41.66 a month to use them. Never mind that they would be worth $50,000 each if private. Never mind the 1972 state law that ordered the leases terminated 10 days ago.

AND NEVER DOUBT that power doesn't pay. Just take a look at deliberate attempts by the Parks and Recreation Department to rig it so present lease holders can stay put another 15 years. First, they renewed the leases an extra year by taking advantage of a loophole in the law, then waited until they were running out this year to draft a bidding prospectus on their future use by a "concessionaire."

The prospectus was written to insure the present lease holders have an edge on getting picked as the "concessionaire." These persons even got copies of the draft so they could be sure it was written to preserve their special advantage.

The department, however, had the gall last week to refuse to disclose provisions of the draft to the Independent-Journal. When pressed by a superior in the parent Resources Agency, they lied to him by saying no such document even existed.

They made this claim almost eight weeks after they had sent copies of the document to the lease holders, the I-J learned subsequently.

ESPECIALLY GALLING was the department's blatant violation of the California Public Records Act, which clearly made the document a public record. Frank Bechler, administrative assistant to the director of the department, William Penn Mott Jr., refused to even listen to pertinent sections of the act. He simply insisted it was his right to decide whether the document was public.

It seems noteworthy that neither Sen. Peter H. Behr nor Assemblyman William T. Bagley, both R-San Rafael, has spoken up during the current scheming over the future of the cabins.

THE BEST SOLUTION was offered by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, who happens to be running in Marin for his party's nomination for Congress. Burton told Mott the cabins should be torn down immediately and the site restored to its natural state.

Burton, of course, has an advantage over Bagley and Behr since he is a Democrat and presumably does not feel uncomfortable attacking a cozy deal worked out by the Reagan administration.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY: Letters To The I-J

Outraged At 'Smear' Political Advertisement

As a San Anselmo citizen, I am not sufficiently familiar with the local issues in Fairfax to comment on the validity or lack of validity of the charges it contains, but it seems to me that the ad violates the I-J's own political advertising rules of ethics in two distinct areas: (1) The headline "Watergate West" has absolutely no bearing on the subject matter of the text and is just an attention-getting headline and an implied smear by identity transfer; (2) this particular ad was carried on the Saturday prior to the municipal election, without reasonable time for the candidates named therein to respond.

. . . I was outraged by it, as I have been by the whole political morass which this country has been subjected to. If we expect political office to be an honorable public service, we have to start right here at home. This sort of advertising certainly doesn't help.

Time With Assistants Devoted To People

It is obvious "What came first in president's priorities?" (re: editorial of Feb. 27) was peace in our time. A review of the events of 1972 confirms the emphasis that President Nixon placed on foreign affairs and bringing the POW's home. The junior senator from Connecticut, Senator Weicker, in the breakdown of the White House log from June 20 to July 21, 1972, gives Henry Kissinger, the man conducting foreign affairs, 151 minutes of the president's time, 2,551 minutes in private conversation with Haldeman, 744 minutes with Colson and 734 minutes with John Erhlichmann, all Watergate figures, also, all the president's aides. However, the junior senator does not apportion any of the time the president spent with Halderman, Erhlichmann and Colson on the domestic affairs of state, during the period under scrutiny. Consequently, it would be most reasonable to assume that 4,200 minutes of the conversations that the president had with his aides, concerned the well being of 211 million inhabitants of these United States of America and, perhaps, 29 minutes, if any, devoted to Watergate.

It would appear to me that the best interests of the people would be served if the junior senator and the other 534 members, more or less, of Congress, would assume their legislative duties. One has only to look at their record of accomplishment to conclude that a congressionally-directed government would be a disaster.

Plenty Of Precedent For Banning Smoking

The rights of non-smokers are the subject of more and more discussion in Marin County, which is an encouraging development.

More information usually makes for better understanding. I would like to offer some . . .

Oakland recently passed an ordinance prohibiting smoking in most stores.

Smoking is excluded from city council chambers in Sunnyvale, Palo Alto, San Juan Capistrano, and Huntington Beach.

Arizona, finding that only 25 per cent of Arizona citizens smoke, has adopted legislation restricting smoking in elevators, buses, and public buildings. Violators are subject to a fine of $10 to $100.

Sacramento, . . . enacted an ordinance prohibiting smoking in public elevators, in the city council chambers, in theaters, in buses, in retail stores, and in halls and waiting rooms of health care facilities. It also prohibits smoking in restaurants holding 50 or more persons, unless the restaurant provides a "no smoking" area of at least 10 per cent of the seating.

. . . Non-smokers are a 2-to-1 majority in the population. The physically harmful effects of smoke on the non-smoker are medically established; moreover, many non-smokers are actually allergic to tobacco smoke. The right of the non-smoker to air free from tobacco smoke pollution is a clear as the right of all to air free from auto exhaust pollution, and probably more so . . .

Synanon Considers Challenge Of Population Ordinance

Synanon Foundation, which has never felt much fondness for the Marin County Planning Department, is considering a federal court challenge of the planners' "population ordinance" covering agricultural lands.

According to Synanon attorneys, if a decision is made to proceed with the case they will also attempt to invalidate the county's agricultural zoning.

"I think it might be kind of a fun case," attorney Dan Garrett said.

The legal point is whether the county can restrict population as it relates to the ranching or farming of land.

THE "POPULATION ordinance" — not to be confused with the proposed growth control ordinance — was approved by supervisors in December.

Prior to its adoption, the zoning code carried no restriction on the number of persons who could live on land zoned for agriculture as long as they were actively engaged in farming or ranching.

Thus A-60 zoning limited the number of non-agricultural family dwellings to one per 60 acres but did not cover farm families.

The new ordinance limits population by saying three farm workers equals one dwelling under the zoning code. The number can be exceeded only under a use permit granted by the county.

There's no question that the new ordinance is aimed primarily at Synanon, which county officials fear may overdevelop its West Marin ranches.

It was first mentioned by planning officials during a discussion with supervisors about the number of persons living on Synanon ranches near Marshall.

As it stands, Synanon will need a county use permit if its population is to grow much beyond the current 550.

ELSEWHERE, it's nearing budget time again and, true to form, the Marin Aviation Commission has rolled out a set of figures showing Gnoss Field as a financial asset.

An asset, that is, if one only counts operational costs and forgets about capital improvement costs.

Taxes on airplanes, rents from private airplane firms and other sources of income to the county will total about $59,800 this year.

Costs of operating the airport will total about $55,000, for a net "profit" of $4,800.

To reach that figure, however, some $241,500 in capital improvements were omitted. Those funds come from both federal and local taxes.

Since the airport was taken over by the county, some $895,327 has been spent on capital improvements.

China Boosts Output Of Oil For Export

By DANIEL SOUTHERLAND

HONG KONG — While much of the world worries over the "oil crisis," China is proudly proclaiming that it has an abundance of oil.

"Not only self-sufficient, China now has oil for export," said the Peking journal Red Flag last month.

Of course, China's oil needs are not comparable to those of fully industrialized countries. China is a country without privately owned automobiles, and the state-owned cars that it does have are relatively few. The world's most populous nation runs largely on leg and arm power, not on gasoline.

But aside from the fact that their needs are few and their ways frugal, the Chinese have another reason to boast. China's oil production has risen steadily over the past few years.

EVEN THOSE EXPERTS who question some of the official statistics released by the Chinese consider the growth rate impressive. One Hong Kong expert goes so far as to call it "sensational."

Premier Chou En-lai was reported to have said that China produced 50 million tons of petroleum in 1973. That is about 40 per cent higher than the estimates that most western experts have come up with previously.

But the Chinese recently signed a new contract with Japan for a 50 per cent increase in oil deliveries this year.

In the late 1960s, a report prepared for the United Nations Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East spoke of the possibility of rich oil deposits lying in the continental shelf off China. The more optimistic assessment came more recently from an American oil executive, who said that China's offshore reserves might rival those of the Middle East.

AT ANY RATE, the Chinese are already producing enough oil to assist them with their foreign policy aims.

One of those aims has consistently been to limit the influence of the Soviet Union. The Chinese may think that if they can steadily increase their deliveries of oil to the Japanese, it will reduce the likelihood of Japan's accepting Soviet proposals for joint Russo-Japanese exploitation of Siberian reserves.

The Chinese are interested in importing sophisticated foreign equipment for their oilfields and refineries, and the Japanese seem to have the inside track in this field. They have provided China with a floating drill rig that is operating in Pohai Bay off Tientsin.

A Japanese corporation also has given the Chinese technical advice on the construction of an oil pipeline in northeastern China. But this may be where the Chinese draw the line.

While not adverse to importing equipment and technology, the Chinese still stress the importance of self-reliance in all their propaganda media.

Japanese and American firms have shown an interest in assisting the Chinese in the exploration and development of their oil reserves. But the Chinese say that they do not want joint ventures or help from foreign technicians.

The Chinese think that they were overdependent on Russian aid and technical advisers in the 1950s and are not eager to repeat that unhappy experience with any other foreigners.

Couple Seeking House Permit

A Corte Madera couple has applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for a permit to build a house along a Corte Madera Creek tributary in Larkspur.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin T. Boop plan to build the home with 1,600 square feet of floor area at Boardwalk No. 1 near Henry C. Hall School.

Persons wishing to object to the granting of the permit can do so by writing to the corps at 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, 94102 before April 5.

Corte Madera Council Sets Two Sessions

In unusual back-to-back sessions, the Corte Madera Town Council will meet tomorrow and Wednesday, both days at 7:30 p.m.

Skull Theft Arraignment Is Ordered

A Mill Valley gardener has been ordered to appear March 20 in Marin Superior Court for arraignment on a felony charge of stealing a skull from Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Bruce Edward Jackson, 22, was bound over last week following a preliminary hearing in municipal court.

Jackson is accused of breaking into a crypt the night of Feb. 3 and taking a skull from the grave of Harriette De Witt Kittle, who died in 1926 at the age of 79.

"You have questions about the 10¢ stamp. You deserve the answer."

Postmaster Hugh Cassidy, San Rafael, California 94901

All of us at your Post Office hear the questions about the 10¢ stamp. Nobody likes to see prices go up. Me, included. Still, I've found that when I tell people the whole story, most admit they feel a little better about the new stamp.

Sure our costs are going up. Probably just like at your house: heat, light bills, cars and even wages have gone up quite a bit. You know as much about inflation as I do. But there's a lot more to the new stamp than that.

The idea is that the price of a stamp should pay the cost of delivering a letter.

Maybe not an earthshaking idea. But the plain fact is that postage hasn't paid the cost of delivering the mail for a long time.

Fact is, your tax dollars make up the difference. That isn't fair at all, if you think what it means. It can help keep stamp prices down. But a lot of people's taxes end up paying for somebody else's mail.

It's not too smart either. When the Post Office can regularly count on your tax money to bail it out of the hole, there's not as much reason to watch what things cost. Or worry about budgets.

This won't happen overnight. But brakes were put on the use of your tax money to subsidize postage. That means the price of postage goes up to pay the real costs of the mail. And this is being done fairly. So all kinds of mail, whether it's letters, packages, business mail or magazines, will be paying their own way—without your tax money.

Most of us who work here are trying hard as we can to do just that.

We know we won't please everybody, every time. What we're trying to do is strike a balance—to give the service that you want, and get a hold on the rising costs that all of us face today. I think most people are fair-minded enough to understand that, and want to pay their own way.

If you stop to think about it, you really get quite a lot for what you pay. If you're like most people, you take it for granted that your letter will go to anyone you want, anywhere in the country. We're proud you can. But it's still a whale of a bargain.

Synanon Considers Challenge Of Population Ordinance

Synanon Foundation, which has never felt much fondness for the Marin County Planning Department, is considering a federal court challenge of the planners' "population ordinance" covering agricultural lands.

According to Synanon attorneys, if a decision is made to proceed with the case they will also attempt to invalidate the county's agricultural zoning.

"I think it might be kind of a fun case," attorney Dan Garrett said.

The legal point is whether the county can restrict population as it relates to the ranching or farming of land.

THE "POPULATION ordinance" — not to be confused with the proposed growth control ordinance — was approved by supervisors in December.

Prior to its adoption, the zoning code carried no restriction on the number of persons who could live on land zoned for agriculture as long as they were actively engaged in farming or ranching.

Thus A-60 zoning limited the number of non-agricultural family dwellings to one per 60 acres but did not cover farm families.

The new ordinance limits population by saying three farm workers equals one dwelling under the zoning code. The number can be exceeded only under a use permit granted by the county.

There's no question that the new ordinance is aimed primarily at Synanon, which county officials fear may overdevelop its West Marin ranches.

It was first mentioned by planning officials during a discussion with supervisors about the number of persons living on Synanon ranches near Marshall.

As it stands, Synanon will need a county use permit if its population is to grow much beyond the current 550.

ELSEWHERE, it's nearing budget time again and, true to form, the Marin Aviation Commission has rolled out a set of figures showing Gnoss Field as a financial asset.

An asset, that is, if one only counts operational costs and forgets about capital improvement costs.

Taxes on airplanes, rents from private airplane firms and other sources of income to the county will total about $59,800 this year.

Costs of operating the airport will total about $55,000, for a net "profit" of $4,800.

To reach that figure, however, some $241,500 in capital improvements were omitted. Those funds come from both federal and local taxes.

Since the airport was taken over by the county, some $895,327 has been spent on capital improvements.

China Boosts Output Of Oil For Export

By DANIEL SOUTHERLAND

HONG KONG — While much of the world worries over the "oil crisis," China is proudly proclaiming that it has an abundance of oil.

"Not only self-sufficient, China now has oil for export," said the Peking journal Red Flag last month.

Of course, China's oil needs are not comparable to those of fully industrialized countries. China is a country without privately owned automobiles, and the state-owned cars that it does have are relatively few. The world's most populous nation runs largely on leg and arm power, not on gasoline.

But aside from the fact that their needs are few and their ways frugal, the Chinese have another reason to boast. China's oil production has risen steadily over the past few years.

EVEN THOSE EXPERTS who question some of the official statistics released by the Chinese consider the growth rate impressive. One Hong Kong expert goes so far as to call it "sensational."

Premier Chou En-lai was reported to have said that China produced 50 million tons of petroleum in 1973. That is about 40 per cent higher than the estimates that most western experts have come up with previously.

But the Chinese recently signed a new contract with Japan for a 50 per cent increase in oil deliveries this year.

In the late 1960s, a report prepared for the United Nations Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East spoke of the possibility of rich oil deposits lying in the continental shelf off China. The more optimistic assessment came more recently from an American oil executive, who said that China's offshore reserves might rival those of the Middle East.

AT ANY RATE, the Chinese are already producing enough oil to assist them with their foreign policy aims.

One of those aims has consistently been to limit the influence of the Soviet Union. The Chinese may think that if they can steadily increase their deliveries of oil to the Japanese, it will reduce the likelihood of Japan's accepting Soviet proposals for joint Russo-Japanese exploitation of Siberian reserves.

The Chinese are interested in importing sophisticated foreign equipment for their oilfields and refineries, and the Japanese seem to have the inside track in this field. They have provided China with a floating drill rig that is operating in Pohai Bay off Tientsin.

A Japanese corporation also has given the Chinese technical advice on the construction of an oil pipeline in northeastern China. But this may be where the Chinese draw the line.

While not adverse to importing equipment and technology, the Chinese still stress the importance of self-reliance in all their propaganda media.

Japanese and American firms have shown an interest in assisting the Chinese in the exploration and development of their oil reserves. But the Chinese say that they do not want joint ventures or help from foreign technicians.

The Chinese think that they were overdependent on Russian aid and technical advisers in the 1950s and are not eager to repeat that unhappy experience with any other foreigners.

Couple Seeking House Permit

A Corte Madera couple has applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for a permit to build a house along a Corte Madera Creek tributary in Larkspur.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin T. Boop plan to build the home with 1,600 square feet of floor area at Boardwalk No. 1 near Henry C. Hall School.

Persons wishing to object to the granting of the permit can do so by writing to the corps at 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, 94102 before April 5.

Corte Madera Council Sets Two Sessions

In unusual back-to-back sessions, the Corte Madera Town Council will meet tomorrow and Wednesday, both days at 7:30 p.m.

Councilmen will canvass last week's election returns and elect a mayor Tuesday in town hall. Wednesday's meeting will be "study session" with developers of Madera del Presidio in the recreation room of the fire department.

Skull Theft Arraignment Is Ordered

A Mill Valley gardener has been ordered to appear March 20 in Marin Superior Court for arraignment on a felony charge of stealing a skull from Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Bruce Edward Jackson, 22, was bound over last week following a preliminary hearing in municipal court.

Jackson is accused of breaking into a crypt the night of Feb. 3 and taking a skull from the grave of Harriette De Witt Kittle, who died in 1926 at the age of 79.

"You have questions about the 10¢ stamp. You deserve the answer."

Postmaster Hugh Cassidy, San Rafael, California 94901

All of us at your Post Office hear the questions about the 10¢ stamp. Nobody likes to see prices go up. Me, included. Still, I've found that when I tell people the whole story, most admit they feel a little better about the new stamp.

Sure our costs are going up. Probably just like at your house: heat, light bills, cars and even wages have gone up quite a bit. You know as much about inflation as I do. But there's a lot more to the new stamp than that.

The idea is that the price of a stamp should pay the cost of delivering a letter.

Maybe not an earthshaking idea. But the plain fact is that postage hasn't paid the cost of delivering the mail for a long time.

Fact is, your tax dollars make up the difference. That isn't fair at all, if you think what it means. It can help keep stamp prices down. But a lot of people's taxes end up paying for somebody else's mail.

It's not too smart either. When the Post Office can regularly count on your tax money to bail it out of the hole, there's not as much reason to watch what things cost. Or worry about budgets.

This won't happen overnight. But brakes were put on the use of your tax money to subsidize postage. That means the price of postage goes up to pay the real costs of the mail. And this is being done fairly. So all kinds of mail, whether it's letters, packages, business mail or magazines, will be paying their own way—without your tax money.

Our job at the Post Office is only to give you good service—at cost. Most of us who work here are trying hard as we can to do just that.

We know we won't please everybody, every time. What we're trying to do is strike a balance—to give the service that you want, and get a hold on the rising costs that all of us face today. I think most people are fair-minded enough to understand that, and want to pay their own way. If you stop to think about it, you really get quite a lot for what you pay. If you're like most people, you take it for granted that your letter will go to anyone you want, anywhere in the country. We're proud you can. But it's still a whale of a bargain.

U.S. MAIL

You have questions. We want you to have the answers.

A Holdout Surrender In The Philippines

LUBANG ISLAND, Philippines (UPI) — The stooped Japanese officer, tattered clothes hanging from his bony body, snapped to attention, saluted sharply and handed over his rusty samurai sword.

"Victory or defeat, I have done my best," Lt. Hiroo Onoda, a World War II holdout for nearly three decades, said as he emerged from the Philippine jungles and surrendered.

The straggler presented his sword to Maj. Gen. Jose L. Rancudo last night at a Philippine Air Force outpost on Lubang Island. He then flew to Manila and met today with President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

"I'm happy for the Japanese people for the recovery of this brave Japanese soldier," Marcos, the Philippines' most-decorated World War II hero, said during his televised meeting with Onoda.

The president noted the problems of modern life and said "it's our hope that on your return to civilization you will not find it so confusing and perilous that you would rather find yourself back in the jungle."

Onoda, who surrendered on his 52nd birthday, was the second Japanese World War II straggler to be found alive in the Pacific. Sgt. Shoichi Yokoi was discovered in January, 1972, in the jungles of Guam.

The five-foot, three-inch officer said he had stayed in the jungle because of orders from his former commander, Maj. Yoshimi Taniguchi, to refuse to surrender even if the Japanese army were destroyed.

Onoda came to the attention of Philippine authorities in October, 1972, when he and another Japanese holdout clashed with a five-man police patrol.

His companion, Pfc. Kinsh Ichi Kozuka, was killed in the fighting, but Onoda escaped and eluded authorities during an ensuing, five-month search.

Taniguchi, 63, the holdout's former commander, finally traveled to the Philippines and posted "cease-fire orders" throughout Lubang Island last week in a move to get Onoda to surrender.

"I am a soldier," Onoda said in explaining why he waited until yesterday to surrender. "I have to follow orders. Without an order, I cannot come out."

Onoda, mustached and goateed, wore a Japanese military cap, a frayed grey shirt and tattered blue pants to the surrender ceremony on a lawn at the base on Lubang Island, 75 miles south of Manila.

Under the glare of television floodlights, he pulled his rusty sword out of its leather scabbard and handed the weapon to Rancudo. The Philippine general gave the sword back and called the holdout a "perfect example of a soldier."

Onoda said he had lived for the last 30 years on bananas, coconut and other native fruits. He said he was sick only twice, suffering fever because of working too hard.

Confusing Night At Opera House

SEATTLE (AP) — Opera and symphony patrons at the Opera House here found themselves unwillingly listening to a special kind of stereo-rock music from a lower floor in one ear and the music they paid to hear in the other.

The rock music came from a "hot boat and speed show" being held at the Seattle Center's Display Hall. The interference first occurred Saturday night during the opera production of Wagner's "Siegfried." On Sunday the final minutes of the Seattle Symphony performance were married by more rock music.

The opera's first intermission was extended for 15 minutes Saturday while Opera Association and Seattle Center officials negotiated with sponsors of the speed show. When all else failed, opera officials agreed to pay $250 and Seattle Center officials another $250 to the band to stop playing. It did.

Mondale Wants Nixon To Quit

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., who said he is considering running for President in 1976, said this weekend President Nixon should resign immediately.

"I think he should resign right now," Mondale said. "His moral credibility is gone."

Asked if he were going to run for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976, Mondale said "I am exploring the possibility."

Nostalgic Night At The Grand Ole Opry

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The paint is peeling off the old gray walls and plaster is coming off in chunks, but the thought of leaving Ryman Auditorium brought tears to Minnie Pearl's eyes.

"I hate to leave," said the country comedian. "It's killing me."

The Opry moves this Saturday to plush new quarters at the Opryland U.S.A. amusement complex on the outskirts of the city. President Nixon will attend the opening of the new Opry home.

"I'll never come back down here," Minnie said. "I just want to remember as it was, full of people."

There was little fanfare associated with the final performance although it was packed as usual.

"The thought of leaving hadn't bothered me really until tonight," said singer Hank Snow. "But you've got to realize that for the last 10 years this place has been a fire hazard.

"I'm sorry about leaving but I'd be more sorry to see it catch fire and burn up 2,500 people. I hate to leave this place but I'm looking forward to the space we'll have," Snow added.

Saturday night's performance made it obvious the major advantage of the new structure. It is air conditioned.

Hawkers did a booming business in hand-made fans among the final Saturday night crowd.

The Ryman, built in 1891 by reformed riverboat Capt. Thomas G. Ryman, was first designed as a tabernacle for a Georgia evangelist, the Rev. Sam Jones.

According to the legend Ryman attended a revival given by Jones and was so impressed he quit drinking and built the tabernacle.

The last fans at the Ryman had little to say about the move.

Nostalgic Night At The Grand Ole Opry

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The paint is peeling off the old gray walls and plaster is coming off in chunks, but the thought of leaving Ryman Auditorium brought tears to Minnie Pearl's eyes.

"I hate to leave," said the country comedian. "It's killing me."

The Opry moves this Saturday to plush new quarters at the Opryland U.S.A. amusement complex on the outskirts of the city. President Nixon will attend the opening of the new Opry home.

"I'll never come back down here," Minnie said. "I just want to remember as it was, full of people."

There was little fanfare associated with the final performance although it was packed as usual.

"The thought of leaving hadn't bothered me really until tonight," said singer Hank Snow. "But you've got to realize that for the last 10 years this place has been a fire hazard.

"I'm sorry about leaving but I'd be more sorry to see it catch fire and burn up 2,500 people. I hate to leave this place but I'm looking forward to the space we'll have," Snow added.

Saturday night's performance made it obvious the major advantage of the new structure. It is air conditioned.

Hawkers did a booming business in hand-made fans among the final Saturday night crowd.

The Ryman, built in 1891 by reformed riverboat Capt. Thomas G. Ryman, was first designed as a tabernacle for a Georgia evangelist, the Rev. Sam Jones.

According to the legend Ryman attended a revival given by Jones and was so impressed he quit drinking and built the tabernacle.

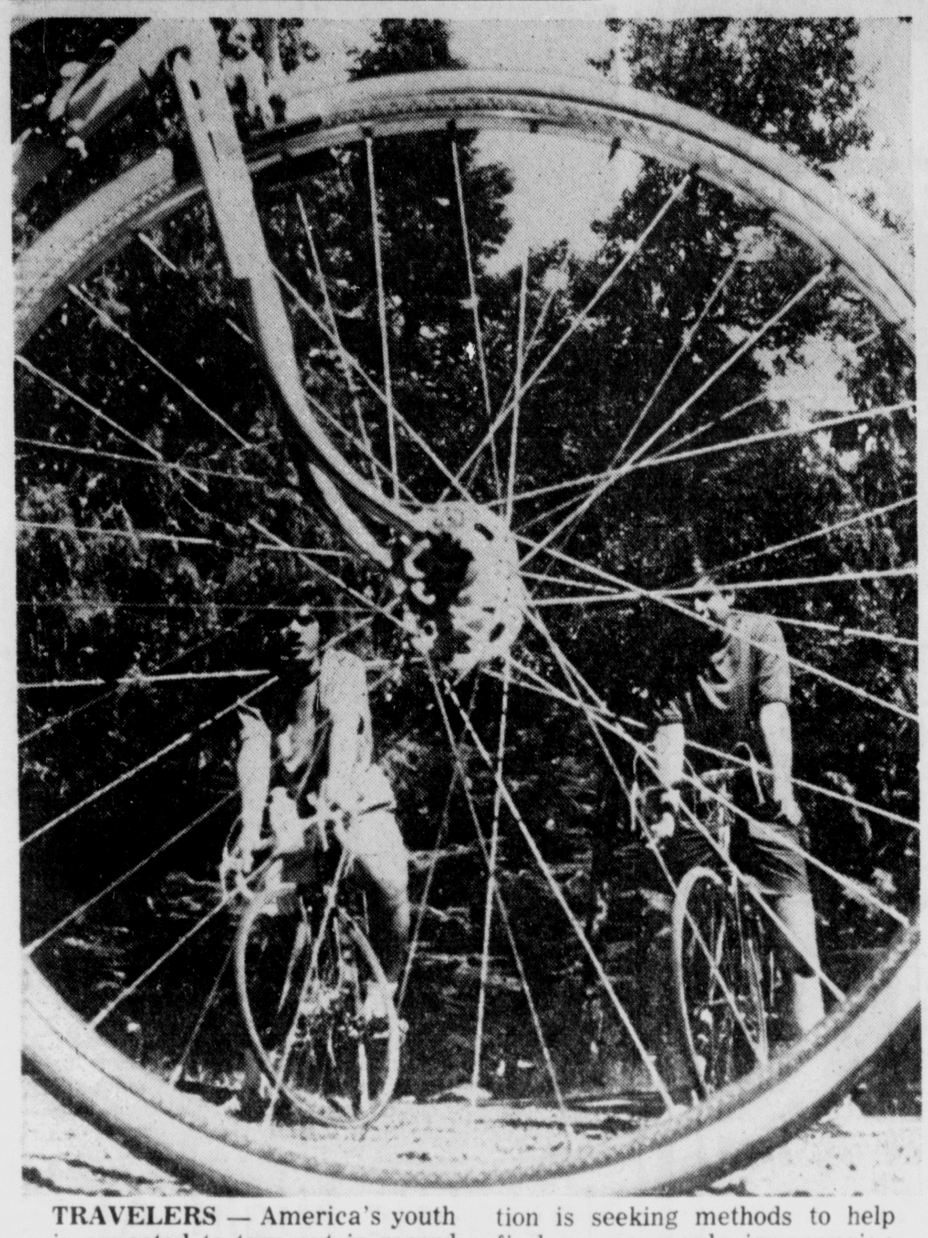

The last fans at the Ryman had little to say about the move.

TRAVELERS — America's youth is expected to turn out in record numbers this summer to discover the country. And a new organization is seeking methods to help find young people inexpensive and safe places to stay.

With the U.S. bicentennial approaching and the cost of a European vacation higher than ever before, more student travelers are expected to be hitting the road this summer to discover what makes their own country tick.

As vagabonds in America, however, they will face problems they would not encounter trekking through Europe.

First of all, the United States has nowhere near the number of low-cost accommodations that Europe offers.

Big American cities, moreover, do not have the budget hotels one would find in London, Paris, or Rome — at least not safe, decent hotels in safe, decent neighborhoods.

Secondly, the American public tends to view transient young people with suspicion. A vacationing student just traveling for adventure and trying to learn about different sections of his country is eyed with distrust by many of those he meets.

A new organization — the People's Accommodation Network (PAN) Coalition — aims to change the prevailing situation by developing a nationwide grid of locally initiated low-cost lodgings for mobile youth.

The PAN steering committee consists of representatives of the Camp Fire Girls, United Presbyterian Church, United Church of Christ, American Youth Hostels, National Board of the YMCA, and many other organizations.

Coordinating the effort is the Commission on Voluntary Services and Action (CVSA), a nonprofit organization based in New York that serves as a body for cooperation between various secular and religious volunteer action agencies.

James Cavener, CVSA executive director, said there are countless buildings and pieces of open land in the United States where simple hostels could be set up. Monasteries, convents, and college residence halls, for example, could rent out their empty rooms to travel- ers passing through he suggested.

The boom in college-dormitory construction in the 1960s has left many campuses today with vacant rooms, now that enrollments have hit their peak and students often prefer to live together in rented houses off-campus.

The PAN coalition foresees school gymnasiums, churches, armories, and lodge halls as other possible sites for establishing a hostel. A PAN publication called "Guidelines for Developing a Low-Cost Accommodation" (35 cents) tells how any individual or group can go about setting up an inexpensive overnight shelter for young travelers coming through town.

The accommodation network, Cavener explained, would work to supplement the existing facilities of the youth hostels (affiliated with American Youth Hostels,Inc.) YMCAs, and YWCAs, which now provide almost the only overnight alternatives for young budget travelers.

Although the Canadian government has developed a good system of low-cost hostels from Vancouver to Halifax, Cavener said PAN would turn to Washington for funding "only as a last resort." He hopes the coalition will receive enough money from private foundations.

PAN already offers a working "Directory of Low-Cost Accommodations" that lists youth hostels, church-operated hostels, and Y's that charge less than $3.50 a night. The guide is available for 25 cents from PAN Coalition, c/o Commission on Voluntary Service and Action, Room 665, 475 Riverside Drive, New York, N.Y. 10027.

Leaded Stain Glass Class Is Scheduled

A class in leaded stain glass crafting will be offered by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department at 7 p.m. March 26 in the Terra Linda Recreation Center, 670 Del Ganado Road.

Hiring Of Reading Teacher Asked

Trustees of the Old Adobe Union School District have approved hiring a full time remedial reading instructor for grades four through six.

Supt. Dean D. Magowan said the job will be taken by Billye Raye Lipscomb who has taught reading part time until now.

The school board on Thursday also authorized Magowan to continue advertising for a music program director for the district, which presently has none. The superintendent said he hopes to have the job filled by July. So far, he said, only a few candidates have applied.

Declining Birth Rate Results In Fewer Maternity Facilities

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Now that medical science has made it easier and safer to have a baby, the country's declining birth rate has resulted in fewer hospital maternity facilities.

The falling rate, for which medical administrators cite the contraceptive pill as the major factor, has cut hospital income severely and led to the abandonment of obstetric services at such renowned centers as New York City's Doctors Hospital.

A University of Pennsylvania Hospital spokesman commented on the drop in use of capacity there from 80 per cent in 1973 to 73 per cent now, "It's odd that it's so low. We didn't think it was declining so much."

Jerry Ransohoff, director of the Greater Cincinnati Hospital Council, said: "The reason is the pill. Parents are waiting longer to have their first child and not having as many. Sexual mores have changed."

Leon Taylor, executive director of St. Paul Hospital, said: "The pill, the economic situation, people are waiting longer to raise a family, social trends, and abortion is certainly one of the factors, but just how much we don't know."

"This lowered birth rate is directly related to contraception, not abortion," said Dr. Elias Throne, medical affairs director of Kansas City's Research Hospital.

According to a survey by UPI, hospitals in Cleveland and Cincinnati, Ohio, Philadelphia, Chicago and Marion, Ill., San Francisco and Fresno, Omaha, Neb., Detroit, Houston, Tex., Honolulu, and Atlanta, Ga., were among those reporting less use of maternity units.

The 25-bed maternity ward at Queens Hospital in Honolulu, for example, had an occupancy so far this year of 66.4 per cent, down 18.5 per cent from 1973.

The Marion (Ill.) Memorial Hospital said its 10-bed obstetric unit had an occupancy rate of about 10 per cent and two of its doctors have quit the birth business altogether.

In addition to New York City's Doctors Hospital, some other hospitals to close maternity wards in recent years included two in Austin, Tex., two in Baton Rouge, La., Baptist Memorial and Trinity Lutheran hospitals in Kansas City, Mo., St. Dominic in Jackson, Miss., and Harborview in Seattle, Wash.

Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston abandoned obstetrics 15 years ago, a spokesman said, because "we saw the decrease in births coming."

Some facilities, however, reported steady or greater use of obstetrics services than previous years. Among them were medical centers in Tulsa, Okla., Indianapolis, Ind., New Orleans, Portland, Ore., Knoxville, Tenn., Birmingham, Ala., Dallas, Tex., and Schenectady and Albany, N.Y.

"The births are steadily increasing which is against the national trend, I think," said a spokesman for Tulsa's St. Francis Hospital which has a 54-bed obstetrics wing.

Births at the hospital have averaged 218 a month so far this year, as against an average of 208 in 1973.

Explained.

Introducing the best and most comprehensive health care plan we've ever offered to individuals. It's the protection you need to prevent a major illness or accident from becoming a financial catastrophe. Here's the story.

Who is it for?
Individuals and families. You may apply if you're a northern California resident under 65 years of age and do not already belong to a Blue Cross group plan.

What does it cover?
It provides hospital benefits that start with the first dollar of expense. Benefits range from intensive care to regular hospital care to extended convalescent care. After a low $100 deductible, it also provides Major Medical protection that pays 80% of the surgical and medical services necessary to give you a total health care program. Included are payments for doctors' home and office visits, X-ray treatments, lab exams, private duty nurses, prescription drugs, ambulance service and many other benefits.

In total, it gives you and each member of your family up to $250,000 of health care protection.

Why are we offering it?
Because you've asked for it. We're constantly responding to the changing health care needs of modern Californians. New medical techniques are being developed every day — neuro-surgery by remote control, diagnosis by nuclear camera, eye surgery by laser beam. They're all covered by the Blue Cross Major Medical Plan. So you can always be assured that your health care protection is as advanced as today's health care techniques.

And since we pay a percentage of the usual charges for both hospital and medical care — rather than a fixed dollar amount — your protection expands automatically to meet these rising costs.

How can I get it?
To find out how you can qualify for this great new Major Medical plan, just send us the coupon. Or call your nearest Blue Cross office.

This Blue Cross Major Medical plan has never been available to individuals before. And because we're especially concerned about individuals and families, we've put a person in the center of our Blue Cross symbol. We feel that meeting peoples' needs is what health care protection is all about.

REDWOODS CENTER

Volunteers Aid Retired Elders

By BETTY FROST

Soon after the Redwoods Retirement Center in Mill Valley was dedicated on Dec. 3, 1972, 12 "pioneer" residents shared their first dinner. Now there are 167 people living in the complex, and 160 additional units are under construction.

And now a two-pronged volunteer program is in operation for the benefit of the elderly residents. Jean Du Pertuis is program and activities director. Carolyn Myers is personal services chairman. The 30 regular volunteers are from the Mill Valley Community Church, which sponsors the retirement center.

"I wish that support could be community-wide. Additional volunteers would be welcome," Mrs. Du Pertuis said.

The residents have their own council, which gives them an opportunity to express their concerns about their home and indicate the kinds of activities they would like to have added to the program. It also gives them some political clout. Recently a pedestrian crosswalk across busy Camino Alto was added. The hazards of crossing the four-lane thoroughfare were pointed out to Mill Valley city council members and Sgt. Douglas Stone of the Mill Valley Police Department came to The Redwoods to discuss the matter at a meeting of all residents.

Council members point out that the new crosswalk is not only helpful to those living at the Redwoods, but to children attending the Mill Valley Middle School nearby. Mrs. Hazel De Jarnatt is president of the Residents Council.

"IN PLANNING the program, I work on a month-to-month basis, just managing to stay one step ahead of the sheriff," Mrs. Du Pertuis quipped. "We have had everything from singing by nursery school children to classical concerts. I have learned that everything doesn't appeal to everyone, and that planning too many activities too close together is too tiring for many residents."

The best attended and most enjoyed activities are the Sunday vesper services, conducted by visiting clergymen from various denominations in southern Marin. The residents also enjoy slide shows of trips, narrated by the travelers themselves. Excursions are arranged, often with Wheels of Marin transportation from the Whistlestop Senior Center in San Rafael. A sign-up sheet for a visit to the Japanese Tea Garden in Golden Gate Park March 20 to see the cherry blossoms in bloom is currently attracting interest.

The Genesis Gallery has provided an art display, and there is also space allocated for art work of the residents.

"Crafts activities are spontaneous now. We just set up shop in the library, as we did to make Christmas corsages, and people wandering through take an interest," Mrs. Du Pertius said.

Facilities for arts and crafts and wood working shops are included in the addition now under construction. There will also be a hall with a stage.

THE PERSONAL services program has volunteer drivers who transport patients to medical appointments, necessary errands, and, on election day, to the polls.

"with the gas shortage, we are having a problem fulfilling these commitments," Mrs. Myers said.

Her committee also staffs a small store where postage stamps, and personl items like soup, toothpaste and shampoo, candy and stationery can be purchased. The small shop is not profit-making, but a service to assist those who find it hard to get out, the chairman emphasized.

This committee also plans the monthly birthday party, a special dinner on the third Tuesday of each month, when residents whose birthdays fall within the month are honored. They provide a home-baked cake, flowers and decorations.

"We would like to be able to have a volunteer . . . every day, just to be on hand to assist as needed," Mrs. Myers said.

Another innovation the committee is considering is a shopping service. Sometimes friendships develop between a volunteer and a resident and, such lasting relationships give emotional support to the individual resident.

Youth groups from the community bring special programs at holidays and sometimes bring home-baked treats, or special decorations to brighten an occasion for the aged.

Organizations and individuals have made donations of such needed items as wheelchairs, or added a tree for the grounds. The gift of a typewriter, which prints extra large type, from the Mill Valley Lions Club was greatly appreciated, the volunteers said.

REDWOODS RESIDENTS also have something to contribute to the community. A badge class for Girl Scouts in macrame is taught by a resident. Others volunteer in a new program at the Homestead School in Mill Valley, called "Seniors Relating to Kids." The Needlework Guild of Mill Valley meets regularly at the Redwoods, and some residents assist the guild which makes articles for charity.

With the completion of the recreation wing, residents and volunteers hope to play host at cultural events of interest to the entire community.

ON THE AGENDA

Yacht Club Auxiliary Plans Fashion Show After Luncheon

"An Oriental Fashion Gallery," a fashion show presented by Obiko of San Francisco, will follow San Francisco Yacht Club Women's Auxiliary annual spring luncheon on Thursday at the yacht club in Belvedere.

Members and guests will enjoy cocktails at 11:30 a.m. and luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Afterward the women will see jewelry, accessories and contemporary fashions of Oriental influence. Flute music and poetry is planned.

A BENEFIT for the international exchange program at Redwood High School is planned by the Redwood International Student Exchange Friday and Saturday in the Student Center and Faculty Lounge at the high school in Larkspur.

A rummage sale and silent auction will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. A jam session by the New San Francisco Dixie Land Jazz Band is scheduled for 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday in the student center at Redwood.

Mrs. Charles Eberle of Belvedere is chairman. RISE leaders hope to raise sufficient funds from the auction and rummage events to support the program, and to send Redwood High School exchange students on a special trip to the Grand Canyon with proceeds of the jazz concert.

GUEST DAY at the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club will begin with play at 9 a.m. Friday and include a luncheon at the Mill Valley clubhouse, beginning at noon.

A short meeting will be held at 11 a.m. with the luncheon event set for 11:30 a.m. Bridge, mah-jongg and dominoes will be played afterward as a benefit for Vine Village, a residential program for mentally handicapped adults in Napa.

KATE SALMON Jones of Novato will speak on "Our Heritage in Quilting and Stitchery" for the meeting Thursday of the United Presbyterian Women of the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

For the noon luncheon and program at the church, Mrs. Jones will display some her varied collection of quilts, and women of the church will bring their own quilts which have family or historic interest. Stitchery articles will also be on display.

The luncheon will be served by Circle I of the church women.

MARIN MEMBERS of the Hamlin School Alumnae Association will attend a scholarship benefit cocktail party Thursday at Stanwood Hall, 2120 Broadway, San Francisco.

Titled "The Greening of Hamlin," the party will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. and include a sale of garden, house and topiary plants and an auction. A Dixieland trio will play music for the evening.

Among the sponsors from Marin are Messrs. and Mmes. H. Bruce Bernhard of San Rafael, Herbert Damner Jr. of Ross, Gordon Dohemann of San Rafael, William Lange of Mill Valley, John W. Rosenberg of San Rafael, Peter B. Richards-Brown, W. Bruce Shafer and the Rev. and Mrs. Angus Dun Jr. of Greenbrae.

THE SECOND of two French cooking lessons will be held Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Maurice et Charles Bistrot in San Rafael, sponsored by the Marin County Panhellenic Association.

The cooking demonstration will include food and wine tasting, according to Betty Celia, president.

Funds raised from the series will go to Marin student scholarships.

Appraisals Will End Rug Course

Participants in the Oriental rug course will bring rugs for appraisal to the final meeting of the series Wednesday at 10 a.m. at Samarkand, 1209 Sutter Street in San Francisco.

The three men who have shared lecture duties for the course, Richard Tracy Shaw, Robert Roalfe and Ronald Schwarz, will attend the clinic. Participants will also view the rugs on display at Samarkand.

The series is sponsored b the Marin Symphony Association.

TEXAS ELECTION

'Sissy' In Second Governor's Try

By ROLAND LINISEY

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Frances Tarlton Farenthold, 47, a woman lawyer affectionately known among Texas liberals as "Sissy," is tackling the political strongman of the state in a second attempt to become governor.

Just as they did two years ago, political experts say she doesn't have a chance, and attribute her candidacy to a Kamikaze instinct she developed fighting for reform in a scandal-plagued 1971 legislative session.

She defeated some of the state's most promising young Democrats in 1972 and lost to Gov. Dolph Briscoe in a runoff for the party nomination for governor. A few month later, she was runnerup to Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., in the Democratic nomination for vice president.

This year, Mrs. Farenthold waited until six hours before filing deadline to announce she'll once again challenge Briscoe, a millionaire rancher-banker who raised $600,000 in a single appreciation dinner last year — something even Lyndon B. Johnson never matched in Texas.

"IT CAME down to this," she said. "If I didn't challenge the governor, no one would, and we would have four more years of this no-record, do-nothing caretaker government in the midst of the most complex national crisis of our lifetime."

Within hours of announcing for office, Mrs. Farenthold filed a $2.5 million suit against Briscoe, accusing him of illegally raising campaign funds before he designated a campaign manager.

A hearing on that suit is set for April 8 — less than a month before the May 4 party pri-

Authority Gives Advice On Makeup

Simple directions achieve the best results in putting on makeup, according to beauty authority Max Factor.

Highlight the eyelids with a soft tone of eye color and accent the brow bone with a shiny eye gloss. To apply shadows accurately, tilt the chin up and look down into the mirror, stretching the eyelid slightly outward with a finger. Draw on a narrow line, as close to the roots of the lashes as possible. Apply mascara to the top of the upper lashes, then sweep them up from underneath with two or three light coats.

REDWOODS CENTER

Volunteers Aid Retired Elders

By BETTY FROST

Soon after the Redwoods Retirement Center in Mill Valley was dedicated on Dec. 3, 1972, 12 "pioneer" residents shared their first dinner. Now there are 167 people living in the complex, and 160 additional units are under construction.

And now a two-pronged volunteer program is in operation for the benefit of the elderly residents. Jean Du Pertuis is program and activities director. Carolyn Myers is personal services chairman. The 30 regular volunteers are from the Mill Valley Community Church, which sponsors the retirement center.

"I wish that support could be community-wide. Additional volunteers would be welcome," Mrs. Du Pertuis said.

The residents have their own council, which gives them an opportunity to express their concerns about their home and indicate the kinds of activities they would like to have added to the program. It also gives them some political clout. Recently a pedestrian crosswalk across busy Camino Alto was added. The hazards of crossing the four-lane thoroughfare were pointed out to Mill Valley city council members and Sgt. Douglas Stone of the Mill Valley Police Department came to The Redwoods to discuss the matter at a meeting of all residents.

Council members point out that the new crosswalk is not only helpful to those living at the Redwoods, but to children attending the Mill Valley Middle School nearby. Mrs. Hazel De Jarnatt is president of the Residents Council.

"IN PLANNING the program, I work on a month-to-month basis, just managing to stay one step ahead of the sheriff," Mrs. Du Pertuis quipped. "We have had everything from singing by nursery school children to classical concerts. I have learned that everything doesn't appeal to everyone, and that planning too many activities too close together is too tiring for many residents."

The best attended and most enjoyed activities are the Sunday vesper services, conducted by visiting clergymen from various denominations in southern Marin. The residents also enjoy slide shows of trips, narrated by the travelers themselves. Excursions are arranged, often with Wheels of Marin transportation from the Whistlestop Senior Center in San Rafael. A sign-up sheet for a visit to the Japanese Tea Garden in Golden Gate Park March 20 to see the cherry blossoms in bloom is currently attracting interest.

The Genesis Gallery has provided an art display, and there is also space allocated for art work of the residents.

"Crafts activities are spontaneous now. We just set up shop in the library, as we did to make Christmas corsages, and people wandering through take an interest," Mrs. Du Pertius said.

Facilities for arts and crafts and wood working shops are included in the addition now under construction. There will also be a hall with a stage.

THE PERSONAL services program has volunteer drivers who transport patients to medical appointments, necessary errands, and, on election day, to the polls.

"with the gas shortage, we are having a problem fulfilling these commitments," Mrs. Myers said.

Her committee also staffs a small store where postage stamps, and personl items like soup, toothpaste and shampoo, candy and stationery can be purchased. The small shop is not profit-making, but a service to assist those who find it hard to get out, the chairman emphasized.

This committee also plans the monthly birthday party, a special dinner on the third Tuesday of each month, when residents whose birthdays fall within the month are honored. They provide a home-baked cake, flowers and decorations.

"We would like to be able to have a volunteer . . . every day, just to be on hand to assist as needed." Mrs. Myers said.

Another innovation the committee is considering is a shopping service. Sometimes friendships develop between a volunteer and a resident and, such lasting relationships give emotional support to the individual resident.

Youth groups from the community bring special programs at holidays and sometimes bring home-baked treats, or special decorations to brighten an occasion for the aged.

Organizations and individuals have made donations of such needed items as wheelchairs, or added a tree for the grounds. The gift of a typewriter, which prints extra large type, from the Mill Valley Lions Club was greatly appreciated, the volunteers said.

REDWOODS RESIDENTS also have something to contribute to the community. A badge class for Girl Scouts in macrame is taught by a resident. Others volunteer in a new program at the Homestead School in Mill Valley, called "Seniors Relating to Kids." The Needlework Guild of Mill Valley meets regularly at the Redwoods, and some residents assist the guild which makes articles for charity.

With the completion of the recreation wing, residents and volunteers hope to play host at cultural events of interest to the entire community.

ON THE AGENDA

Yacht Club Auxiliary Plans Fashion Show After Luncheon

"An Oriental Fashion Gallery," a fashion show presented by Obiko of San Francisco, will follow San Francisco Yacht Club Women's Auxiliary annual spring luncheon on Thursday at the yacht club in Belvedere.

Members and guests will enjoy cocktails at 11:30 a.m. and luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Afterward the women will see jewelry, accessories and contemporary fashions of Oriental influence. Flute music and poetry is planned.

A rummage sale and silent auction will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. A jam session by the New San Francisco Dixie Land Jazz Band is scheduled for 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday in the student center at Redwood.

Loose-Tongued Lothario Falls Into Tape Trap, Loses Lovers

DEAR HELEN:

Sol, let's call him, is a collector. He collects women. His wife is aware of this.

But he has a bad habit of talking too much. He tells the girls about his wife's nagging, coldness, excess weight, sloppiness, etc. The old, "She doesn't understand me" routine, with extras.

The other night he came home to a very mad wife. She led him to their tape recorder and played back one of his conversations (with the answering voice carefully erased.)

It not only suggested future dates with his female companion, but described pretty graphically, the various lacks in his married life.

Evidently one of the dames — who thought she was the only one — heard of his other "collections" through office talk, and decided to teach him a lesson. She must have hid a recorder and mike, and got him talking. Then she sent the damaging tape to his wife, anonymously.

The wife has been pacified by a month in Europe, but Sol has a bigger problem. Since the "Watergater" could be one of several girls — he likes variety and he hands them all the same line — he can't pin down the guilty one. This might be a conspiracy among a number of females, to teach him a lesson. He has been getting a lot of sniggering looks these days.

Sol has asked me, and I'm asking you — how does he get back to his old social standing, if gossip gets the word around? Girls won't go out with an office joke.

Whenever he's tempted to stop by a secretary's desk, he begins thinking, "Who can you trust?" And he keeps walking. The love lives of this man have been ruined by a vindictive broad! Can you suggest a remedy? — SOL'S FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND:

Yes! Monogamy.

My IGAP ("I'm guessing Again Perception") tells me you aren't exactly Sols' "Friend." Are you perhaps the vindictive woman herself, or one of the "collection" who only wishes she had thought of this mean trick first? Or might you even be Sol's wife, back from Europe, still smoldering, and wanting to remind him that he's an office joke and a rotten husband?

Whatever, the story is too good to kill — and illegal tapes or not — Sol deserves some added publicity. It should keep him away from the secretary pool a while longer. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We stayed together because of our kids. Why can't the married kids stay together because of us?

Two weeks before our last daughter was married, our oldest daughter moved back home with her two small children. I'm baby sitting while she recovers from the divorce. When she finds a job, I'll still feel responsible. She can't afford an apartment or a housekeeper, so here we go again — raising another family.

My husband and I get along fine (after some stormy times), but how long it will last with another family in the house, I don't know. We had hoped to sell our business and travel.

Helen , it seems as though once you have children, you're never free again — even when they grow up. Any solutions that won't make us feel miserably guilty? — TAPPED AND TRAPPED

DEAR T AND T:

Yes! Set a cut-off point, say six months, in which time you can sell the business, get ready for travel — and your daughter can get her life in shape to make it on her own. Many, many other women have, without the help of their parents.

So long as you continue treating her as an incapable child, she'll act as one. And think on this: your grandchildren might suffer most of all: kids raised (with resentment) in a two-family home have several strikes against them. — H.

IMPROVE YOUR BEAUTY

Why Not Beat Back The Bulges?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(Twelfth in a series of 15 articles.)

This is the fifth week of my eight week Beauty Improvement Plan. If you follow it you can lose from 15 to 20 pounds during that time and, literally, look like a different person.

See below what happens to the average woman. According to a chart prepared by Metropolital Life Insurance Co., the percentage of persons 10 per cent or more above best weight are:

| Age | Men | Women |
|---|---|---|
| 20-29 | 31 | 23 |
| 30-39 | 53 | 41 |
| 40-49 | 60 | 59 |
| 50-59 | 63 | 67 |
| 60-69 | 57 | 68 |

Why not be different? You can see how overweight slips up on people. If this has happened to you why not change the picture? Why not choose a good figure, a zest for living, more enjoyment of life, a new outlook and fine health, rather than bulges, fatigue, overweight, selfconsciousness and the health hazards of extra pounds? Only you can make the choice.

I BELIEVE in making things as easy as possible so here are a few tricks to help you if you wish to reduce.

1. Do not keep rich items like candy or cookies in the house. Women would resist these if they had to go to a store for them when the urge hits. If you must have some in the house for family and friends hide them in a place not quickly accessible. If your friends think it unusual that you keep the cookies in a jar on a shelf in the garage, that's too bad! At least keep the items which tempt you on high shelf so you will have time to reconsider.

2. Activation is essential. It does not matter whether it is the wish to be pretty for someone special or get a job or improve health or maybe just because you do not like the way you look and want to enjoy buying clothes again. Once activated you must keep the goal in mind. I think it will help if you paste a picture on the front of the refrigerator door. This could be you before you gained weight or you now or a shot of an extremely fat woman.

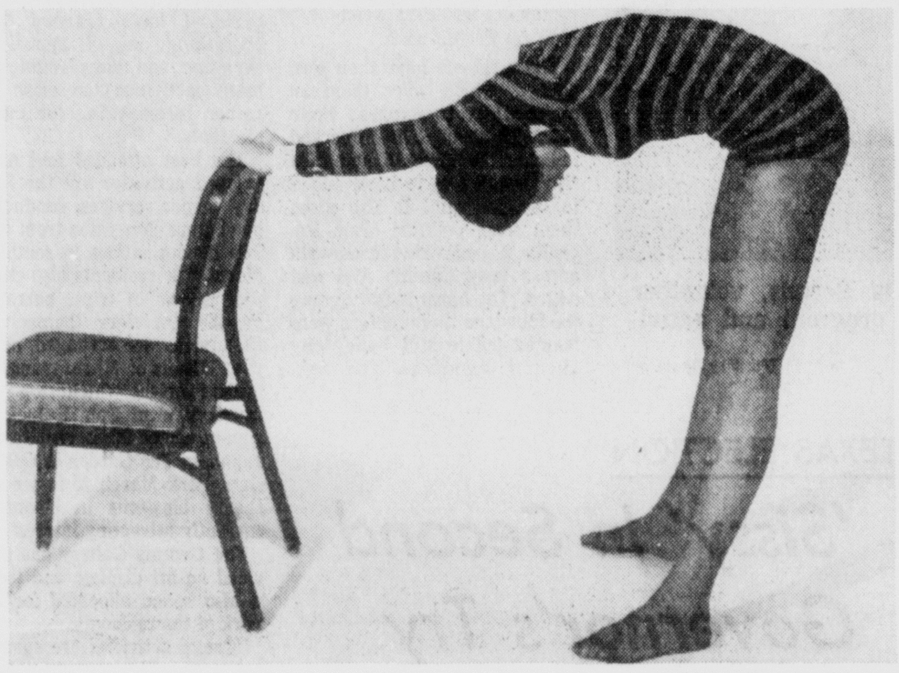

3. Do not read about new recipes while reducing or look at the pictures. Always go shopping after eating and not when you are hungry.

4. Keep busy. Perhaps you can adopt some new projects which take you out of the house as much as possible.

5. Serve plates in the kitchen. It is too tempting to look at the main dishes when they are on the table.

STAND FACING the back of a chair far enough away from it so that when you bend forward to take hold of it with your hands your back will be in a straight line. Head should be lifted. Now lower your head and chest as far as you can by contracting your abdominal muscles (still holding to chair). Relax and return to starting position. Continue for ten times. This exercise will strengthen your abdominal muscles and flatten your stomach.

6. Keep such items as curled carrots, endive, celery sticks, radishes and cauliflower buds in the refrigerator in the crisper at all times. In this way you will not have to prepare them when the hollow feeling strikes.

7. Chewing gum helps some. The diet drinks can also fill the gap once in a while.

8. Eat very slowly.

9. Buy a dress in the size you would like to be or one at least a size or two smaller. Try it on every two weeks.

YWCA To Hold Two Workshops

The Marin Young Women's Christian Association will have sewing for economy and recycling workshops on three consecutive Saturdays at 10 a.m., beginning this week.

The first workshop will cover designing fabrics, interior decorating and recycling a wardrobe economically. The second week pattern making will be covered, and the final workshop will be devoted to the custom design and final fitting of a garment.

'Old St. Hilary's' Talk Set Monday

Carol Ericson, executive director of the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society, will speak on "Old St. Hilary's, the building and its contents" at the Old St. Hilary's Landmark Museum in Tiburon on Monday at 10 a.m.

The talk is the fifth in the Landmark Society's docent program series and is open to the public, according to program director Mrs. Malcolm Powell.

Vacation Tips To Be Given For Singles

The Marin Jewish Community Center's Singles Group is sponsoring a suitcase packing demonstration combined with tips on vacation photography March 18 at 8 p.m. at the center in San Rafael.

A dinner will precede the demonstrations.

Joan McFetridge of the Kiwi Speakers Bureau of American Airlines will give the packing demonstration along with tips on what to bring.

Anne Kracha Slated At New York Series

Anne Kracha of Novato will speak Tuesday at 10 a.m. at the final program of the Terra Linda New York series at Christ Presbyterian Church in Terra Linda.

A vocational counselor, Miss Kracha's topic will be "Getting A Job Again."

Briscoe called the action "political mudslinging in the courts," and said if Mrs. Farenthold understood the campaign law she'd know he did nothing illegal.

Two other candidates in the race — a former bareback bronc rider who wants to legalize marijuana and prostitution, and a Harris County undertaker — stand little chance.

Texas Republicans, who normally handpick a candidate to challenge the Democratic nominee, also face a contested race this year. Former State Sen. Henry Grover of Houston, a party maverick who won the 1972 nomination, is opposed by former Lubbock Mayor Jim Granberry.

MOST PARTY notables have already endorsed Granberry, but Grover still is considered the favorite.

No other state races even threaten to share the spotlight with the Farenthold-Briscoe rematch.

For the past year, Mrs. Farenthold has headed the National Women's Political Caucus and taught at the Texas Southern University law school.

Loose-Tongued Lothario Falls Into Tape Trap, Loses Lovers

DEAR HELEN:

Sol, let's call him, is a collector. He collects women. His wife is aware of this.

But he has a bad habit of talking too much. He tells the girls about his wife's nagging, coldness, excess weight, sloppiness, etc. The old, "She doesn't understand me" routine, with extras.

The other night he came home to a very mad wife. She led him to their tape recorder and played back one of his conversations (with the answering voice carefully erased.)

It not only suggested future dates with his female companion, but described pretty graphically, the various lacks in his married life.

Evidently one of the dames — who thought she was the only one — heard of his other "collections" through office talk, and decided to teach him a lesson. She must have hid a recorder and mike, and got him talking. Then she sent the damaging tape to his wife, anonymously.

The wife has been pacified by a month in Europe, but Sol has a bigger problem. Since the "Watergater" could be one of several girls — he likes variety and he hands them all the same line — he can't pin down the guilty one. This might be a conspiracy among a number of females, to teach him a lesson. He has been getting a lot of sniggering looks these days.

Sol has asked me, and I'm asking you — how does he get back to his old social standing, if gossip gets the word around? Girls won't go out with an office joke.

Whenever he's tempted to stop by a secretary's desk, he begins thinking, "Who can you trust?" And he keeps walking. The love lives of this man have been ruined by a vindictive broad! Can you suggest a remedy? — SOL'S FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND:

Yes! Monogamy.

My IGAP ("I'm guessing Again Perception") tells me you aren't exactly Sols' "Friend." Are you perhaps the vindictive woman herself, or one of the "collection" who only wishes she had thought of this mean trick first? Or might you even be Sol's wife, back from Europe, still smoldering, and wanting to remind him that he's an office joke and a rotten husband?

Whatever, the story is too good to kill — and illegal tapes or not — Sol deserves some added publicity. It should keep him away from the secretary pool a while longer. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We stayed together because of our kids. Why can't the married kids stay together because of us?

Two weeks before our last daughter was married, our oldest daughter moved back home with her two small children. I'm baby sitting while she recovers from the divorce. When she finds a job, I'll still feel responsible. She can't afford an apartment or a housekeeper, so here we go again — raising another family.

My husband and I get along fine (after some stormy times), but how long it will last with another family in the house, I don't know. We had hoped to sell our business and travel.

Helen , it seems as though once you have children, you're never free again — even when they grow up. Any solutions that won't make us feel miserably guilty? — TAPPED AND TRAPPED

DEAR T AND T:

Yes! Set a cut-off point, say six months, in which time you can sell the business, get ready for travel — and your daughter can get her life in shape to make it on her own. Many, many other women have, without the help of their parents.

So long as you continue treating her as an incapable child, she'll act as one. And think on this: your grandchildren might suffer most of all: kids raised (with resentment) in a two-family home have several strikes against them. — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fund idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

IMPROVE YOUR BEAUTY

Why Not Beat Back The Bulges?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(Twelfth in a series of 15 articles.)

This is the fifth week of my eight week Beauty Improvement Plan. If you follow it you can lose from 15 to 20 pounds during that time and, literally, look like a different person.

See below what happens to the average woman. According to a chart prepared by Metropolital Life Insurance Co., the percentage of persons 10 per cent or more above best weight are:

| Age | Men | Women |
|---|---|---|
| 20-29 | 31 | 23 |
| 30-39 | 53 | 41 |
| 40-49 | 60 | 59 |
| 50-59 | 63 | 67 |
| 60-69 | 57 | 68 |

Why not be different? You can see how overweight slips up on people. If this has happened to you why not change the picture? Why not choose a good figure, a zest for living, more enjoyment of life, a new outlook and fine health, rather than bulges, fatigue, overweight, selfconsciousness and the health hazards of extra pounds? Only you can make the choice.

I BELIEVE in making things as easy as possible so here are a few tricks to help you if you wish to reduce.

1. Do not keep rich items like candy or cookies in the house. Women would resist these if they had to go to a store for them when the urge hits. If you must have some in the house for family and friends hide them in a place not quickly accessible. If your friends think it unusual that you keep the cookies in a jar on a shelf in the garage, that's too bad! At least keep the items which tempt you on high shelf so you will have time to reconsider.

2. Activation is essential. It does not matter whether it is the wish to be pretty for someone special or get a job or improve health or maybe just because you do not like the way you look and want to enjoy buying clothes again. Once activated you must keep the goal in mind. I think it will help if you paste a picture on the front of the refrigerator door. This could be you before you gained weight or you now or a shot of an extremely fat woman.

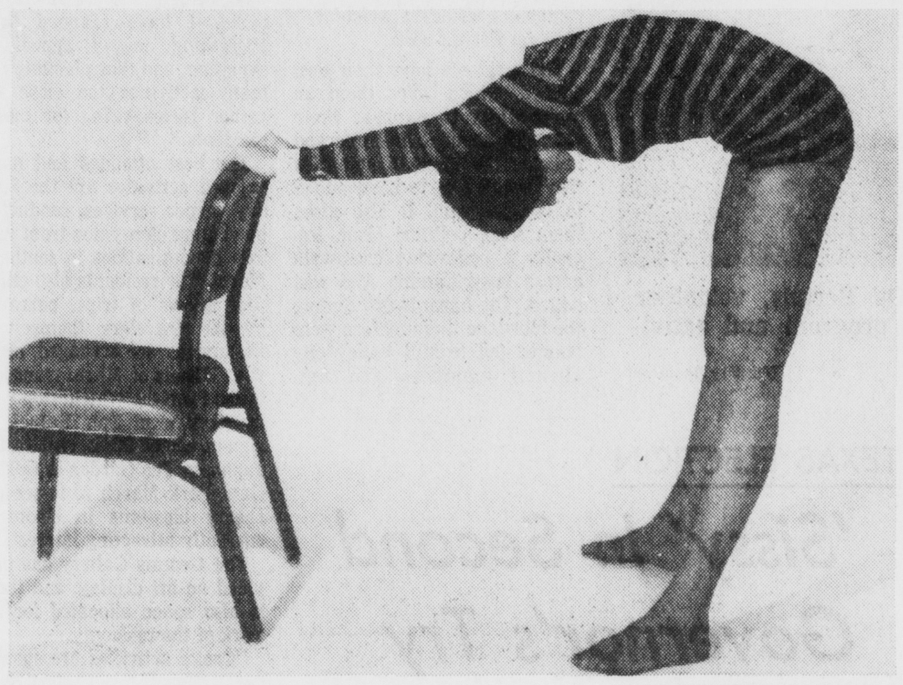

3. Do not read about new recipes while reducing or look at the pictures. Always go shopping after eating and not when you are hungry.

4. Keep busy. Perhaps you can adopt some new projects which take you out of the house as much as possible.

5. Serve plates in the kitchen. It is too tempting to look at the main dishes when they are on the table.

STAND FACING the back of a chair far enough away from it so that when you bend forward to take hold of it with your hands your back will be in a straight line. Head should be lifted. Now lower your head and chest as far as you can by contracting your abdominal muscles (still holding to chair). Relax and return to starting position. Continue for ten times. This exercise will strengthen your abdominal muscles and flatten your stomach.

6. Keep such items as curled carrots, endive, celery sticks, radishes and cauliflower buds in the refrigerator in the crisper at all times. In this way you will not have to prepare them when the hollow feeling strikes.

7. Chewing gum helps some. The diet drinks can also fill the gap once in a while.

8. Eat very slowly.

9. Buy a dress in the size you would like to be or one at least a size or two smaller. Try it on every two weeks.

YWCA To Hold Two Workshops

The Marin Young Women's Christian Association will have sewing for economy and recycling workshops on three consecutive Saturdays at 10 a.m., beginning this week.

The first workshop will cover designing fabrics, interior decorating and recycling a wardrobe economically. The second week pattern making will be covered, and the final workshop will be devoted to the custom design and final fitting of a garment.

'Old St. Hilary's' Talk Set Monday

Carol Ericson, executive director of the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society, will speak on "Old St. Hilary's, the building and its contents" at the Old St. Hilary's Landmark Museum in Tiburon on Monday at 10 a.m.

The talk is the fifth in the Landmark Society's docent program series and is open to the public, according to program director Mrs. Malcolm Powell.

Vacation Tips To Be Given For Singles

The Marin Jewish Community Center's Singles Group is sponsoring a suitcase packing demonstration combined with tips on vacation photography March 18 at 8 p.m. at the center in San Rafael.

A dinner will precede the demonstrations.

Joan McFetridge of the Kiwi Speakers Bureau of American Airlines will give the packing demonstration along with tips on what to bring.

Anne Kracha Slated At New York Series

Anne Kracha of Novato will speak Tuesday at 10 a.m. at the final program of the Terra Linda New York series at Christ Presbyterian Church in Terra Linda.

A vocational counselor, Miss Kracha's topic will be "Getting A Job Again."

Briscoe called the action "political mudslinging in the courts," and said if Mrs. Farenthold understood the campaign law she'd know he did nothing illegal.

Two other candidates in the race — a former bareback bronc rider who wants to legalize marijuana and prostitution, and a Harris County undertaker — stand little chance.

Texas Republicans, who normally handpick a candidate to challenge the Democratic nominee, also face a contested race this year. Former State Sen. Henry Grover of Houston, a party maverick who won the 1972 nomination, is opposed by former Lubbock Mayor Jim Granberry.

MOST PARTY notables have already endorsed Granberry, but Grover still is considered the favorite.

No other state races even threaten to share the spotlight with the Farenthold-Briscoe rematch.

For the past year, Mrs. Farenthold has headed the National Women's Political Caucus and taught at the Texas Southern University law school.

Now, she's gathering what funds she can to take on Briscoe's well financed organization.

don't wait another night-let him have a dry bed now!

Mr. Robert Stearns, noted authority says: "Let us help your child just as we've helped thousands of children just like yours to a happy, normal childhood."

Don't try to hide a bedwetting problem under the covers. It's too serious. Doctors and psychologists agree it can cause deep psychological problems. Sometimes, lifetime problems. And it's all so needless! We can stop bedwetting quickly and surely when it's not caused by an organic defect or disease. If you'll write me today, it can be stopped in time to give your child a happy, outgoing summer vacation.
Send the coupon to me today. I want every family with a bedwetter to read this authoritative report by three eminent medical doctors... "Bedwetting... what it's all about and How to End It." Your copy is waiting with no obligation.

While Doing Tax You Can Also Compute Your Value

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Josephine Ripley has retired from writing "Money Matters." This weekly column now will be written by Robert Edwards, an experienced writer on consumer affairs.)

By ROBERT EDWARDS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

While scrambling around with check stubs and receipts to fill out your Form 1040, use the data for a second purpose. Make a financial check-up for your family.

How much is your family worth in cash? More interesting than the dollar total is your family's net worth trend. Figuring your own personal balance sheet reveals facts common to corporation balance sheets — value of assets and amounts owed. But your personal balance sheet can alert you to other facts, too. For example:

Is your personal property adequately insured? When you keep adding furnishings, appliances, clothing and build up special collections or aggregate items of special value such as stamp collections, hobby equipment and the like, you may not recognize when the total exceeds fire and theft insurance coverage.

Are you gaining or losing net worth from year to year? Family net worth is the difference between the dollar value of assets and liabilities; that is, the difference between how much you own and how much you owe.

Net worth may decline when a family with children in college draws on savings, sells securities to pay tuition plus room and board or borrows cash for these expenses. Retirees also may withdraw on a planned schedule and show a lower net worth at year's end.

ON THE OTHER hand, young married couples or couples whose children have left home may be acquiring capital regularly, so their net worth increases.

Is a debt load becoming a burden? Unless you look at a total picture of your assets and liabilities, you may not recognize when assets exceed liabilities by only a slim margin. A family overloaded with debts is vulnerable to financial stress.

If you haven't figured your personal net worth before, use a worksheet — assets in one list, liabilities in another — and compute the total of 1973 while income tax figures are fresh in mind. Then use the total as a benchmark during the years to come.

Begin by totaling assets. Divide them into groups for easier figuring. Quick assets are the cash in your pocket, uncashed traveler's checks and savings in bank or credit union.

Intermediate assets include stocks, notes and accounts receivable, bonds (government and corporate) and cash value of your life insurance and annuity policies.

DON'T FORGET to reduce stock and bond asset totals by selling expenses and any taxes due from capital gains. Long-term assets are your house and any land you own. For real estate include the full market value less the cost of selling — commission, state tax, prepayment penalty (if any) and points.

Personal property includes the depreciated value of your car, boat, sports equipment, household goods, jewelry, valuable collections, hobby equipment and other goods with real value. To depreciate personal property, begin with original purchase price. Determine life in years and proportion the value according to how old each may be. For instance, if you figure your car to last five years, it depreciates at a rate of 20 per cent a year.

Liabilities are totaled in the same way — monthly bills, installment debts for car or boat, finance company loan, furniture, appliance contracts and any notes or loans from banks or credit unions. Long-term debts include your house mortgage or land contract. Taxes owed include income and real estate taxes due plus special assessments and personal property levies on a boat and similar goods.

If you bought a new car or a boat during the year, count these assets even if you disregard other personal property because a partial offset would appear under installment liabilities — unless you paid cash.

A quick compilation of net worth even without the difficult-to-figure cash values and personal property can be eye-popping. Most families are surprised they own so much.

While Doing Tax You Can Also Compute Your Value

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Josephine Ripley has retired from writing "Money Matters." This weekly column now will be written by Robert Edwards, an experienced writer on consumer affairs.)

By ROBERT EDWARDS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

While scrambling around with check stubs and receipts to fill out your Form 1040, use the data for a second purpose. Make a financial check-up for your family.

How much is your family worth in cash? More interesting than the dollar total is your family's net worth trend. Figuring your own personal balance sheet reveals facts common to corporation balance sheets — value of assets and amounts owed. But your personal balance sheet can alert you to other facts, too. For example:

Is your personal property adequately insured? When you keep adding furnishings, appliances, clothing and build up special collections or aggregate items of special value such as stamp collections, hobby equipment and the like, you may not recognize when the total exceeds fire and theft insurance coverage.

Are you gaining or losing net worth from year to year? Family net worth is the difference between the dollar value of assets and liabilities; that is, the difference between how much you own and how much you owe.

Net worth may decline when a family with children in college draws on savings, sells securities to pay tuition plus room and board or borrows cash for these expenses. Retirees also may withdraw on a planned schedule and show a lower net worth at year's end.

ON THE OTHER hand, young married couples or couples whose children have left home may be acquiring capital regularly, so their net worth increases.

Is a debt load becoming a burden? Unless you look at a total picture of your assets and liabilities, you may not recognize when assets exceed liabilities by only a slim margin. A family overloaded with debts is vulnerable to financial stress.

If you haven't figured your personal net worth before, use a worksheet — assets in one list, liabilities in another — and compute the total of 1973 while income tax figures are fresh in mind. Then use the total as a benchmark during the years to come.

Begin by totaling assets. Divide them into groups for easier figuring. Quick assets are the cash in your pocket, uncashed traveler's checks and savings in bank or credit union.

Intermediate assets include stocks, notes and accounts receivable, bonds (government and corporate) and cash value of your life insurance and annuity policies.

DON'T FORGET to reduce stock and bond asset totals by selling expenses and any taxes due from capital gains. Long-term assets are your house and any land you own. For real estate include the full market value less the cost of selling — commission, state tax, prepayment penalty (if any) and points.

Personal property includes the depreciated value of your car, boat, sports equipment, household goods, jewelry, valuable collections, hobby equipment and other goods with real value. To depreciate personal property, begin with original purchase price. Determine life in years and proportion the value according to how old each may be. For instance, if you figure your car to last five years, it depreciates at a rate of 20 per cent a year.

Liabilities are totaled in the same way — monthly bills, installment debts for car or boat, finance company loan, furniture, appliance contracts and any notes or loans from banks or credit unions. Long-term debts include your house mortgage or land contract. Taxes owed include income and real estate taxes due plus special assessments and personal property levies on a boat and similar goods.

If you bought a new car or a boat during the year, count these assets even if you disregard other personal property because a partial offset would appear under installment liabilities — unless you paid cash.

A quick compilation of net worth even without the difficult-to-figure cash values and personal property can be eye-popping. Most families are surprised they own so much.

RESCUED BOBCAT HEALED, ROAMS FREE AGAIN

Alarm On Help For Depressed

CHICAGO (UPI) — The exhausted housewife, the bored adolescent and the under achiever are often suffering from a type of depression that is likely to continue undiagnosed and untreated, a medical researcher said today.

"Depression is the most under-treated of major diseases, despite the fact that in most cases it is relatively easy to handle," reported by Dr. Nathan S. Kline, director of the Research Center at Rockland Hospital in Orangeburg, N. Y.

"The discrepancy between the availability of treatment for depression and actual providing of treatment is so great as to constitute a scandal." Kline said in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

He quoted government surveys which found that in any given year, 15 per cent of adults between ages 18 and 74, roughly 20 million persons, may suffer serious depressive symptoms.

"But less than 5 per cent of those in need of help were a part of psychiatric treatment facilities," he said.

A major drawback, Kline said, is that most physicians receive relatively little training in treating depression, even though most patients go to their family doctor first for help.

He suggested that family doctors arrange for a consulting psychiatrist to work with them for a time in treating depressive patients, so the family doctor can learn how to cope with the disease.

"We must overcome the superstition that psychiatric treatment must or even should be given primarily in a psychiatrist's office or in a dominantly psychiatric setting," Kline said.

Recruitment Drive Begins In Marin

Peace Corps and VISTA representatives today began a four-day recruitment drive in Marin.

Two recruiters will be in room 126 of the Holiday Inn, 1010 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, to answer questions and provide applications from noon to 8 p.m. through Thursday. Skilled tradesmen, professional and teachers are the primary targets of the recruitment drive by the two volunteer services.

A Call For Conditional Blanket Amnesty For Viet War Resisters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Army Secretary Robert F. Froehlke today called for blanket, though conditional, amnesty for resisters of the military draft during the Vietnam war. He did not support amnesty for military deserters.

The condition should be some kind of "service" to the country, ranging from military to religious projects, he said.

"I have concluded that all draft evaders should be given blanket, conditional amnesty," Froehlke testified at a congressional hearing.

Froehlke, who was Army secretary in 1971-73, said:

"I readily concede that it would be 'nice' if we only grant amnesty to those who fled for moral reasons and to those who fled for selfish reasons," unfortunately, it is impossible to determine intent.

"Therefore the amnesty for draft evaders must be blanket."

Froehlke said the amnesty must be conditional, however, because he said those who fled the country to avoid the draft "have not as yet had an opportunity to serve their country like those who stayed and served."

Testifying before a House Judiciary subcommittee on various amnesty proposals, Froehlke said that the status of deserters from the armed forces was different.

Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, testified on behalf of his bill to grant limited, conditional amnesty to draft violaters.

He said an amnesty with an alternate service provision would be the "most equitable" resolution of the controversial issue.

In the case of evaders, Froehlke said, "It is only just and reasonable that the first act upon returning to their country should be service to that country — as an obligation and privilege, not punishment."

He said the service could be in the military but also could include such organizations as VISTA and the Peace Corps and hospital and church projects.

The deserter "is a far more complicated problem and I have not been able to come up with a solution that satisfies me," said Froehlke, now president of the Sentry Corp., who was a high Pentagon official from 1969 until he resigned as Army secretary last year.

He said that because the deserter was subject to the uniform code of military justice and because it was not uncommon for desertion to occur after committing a criminal act, "for tte time being I have concluded that the deserter must be treated on a case by case basis."

He called for creation of a board to look at the deserters total record in a "nonvindictive, generous manner."

Drawings Show Volume In Purity Of Expression

By ADA GARFINKEL

The artist's black-and-white penline still-lifes at Gallery Three in Larkspur, are unencumbered by hatching or shading to create an illusion of roundness. Their sinewy, energetic, connective lines need no other aids to create form.

In addition to being a visual artist, Mrs. Tomkins is also a professional singer and all the members of her family are also musicians. Hence, it is not surprising that many of her drawings abound with the instruments that are so much a part of her environment.

Each of Mrs. Tomkins' drawings has its special surprise in the form of some small, colorful object done in watercolor — an Indian or Persian prayer rug, a Guatemalan cloth, a bit of needlepoint, or, as in "Cyclamen" — a single green leaf.

In several pictures the colored object moves into the room from the lowermost framing edge. In another, it is draped over a Victorian table. And in "Musical Still Life with Brahms," a strongly patterned rug emerges from under the piano pedals.

Sometimes the unbroken, flowing line encompasses the entire outline of an object — a grand piano, viola, violin, brass horns, music stand and bench, metronome, stereo system, Victorian chairs and tables. In other instances, only part of an object is shown. Solidity, validity, and believability are left to the viewer's imagination.

In "Musical Still Life With Indian Carpet," for example, only one piano leg, the pedals, and a partial line to suggest the curve of a grand piano, are shown. However, a sheaf of music, a violin, and a flute rest casually on the piano "top." In contrast, a viola and several brass instruments and furniture are connected with a single line in "Musical Still Life, Moto Perpetuo," and only the significant parts — a chair back, a table base, a portion of the piano — are shown. Books, a tape recorder, and other objects in the connecting web, here, too, rest on an unseen surface.

The table top, slightly tipped forward, has a platter of tomatoes on it, a candle, a violin, and a bow. Despite the title, it is not the tomatoes that are colored, but a Persian prayer rug in a "tomato-ey" red-orange and blue.

The precarious air of the tilted table top and its objects is further enhanced by the violin and bow which are sliding off, so that the instrument's fingerboard and the bow appear to cleave the table-base in midsection.

Mrs. Tomkins' drawings will continue to be shown through March 23. It may be seen Tuesday through Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Gallery Three, 1026 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

SATIRIZING MUSICAL COMEDIES

MUSIC REVIEW

Violinist Canin Takes Top Honors In Symphony's Show

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

Musicians of the San Francisco Symphony seemed pleased to have a place to play Saturday night, after the city worker's strike forced the cancellation of two San Francisco performances last week. The large Marin audience at the Veteran's Memorial Building gave them a warm welcome.

Stuart Canin, violin soloist, stole the show with his fire and ice interpretation of Stravinsky's Violin Concerto in D Major. It is a glorious work, both melodic and exciting, and filled with tremendous technical difficulties. Canin's virtuoso abilities and elegant styling made it superb.

Stravinsky tried his hand at every form of writing. His limited knowledge of the violin both frees this concerto from conventional lines and renders it technically challenging.

The violin is pitted against winds or brass more often than against the main body of strings. As is often the case with Stravinsky's orchestral music, the strings are given the opportunity to practice what they are otherwise seldom called upon to do — count measures of rest.

Winds and brass were excellent, especially in duet with the violin, and balance was generally even, with only brief moments of overpowering the soloist.

Guest conductor Lawrence Foster was not the limited leader we had been expecting. He lacks the feline flamboyance of the Bernstein-Ozawa school, to say the least — in fact, his mannerisms border on the annoying, but he knows the sound he wants and determinedly goes after it.

The opening Mozart Symphony No. 26 was competently, though not excitingly, performed. The work's value lies in its sequence in Mozart's symphonic repertoire. The influence of his recent Italian tour is evident, plus a strong feeling of Johann Christian Bach in the last movement — not a great symphony, but not bad for a 17-year-old composer.

Foster brought out the loud-soft-softer contrasts, and the rhythmic idiom which form the work's main interest.

The Ives' "Decoration Day" was beautifully handled. The piece is actually the second movement of a symphony, each movement commemorating a national holiday. The symphony is seldom performed in its entirety. The original meaning of this holiday, to honor the Union soldiers who died in the Civil War, is deeply expressed.

The jaunty march back to town following the ceremony temporarily dispels the poignancy left by the sound of taps floating over the gravesites, but the somberness returns in the final quiet moments played only by a few of the strings. Each impression and emotion was sensitively brought out under Foster's hand.

Prokofieff's Symphony No. 5, which made up the second half of the program, is a work of massive structures — a "hymn to the spirit of man." Although the symbolism of war has been discounted by musicologists, it is hard to refrain from seeing such allusions.

Perhaps the Ives helped set the stage for pictorial representation, but it was easy to imagine the tramping of marching men, the miliary use of the snare drum, and the "victorious" majestic themes.

The majority of musical material lies in the lower instruments (cellos, basses, contrabassoon, and low brass), giving a dark shading throughout, until those moments when only the violins and high winds lighten the texture considerably.

This heaviness in voicing, makes it difficult to avoid an overweighted sound, and Foster was not successful in lifting it above the ponderous. Still the insistent rhythms of the scherzo and some of the soaring melodies were nicely executed.

Nader Suit Threatens To End All Airport Security Devices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Ralph Nader suit threatens to disconnect all airport X-ray antihijacking devices this week, unless the Federal Aviation Aministration can come up with some quick answers.

Federal Judge Barrington Parker has ordered use of the devices halted, but granted a stay until Wednesday to give the FAA time to appeal.

Parker's order did not rule on Nader's claim that the machines may be hazardous to health, but it did order the FAA to determine the effect the machines have on the environment.

The suit was filed by Nader's Aviation Consumer Action Project, which had obtained a federal court ruling that the FAA started anti-hijack screening procedures without required public comment or notice.

Airlines use two types of devices to search for weapons. The X-ray machines are used to screen carry-on luggage and people are checked with a magnetometer, usually installed in a plastic arch on the way to the boarding gate.

Nader's challenge to the safety of the devices came just a week after Rep. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., charged that 80 per cent of the magnetic detection machines were inoperative or did not work properly.

An FAA spokesman yesterday denied Murphy's charges. He said Murphy may have misread the FAA's records and added that the anti-hijacking devices "work very well."

"These machines are checked several times a day, and when they are not operating properly a report is made and they are fixed.

"Mr. Murphy may have been speaking of these reported outages."

The FAA said that the magnetometers detected more than 58,000 weapons in 1973 resulting in 3,120 arrests.

But, Ruben Robinson, a Nader attorney said he was worried that the X-ray devices had not been truely effective.

"There is a lot of fatigue by the operator, and there are types of hazardous instruments that can't be seen on the X-ray screen," Robertson said.

Nader's suit charged that the FAA had not taken steps to insure the safety of the devices, particularly for employes who must work with them eight hours a day.

"We know some X-rays are striking people, but we don't know how much," Robertson said. "In the future this could show up statistically in an increased rate of leukemia or genetic deformities among children of people operating the equipment."

Sign Standards To Be Evaluated

The San Rafael Planning Commission will evaluate sign standards for Montecito Shopping Center when it meets at 7:30 p.m. March 12 in city hall.

Drawings Show Volume In Purity Of Expression

By ADA GARFINKEL

The artist's black-and-white penline still-lifes at Gallery Three in Larkspur, are unencumbered by hatching or shading to create an illusion of roundness. Their sinewy, energetic, connective lines need no other aids to create form.

In addition to being a visual artist, Mrs. Tomkins is also a professional singer and all the members of her family are also musicians. Hence, it is not surprising that many of her drawings abound with the instruments that are so much a part of her environment.

Each of Mrs. Tomkins' drawings has its special surprise in the form of some small, colorful object done in watercolor — an Indian or Persian prayer rug, a Guatemalan cloth, a bit of needlepoint, or, as in "Cyclamen" — a single green leaf.

In several pictures the colored object moves into the room from the lowermost framing edge. In another, it is draped over a Victorian table. And in "Musical Still Life with Brahms," a strongly patterned rug emerges from under the piano pedals.

Sometimes the unbroken, flowing line encompasses the entire outline of an object — a grand piano, viola, violin, brass horns, music stand and bench, metronome, stereo system, Victorian chairs and tables. In other instances, only part of an object is shown. Solidity, validity, and believability are left to the viewer's imagination.

In "Musical Still Life With Indian Carpet," for example, only one piano leg, the pedals, and a partial line to suggest the curve of a grand piano, are shown. However, a sheaf of music, a violin, and a flute rest casually on the piano "top." In contrast, a viola and several brass instruments and furniture are connected with a single line in "Musical Still Life, Moto Perpetuo," and only the significant parts — a chair back, a table base, a portion of the piano — are shown. Books, a tape recorder, and other objects in the connecting web, here, too, rest on an unseen surface.

The table top, slightly tipped forward, has a platter of tomatoes on it, a candle, a violin, and a bow. Despite the title, it is not the tomatoes that are colored, but a Persian prayer rug in a "tomato-ey" red-orange and blue.

The precarious air of the tilted table top and its objects is further enhanced by the violin and bow which are sliding off, so that the instrument's fingerboard and the bow appear to cleave the table-base in midsection.

Mrs. Tomkins' drawings will continue to be shown through March 23. It may be seen Tuesday through Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Gallery Three, 1026 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

SATIRIZING MUSICAL COMEDIES

MUSIC REVIEW

Violinist Canin Takes Top Honors In Symphony's Show

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

Musicians of the San Francisco Symphony seemed pleased to have a place to play Saturday night, after the city worker's strike forced the cancellation of two San Francisco performances last week. The large Marin audience at the Veteran's Memorial Building gave them a warm welcome.

Stuart Canin, violin soloist, stole the show with his fire and ice interpretation of Stravinsky's Violin Concerto in D Major. It is a glorious work, both melodic and exciting, and filled with tremendous technical difficulties. Canin's virtuoso abilities and elegant styling made it superb.

Stravinsky tried his hand at every form of writing. His limited knowledge of the violin both frees this concerto from conventional lines and renders it technically challenging.

The violin is pitted against winds or brass more often than against the main body of strings. As is often the case with Stravinsky's orchestral music, the strings are given the opportunity to practice what they are otherwise seldom called upon to do — count measures of rest.

Winds and brass were excellent, especially in duet with the violin, and balance was generally even, with only brief moments of overpowering the soloist.

Guest conductor Lawrence Foster was not the limited leader we had been expecting. He lacks the feline flamboyance of the Bernstein-Ozawa school, to say the least — in fact, his mannerisms border on the annoying, but he knows the sound he wants and determinedly goes after it.

The opening Mozart Symphony No. 26 was competently, though not excitingly, performed. The work's value lies in its sequence in Mozart's symphonic repertoire. The influence of his recent Italian tour is evident, plus a strong feeling of Johann Christian Bach in the last movement — not a great symphony, but not bad for a 17-year-old composer.

Foster brought out the loud-soft-softer contrasts, and the rhythmic idiom which form the work's main interest.

The Ives' "Decoration Day" was beautifully handled. The piece is actually the second movement of a symphony, each movement commemorating a national holiday. The symphony is seldom performed in its entirety. The original meaning of this holiday, to honor the Union soldiers who died in the Civil War, is deeply expressed.

The jaunty march back to town following the ceremony temporarily dispels the poignancy left by the sound of taps floating over the gravesites, but the somberness returns in the final quiet moments played only by a few of the strings. Each impression and emotion was sensitively brought out under Foster's hand.

Prokofieff's Symphony No. 5, which made up the second half of the program, is a work of massive structures — a "hymn to the spirit of man." Although the symbolism of war has been discounted by musicologists, it is hard to refrain from seeing such allusions.

Perhaps the Ives helped set the stage for pictorial representation, but it was easy to imagine the tramping of marching men, the miliary use of the snare drum, and the "victorious" majestic themes.

The majority of musical material lies in the lower instruments (cellos, basses, contrabassoon, and low brass), giving a dark shading throughout, until those moments when only the violins and high winds lighten the texture considerably.

This heaviness in voicing, makes it difficult to avoid an overweighted sound, and Foster was not successful in lifting it above the ponderous. Still the insistent rhythms of the scherzo and some of the soaring melodies were nicely executed.

JAIL CASELOAD WORKERS

Trappings Aren't Ivory Towered

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Although they will receive 24 units of credit this year from New College in Sausalito, it won't be for some cloistered, abstract academic study. They and 10 of their student colleagues are full-time caseworkers at the San Francisco County jail in San Bruno.

The temptation is to dismiss them as fresh-faced college kids engaged in a short-term sociological experiment. And at first, the worldly-wise deputies and other jail officials did just that.

But no longer.

Marcum, 28, and Miss Bailinson, 25, who help supervise the casework, are not what they appear to be.

He was paroled in March 1972 after seven years in some of California's toughest prisons — including Soledad, Vacaville and the California Men's Colony — on a conviction for second-degree murder.

She spent three-and-one-half years behind bars at the Nevada State Prison and the Oregon Penitentiary for forgery and armed robbery. She works with the 50 or so inmates in the women's jail, adjacent to the men's facility.

Their entry into productive jobs is only part of the story. The program's successes account for the rest.

Sheriff Richard D. Hongisto credits the New College students with nothing less than "transforming the county jails." He said in a letter to New College president John Leary that they have earned the respect of prisoners and guards alike in only seven months of work.

What is this handful of young people doing to generate such glowing praise? The question resulted in a visit to find out.

The county jail in San Bruno is a dreary, six-story monolith surprisingly close to interminable blue-collar subdivisions whose congruous homes stand shoulder to shoulder over the gentle slopes of the South San Francisco Peninsula.

Inside, the air was thick with a mixture of chatter, boiling from the guts of the jail community, and the clang of metal. Guards hurried here and there; an inmate janitor swept the floor.

The street-talking, Brooklyn-born Towbis, wearing dungarees and a clenched fist medallion around his neck, explained that before the students came, between eight and 10 guards were charged with handling the jail's 500 prisoners.

The overworked guards, Towbis said, maintained security but had little time to tend to the constant demands of the inmates. They are desperate for information, from the status of their cases to employment and educational opportunities on the outside he said.

Even simple requests, for medical attention or permission to make telephone calls to families, lawyers, doctors and friends, went unanswered. The result was frustration, hostility and often violence.

The students, according to Towbis and the guards, have done much to release the tension of the lockup. They make daily rounds of the cell blocks, bringing back information and receiving new requests from inmates for help.

"Aside from all the other positive things they've done," Towbis said, "they have really mellowed the jail down. They are remarkable."

They are so trusted that they have their own keys and roam freely about their business throughout the jail. According to Towbis, it is the only instance in U.S. jails of such a privilege being given to civilians.

The inmates, most of whom are in for misdemeanor offenses carrying sentences of less than one year, are quick to express their appreciation.

As caseworker Tom Coleman, 24, of San Rafael made his rounds, prisoner Charles Wheeler volunteered: "It really surprised me when this guy came around and asked 'hey, can I do anything for you?' "

Through the bars of his tiny cubicle, big Jerry Simon spoke fondly of Coleman. "If he can't churn butter, then it couldn't be churned. He always keeps the inmates' interests at heart. Hell, half the men in here wouldn't see a doctor if it wasn't for the caseworkers. They're our last and best hope."

In all, there are 20 students in the jail program, University Year for Action, conducted through New College and funded by the federal agency Action, which also oversees the Peace Corps and Vista. Project Director at New College is Ruth Maguire.

Students Gale Rutechi and Mary Kotsenas work outside the jail in job development. They have found 160 jobs for prisoners in seven months.

Ann Weill and Patrick Grant are caseworkers at the Hall of Justice in downtown San Francisco. Joan Mills coordinates outside volunteer projects. Two students work in the jail's alcohol rehabilitation section.

Each caseworker receives $167 per month and a lump sum of $600 at the end of the year, in addition to college credit.

Ten students in another program of community involvement with an architectural firm are building a mini park for visiting children of prisoners. They also designed and built desks from which caseworkers conduct their business.

The ultimate goal, says Towbis, is "to turn prisoners around, to make sure they don't come back."

But despite their successes, the students concede that much of their work is of the band-aid variety. High-level officials in the criminal justice system must raise the priority of rehabilitation, they say.

On the day of this visit the students were all smiles. Marcum was released from parole, and gave much credit for that to his work at San Bruno. And Miss Bailinson, taking time from casework and talking on the phone, confessed: "If it were not for this program, I'd probably be out running the streets. It has helped me more than the prisoners."

The Streakers Continue Their Antics In Marin

Two men on a tandem bicycle and a colleague jogging alongside, all wearing only hats and tennis shoes, stopped at the Jack-In-The-Box in San Anselmo early yesterday and asked startled clerks for french fries and milk. The trio then disappeared in the darkness, a resident reported.

In San Rafael, two streakers were seen Saturday night dashing by the city's main firehouse shortly before they jumped into a pickup truck and sped away.

In Fairfax, a resident reported seeing a long-haired young man streaking up Cascade Drive in combat boots shortly after dawn yesterday.

Larkspur City Council will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in city hall to convass returns of last week's municipal election, seat newly elected members Alfred J Malvino and Charles H. Curley and to elect a mayor and vice mayor.

Group Home Case Now In Courts

The would-be operator of a group home in Corte Madera, having failed to win official blessing for the venture from the town council, has taken his battle into court.

Kenneth A. Anderson, a former high school teacher whose firing was upheld by a Marin judge in January, sued the town Friday in Marin Superior Court.

He claimed the town's disapproval of the proposed home for problem youths was racially motivated.

The action was filed in the name of Fern Hill school, the corporation which runs a group home in Mendocino County and seeks to open one for six youths at 122 Willow Avenue, Corte Madera.

The home would house six troubled youngsters and serve as a last stop before returning them to their homes.

The town council last Monday denied a use permit sought by Anderson and his brother, Bruce, thus affirming a planning commission rejection of the permit.

The suit, filed by San Anselmo attorney Carl B. Shapiro, accused planning commissioners and town councilmen of racism in rejecting the home.

At three commission and council meetings, "comment has specifically been directed at the question of the race of the children to be served by the home," it said.

Denial of the use permit was based "in whole or in part on the desires of the respondents to prevent black persons and other minorities, especially those from deprived circumstances, from residing in the town of Corte Madera," it said.

Shapiro asked a March 22 hearing on whether the town should be forced to issue the use permit.

Kentfield Doctor Seeks Tam Post

A Kentfield doctor today said he is seeking election to the Tamalpais High School District Board to "repay my obligation for all that public education has given to me and my family."

Dr. Darrell F. Smith, 43, filed his nomination papers Friday and will face Elaine S. Brockbank in the June 4 election to fill the seat of Frank L. Miller who resigned.

Smith, a Kentfield resident for 12 years and a practicing ophthalmologist in Greenbrae for nine years, was a member of the district's citizens advisory committee this year. He led the opposition to a sex education course which was approved by district trustees.

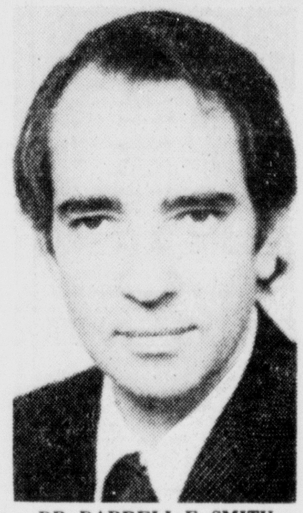

"Through declining enrollment and impositions of new state legislation the district has acquired a considerable budgetary deficit," Smith said. "Trustees must face the issue with fiscal and scholastic responsibility to the silenced majority of overburdened taxpayers."

He noted that 180 new private schools were opened in California during 1972 and 1973 and he said attracting students from private schools into public schools would be a way to "help relieve our financial strain."

Smith was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, and received bachelor's and medical degrees from the University of Utah. He received specialty training in ophthalmology at Presbyterian Medical Center, San Francisco.

He has been the section chief of the department of ophthalmology at Marin General Hospital and secretary of staff at Ross General Hospital.

Larkspur Man, 43, Found Dead

Ebert, 43, was found hanging in his closet by a friend. He had been reported depressed recently, according to the coroner's office.

He had lived in Marin County about two years, to work for the Commerce Clearing House, which has headquarters in San Rafael. Ebert was a copy writer in the firm's advertising department.

He was born in Dixon, Ill., and grew up in nearby Polo, where the funeral will be held.

An open letter to Mercedes-Benz owners.

The news about the energy crisis and possible fuel shortages concerns us all, and so I would ask you to consider an important fact: You own a Mercedes-Benz.

When you bought your Mercedes-Benz, you received, automatically, the benefits of engineering that had, for many years, been forced to face up to heavy West German taxation designed to limit engine size — and to European gasoline prices which often range over a dollar a gallon. And so Mercedes-Benz automobiles have always embodied the very essence of efficiency. By necessity.

Our latest, most advanced sedan, the 450SE, is a good example of the kind of efficiency I mean. This is a V-8-powered automobile. Nevertheless, it can produce up to 30 percent better gasoline mileage than its domestic luxury counterparts. Among the engineering reasons why:

Its engine is unique. It is the only single overhead camshaft V-8 engine that employs a computerized fuel injection system to measure out the right amount of gasoline for the speed required.

The car weighs nearly half a ton less than comparable American cars with no sacrifice in strength. The roof alone can support a load of over five tons. The weight saved in the 450SE contributes to its better mileage.

Its aerodynamically designed configuration was created in a wind tunnel. As it cruises, its shape slices through the air with low drag. Low drag means less fuel waste.

It has radial tires. Radials produce better fuel mileage than other kinds of tires because they have lower rolling resistance.

Bear in mind — all of these fuel-saving advantages are to be found in the Mercedes-Benz with our largest engine. Those of you who own one of our six- or four-cylinder models should enjoy even greater mileage benefits. And you Mercedes-Benz Diesel owners have always been quick to report extraordinary fuel economy.

Now we are all required to reduce driving speeds and asked to limit the use of our cars. Nevertheless, the automobile is — and will continue to be — the primary means of transportation for all of us.

Remember: You own a Mercedes-Benz. The finest car that hearts and hands and minds can produce. I think that, on reflection, you will agree that your Mercedes-Benz offers you unique advantages. Especially in light of today's energy crisis.

Sincerely,

K. Nordmann

JAIL CASELOAD WORKERS

Trappings Aren't Ivory Towered

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Although they will receive 24 units of credit this year from New College in Sausalito, it won't be for some cloistered, abstract academic study. They and 10 of their student colleagues are full-time caseworkers at the San Francisco County jail in San Bruno.

The temptation is to dismiss them as fresh-faced college kids engaged in a short-term sociological experiment. And at first, the worldly-wise deputies and other jail officials did just that.

But no longer.

Marcum, 28, and Miss Bailinson, 25, who help supervise the casework, are not what they appear to be.

He was paroled in March 1972 after seven years in some of California's toughest prisons — including Soledad, Vacaville and the California Men's Colony — on a conviction for second-degree murder.

She spent three-and-one-half years behind bars at the Nevada State Prison and the Oregon Penitentiary for forgery and armed robbery. She works with the 50 or so inmates in the women's jail, adjacent to the men's facility.

Their entry into productive jobs is only part of the story. The program's successes account for the rest.

Sheriff Richard D. Hongisto credits the New College students with nothing less than "transforming the county jails." He said in a letter to New College president John Leary that they have earned the respect of prisoners and guards alike in only seven months of work.

What is this handful of young people doing to generate such glowing praise? The question resulted in a visit to find out.

Trappings Aren't Ivory Towered

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Although they will receive 24 units of credit this year from New College in Sausalito, it won't be for some cloistered, abstract academic study. They and 10 of their student colleagues are full-time caseworkers at the San Francisco County jail in San Bruno.

The temptation is to dismiss them as fresh-faced college kids engaged in a short-term sociological experiment. And at first, the worldly-wise deputies and other jail officials did just that.

But no longer.

Marcum, 28, and Miss Bailinson, 25, who help supervise the casework, are not what they appear to be.

He was paroled in March 1972 after seven years in some of California's toughest prisons — including Soledad, Vacaville and the California Men's Colony — on a conviction for second-degree murder.

She spent three-and-one-half years behind bars at the Nevada State Prison and the Oregon Penitentiary for forgery and armed robbery. She works with the 50 or so inmates in the women's jail, adjacent to the men's facility.

Their entry into productive jobs is only part of the story. The program's successes account for the rest.

Sheriff Richard D. Hongisto credits the New College students with nothing less than "transforming the county jails." He said in a letter to New College president John Leary that they have earned the respect of prisoners and guards alike in only seven months of work.

What is this handful of young people doing to generate such glowing praise? The question resulted in a visit to find out.

The county jail in San Bruno is a dreary, six-story monolith surprisingly close to interminable blue-collar subdivisions whose congruous homes stand shoulder to shoulder over the gentle slopes of the South San Francisco Peninsula.

Inside, the air was thick with a mixture of chatter, boiling from the guts of the jail community, and the clang of metal. Guards hurried here and there; an inmate janitor swept the floor.

The street-talking, Brooklyn-born Towbis, wearing dungarees and a clenched fist medallion around his neck, explained that before the students came, between eight and 10 guards were charged with handling the jail's 500 prisoners.

The overworked guards, Towbis said, maintained security but had little time to tend to the constant demands of the inmates. They are desperate for information, from the status of their cases to employment and educational opportunities on the outside he said.

Even simple requests, for medical attention or permission to make telephone calls to families, lawyers, doctors and friends, went unanswered. The result was frustration, hostility and often violence.

The students, according to Towbis and the guards, have done much to release the tension of the lockup. They make daily rounds of the cell blocks, bringing back information and receiving new requests from inmates for help.

"Aside from all the other positive things they've done," Towbis said, "they have really mellowed the jail down. They are remarkable."

They are so trusted that they have their own keys and roam freely about their business throughout the jail. According to Towbis, it is the only instance in U.S. jails of such a privilege being given to civilians.

The inmates, most of whom are in for misdemeanor offenses carrying sentences of less than one year, are quick to express their appreciation.

As caseworker Tom Coleman, 24, of San Rafael made his rounds, prisoner Charles Wheeler volunteered: "It really surprised me when this guy came around and asked 'hey, can I do anything for you?' "

Through the bars of his tiny cubicle, big Jerry Simon spoke fondly of Coleman. "If he can't churn butter, then it couldn't be churned. He always keeps the inmates' interests at heart. Hell, half the men in here wouldn't see a doctor if it wasn't for the caseworkers. They're our last and best hope."

In all, there are 20 students in the jail program, University Year for Action, conducted through New College and funded by the federal agency Action, which also oversees the Peace Corps and Vista. Project Director at New College is Ruth Maguire.

Students Gale Rutechi and Mary Kotsenas work outside the jail in job development. They have found 160 jobs for prisoners in seven months.

Ann Weill and Patrick Grant are caseworkers at the Hall of Justice in downtown San Francisco. Joan Mills coordinates outside volunteer projects. Two students work in the jail's alcohol rehabilitation section.

Each caseworker receives $167 per month and a lump sum of $600 at the end of the year, in addition to college credit.

Ten students in another program of community involvement with an architectural firm are building a mini park for visiting children of prisoners. They also designed and built desks from which caseworkers conduct their business.

The ultimate goal, says Towbis, is "to turn prisoners around, to make sure they don't come back."

But despite their successes, the students concede that much of their work is of the band-aid variety. High-level officials in the criminal justice system must raise the priority of rehabilitation, they say.

On the day of this visit the students were all smiles. Marcum was released from parole, and gave much credit for that to his work at San Bruno. And Miss Bailinson, taking time from casework and talking on the phone, confessed: "If it were not for this program, I'd probably be out running the streets. It has helped me more than the prisoners."

HELPING HAND — New college student Tom Coleman of San Rafael listens to inmate requests and problems at the San Francisco County Jail in San Bruno. He and 19 other student caseworkers have been credited by Sheriff Richard D. Hongisto with "transforming the county jail."

OVERSEER — Ray Towbis, director of rehabilitation for the San Francisco County Jail says the goal of a program through New College in Sausalito at the San Bruno jail "is to turn prisoners around, to insure that they don't come back."

THE LONELY LOCKUP — A prisoner at the San Francisco County Jail in San Bruno stares out the window of his cell, one way to pass long hours of confinement. A program involving student caseworkers from New College in Sausalito is aimed at giving prisoners, like this man, the help they need to keep from coming back.

Group Home Case Now In Courts

The would-be operator of a group home in Corte Madera, having failed to win official blessing for the venture from the town council, has taken his battle into court.

Kenneth A. Anderson, a former high school teacher whose firing was upheld by a Marin judge in January, sued the town Friday in Marin Superior Court.

He claimed the town's disapproval of the proposed home for problem youths was racially motivated.

The action was filed in the name of Fern Hill school, the corporation which runs a group home in Mendocino County and seeks to open one for six youths at 122 Willow Avenue, Corte Madera.

The home would house six troubled youngsters and serve as a last stop before returning them to their homes.

The town council last Monday denied a use permit sought by Anderson and his brother, Bruce, thus affirming a planning commission rejection of the permit.

The suit, filed by San Anselmo attorney Carl B. Shapiro, accused planning commissioners and town councilmen of racism in rejecting the home.

At three commission and council meetings, "comment has specifically been directed at the question of the race of the children to be served by the home," it said.

Denial of the use permit was based "in whole or in part on the desires of the respondents to prevent black persons and other minorities, especially those from deprived circumstances, from residing in the town of Corte Madera," it said.

Shapiro asked a March 22 hearing on whether the town should be forced to issue the use permit.

Kentfield Doctor Seeks Tam Post

A Kentfield doctor today said he is seeking election to the Tamalpais High School District Board to "repay my obligation for all that public education has given to me and my family."

Dr. Darrell F. Smith, 43, filed his nomination papers Friday and will face Elaine S. Brockbank in the June 4 election to fill the seat of Frank L. Miller who resigned.

Smith, a Kentfield resident for 12 years and a practicing ophthalmologist in Greenbrae for nine years, was a member of the district's citizens advisory committee this year. He led the opposition to a sex education course which was approved by district trustees.

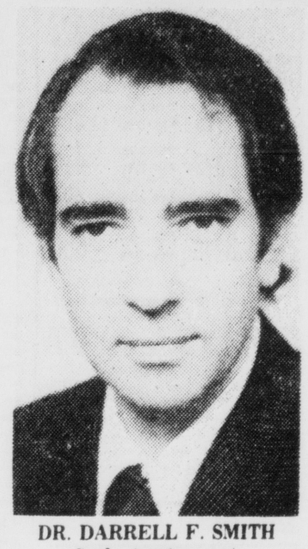

"Through declining enrollment and impositions of new state legislation the district has acquired a considerable budgetary deficit," Smith said. "Trustees must face the issue with fiscal and scholastic responsibility to the silenced majority of overburdened taxpayers."

He noted that 180 new private schools were opened in California during 1972 and 1973 and he said attracting students from private schools into public schools would be a way to "help relieve our financial strain."

Smith was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, and received bachelor's and medical degrees from the University of Utah. He received specialty training in ophthalmology at Presbyterian Medical Center, San Francisco.

He has been the section chief of the department of ophthalmology at Marin General Hospital and secretary of staff at Ross General Hospital.

Larkspur Man, 43, Found Dead

Ebert, 43, was found hanging in his closet by a friend. He had been reported depressed recently, according to the coroner's office.

He had lived in Marin County about two years, to work for the Commerce Clearing House, which has headquarters in San Rafael. Ebert was a copy writer in the firm's advertising department.

He was born in Dixon, Ill., and grew up in nearby Polo, where the funeral will be held.

To Check Voting

Ross town councilmen will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. in town hall to convass returns of last Tuesday's municipal election, seat councilmen Frederick S. Allen and Roy Farrington Jones who won reelection and choose a mayor.

The Streakers Continue Their Antics In Marin

Two men on a tandem bicycle and a colleague jogging alongside, all wearing only hats and tennis shoes, stopped at the Jack-In-The-Box in San Anselmo early yesterday and asked startled clerks for french fries and milk. The trio then disappeared in the darkness, a resident reported.

In San Rafael, two streakers were seen Saturday night dashing by the city's main firehouse shortly before they jumped into a pickup truck and sped away.

In Fairfax, a resident reported seeing a long-haired young man streaking up Cascade Drive in combat boots shortly after dawn yesterday.

To Canvass Vote

Larkspur City Council will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in city hall to convass returns of last week's municipal election, seat newly elected members Alfred J Malvino and Charles H. Curley and to elect a mayor and vice mayor.

An open letter to Mercedes-Benz owners.

The news about the energy crisis and possible fuel shortages concerns us all, and so I would ask you to consider an important fact: You own a Mercedes-Benz.

When you bought your Mercedes-Benz, you received, automatically, the benefits of engineering that had, for many years, been forced to face up to heavy West German taxation designed to limit engine size — and to European gasoline prices which often range over a dollar a gallon. And so Mercedes-Benz automobiles have always embodied the very essence of efficiency. By necessity.

Our latest, most advanced sedan, the 450SE, is a good example of the kind of efficiency I mean. This is a V-8-powered automobile. Nevertheless, it can produce up to 30 percent better gasoline mileage than its domestic luxury counterparts. Among the engineering reasons why:

Its engine is unique. It is the only single overhead camshaft V-8 engine that employs a computerized fuel injection system to measure out the right amount of gasoline for the speed required.

The car weighs nearly half a ton less than comparable American cars with no sacrifice in strength. The roof alone can support a load of over five tons. The weight saved in the 450SE contributes to its better mileage.

Its aerodynamically designed configuration was created in a wind tunnel. As it cruises, its shape slices through the air with low drag. Low drag means less fuel waste.

It has radial tires. Radials produce better fuel mileage than other kinds of tires because they have lower rolling resistance.

Bear in mind — all of these fuel-saving advantages are to be found in the Mercedes-Benz with our largest engine. Those of you who own one of our six- or four-cylinder models should enjoy even greater mileage benefits. And you Mercedes-Benz Diesel owners have always been quick to report extraordinary fuel economy.

Now we are all required to reduce driving speeds and asked to limit the use of our cars. Nevertheless, the automobile is — and will continue to be — the primary means of transportation for all of us.

Remember: You own a Mercedes-Benz. The finest car that hearts and hands and minds can produce. I think that, on reflection, you will agree that your Mercedes-Benz offers you unique advantages. Especially in light of today's energy crisis.

Sincerely,

K. Nordmann

Public Notice

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS CALLING FOR BIDS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Marin Community College District of Marin County, California, acting by and through its Governing Board, hereinafter referred to as the District, will receive up to, but not later than 2:00 P.M., P.D.S.T. of the fifteenth day of April, 1974, sealed bids for the award of a contract for construction of the Site Development and Utilities for Indian Valley Colleges, Novato, California consisting of demolition and removal of existing ranch facilities, tree removal, erosion control, wood and concrete structures, site lighting, vehicular and campus signage, asphaltic and concrete paving, landscaping and irrigation, storm drainage, plumbing and electrical work, and trash containers.

All bids shall be made on a bid form furnished by the District. Bids shall be received in the Board Room, Office Center 160 of District at College of Marin, Kentfield, California 94904, and shall be opened and publicly read aloud at the above stated time and place.

Each bid shall conform and be responsive to the contract documents prepared by Neptune and Thomas Associates, Architects, 1560 West Colorado Boulevard, Pasadena, California 91105, copies of which are now on file in the Office of the Director of Planning of the District, Office Center Room 180.

Plans are available from Marin Builders Exchange, 110 Belvedere, San Rafael, California 94901, 456-3233, where same may be examined and copies obtained upon deposit of $75 per set, which deposit will be refunded upon the return of such copies in good condition within five days after bids are opened.

Each bid shall be accompanied by the security referred to in the contract documents and shall also include a list of proposed subcontractors.

The District reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bids or in the bidding.

Bidders are hereby notified that, pursuant to Section 1770 of the Labor Code of the State of California, Marin Community College District has ascertained the general prevailing rates of hourly wages and rates for legal holidays and overtime work in the locality where this work is to be performed for each craft or type of workmen or mechanic needed to execute the contract which will be awarded to the successful bidder. The prevailing rates so determined by the District Board are on file with the District.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded, and upon any subcontractor under him, to pay not less than the said specified rates to all workmen employed by them in the execution of the contract.

All bidders must be contractors properly licensed to perform said work.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of sixty (60) days after the date set for the opening of bids.

Public Notice

NOTICE OF SALE OF PROPERTY DELINQUENT FOR NON-PAYMENT OF ASSESSMENT 132 OCEANA MARIN UNIT 5 ASSESSMENT DISTRICT IN THE COUNTY OF MARIN.

State of California, default having been made in the payment of the following named coupons, Principal #1 due 1-2-73, 286.76; Principal #2 due 1-2-74, 286.66; Interest #1 due 1-2-73; 224.08; Interest #2 due 7-2-73; 140.46; Interest #3 due 1-2-74; 140.46; and the holder of said bond having demanded in writing that the County Treasurer of the County of Marin, State of California, proceed to advertise and sell the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond. Now, therefore, I give notice that I will on the 20th day of March, 1974, at the hour of 10:00 A.M. of said day, sell at public auction, the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond, or so much thereof as may be necessary, at my office in the Marin County Civic Center at San Rafael, California, unless the amount due on said bond and the accrued interest thereon together with the cost of publication of this notice, are paid, and that I will so sell the same to the person who will take the least amount of said lot or parcel of land and pay the full amount of unpaid principal and interest on said bond together with the cost of publication. The lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond and to be sold, is more particularly described, to-wit:

The amount due on said bond up to the date of this notice is as follows: Due on principal thereof $4300.00; due on account of interest $604.72; due on account of penalties $112.84; total amount due on said bond $5017.56.

In order to avoid this sale, payment of the total amount above named will be required, together with the cost of publication made before such payment and the additional interest accruing up to the date of payment. Bond may be reinstated upon payment of amounts due, principal, interest, penalties, and fees, in the manner provided by law.

In the event of sale, such sale will include interest in addition to the above total amount due, accruing up to the date of sale, the cost of publication of notice of sale, and $1.00 for the issuance of certificate of sale.

The Independent-Journal is designated as the newspaper in which this notice shall be published.

Public Notice

NOTICE OF SALE OF PROPERTY DELINQUENT FOR NON-PAYMENT OF ASSESSMENT 274 OCEANA-MARIN UNIT 5 ASSESSMENT DISTRICT IN THE COUNTY OF MARIN.

State of California, default having been made in the payment of the following named coupons, Principal No. 1 due 1-2-73, $800.00; Principal No. 2 due 1-2-74, $800.00; Interest No. 1 due 1-2-73, $625.33; Interest No. 2 due 7-2-73, $392.00; Interest No. 3 due 1-2-74, $392.00 and the holder of said bond having demanded in writing that the County Treasurer of the County of Marin, State of California, proceed to advertise and sell the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond. Now, therefore, I give notice that I will on the 20th day of March, 1974, at the hour of 10:00 A.M. of said day, sell at public auction, the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond, or so much thereof as may be necessary, at my office in the Marin County Civic Center at San Rafael, California, unless the amount due on said bond and the accrued interest thereon together with the cost of publication of this notice, are paid, and that I will so sell the same to the person who will take the least amount of said lot or parcel of land and pay the full amount of unpaid principal and interest on said bond together with the cost of publication. The lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond and to be sold, is more particularly described, to-wit:

The amount due on said bond up to the date of this notice is as follows: Due on the principal thereof $12,000.00; due on account of interest $1,687.61; due on account of penalties $314.93; total amount due on said bond $14,002.54.

In order to avoid this sale, payment of the total amount above named will be required, together with the cost of publication made before such payment and the additional interest accruing up to the date of payment. Bond may be reinstated upon payment of amounts due, principal, interest, penalties, and fees, in the manner provided by law.

In the event of sale, such sale will include interest in addition to the above total amount due, accruing up to the date of sale, the cost of publication of notice of sale, and $1.00 for the issuance of certificate of sale.

The Independent-Journal is designated as the newspaper in which this notice shall be published.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

The Treatment Of Tuberculosis Is Much Changed In 50 Years

In the last 50 years we have seen many changes in the treatment of tuberculosis. Bed rest and sunshine, once basic remedies, now play a minor role. Because of the changes, the climate of the Southwest has nothing to offer these people, and sanatoriums in these areas have been closed for years. Bed rest still is of value when the victim has high fever, weakness, pain, shortness of breath, or a productive cough. But the majority of victims are put on medications and advised to remain active.

To follow this regimen, the person need not go to Denver or Arizona. He can remain in Chicago, New York, or wherever he likes. The sanatorium becomes the place where he learns about his desease and is started on the medicines that will subdue the tubercle bacilli. Meanwhile, his family and friends are not exposed to the causative organisms while he is contagious.

THE LENGTH of hospitalization has been shortened from years to months. Exceptions occur when the lung condition is complicated by diabetes or alcoholism. Now and then the coexisting disorders are worse than the tuberculosis.

The latest recommendation is to treat tuberculosis in general hospitals. However, many institutions are not ready for this. Furthermore, health authorities are concerned that it might mean the end of the physician who specializes in the treatment of tuberculosis.

This proposal has more serious implications than appear on the surface, because TB control has been the result of early detection, modern drugs, and prolonged periods of aftercare. In order to eradicate tuberculosis, the chain of transmission of the causative agent must be broken. These measures have been carefully worked out and cannot be discarded.

MODERN ANTITUBERCULOSIS drugs such as PAS, isoniazid, streptomycin, and rifampin, are wonderful adjuncts, but they are not overnight cures. In addition, these drugs are combined and must be used properly because TB microbes are notorious for developing resistance to them and treatment must be continued long after the victim leaves the sanatorium. General hospitals are not equipped to give this type of aftercare.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

STUTTERING

Mr. G. writes: A 3-year-old child is a stutterer. Will this go away as she gets older?

REPLY

Not necessarily, unless the girl receives help from the family or from an expert in speech training. Maintain a calm, sympathetic, and unhurried atmosphere in the home. Let your daughter set her own pace when speaking so she can relax while talking.

KINDS OF VITAMINS

REPLY

Do you mean on going to bed? Or, if you refer to an older person, he needs no vitamin products if he eats a balanced diet, chews well, does not drink too much whisky, and does not suffer from gastrointestinal problems. There is no harm in taking a multiple vitamin-mineral mixture as a nutritional safeguard. Some physicians might also suggest vitamin E and still others vitamin C for colds.

TB OUTLOOK

REPLY

Yes, with modern remedies.

NERVE DEAFNESS

B. H. writes: Is nerve deafness caused by age?

REPLY

Age plays a role in the majority, but nerve degeneration also may occur in conjunction with other ear disorders that result in deafness.

PERITONITIS

REPLY

The mycins and other antibiotics are used in the treatment of this condition.

MICHAEL RAMSEY
Archbishop of Canterbury

Canterbury Announces Resignation

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury and spiritual head of the church of England, announced today he will resign next November.

Ramsey is 69. He has been Archbishop of Canterbury and primate of England since 1961.

His resignation affective Nov. 15 was announced in a message to Queen Elizabeth II, temporal head of the Anglican Church. His successor will be appointed on the advice of Prime Minister Harold Wilson-assuming Wilson's minority government survives in power.

Ramsey came to the forefront of the Anglican Church after a series of academic posts including professorships at Durham and Cambridge universities.

He was archbishop of York from 1956 to 1961 before promotion to Canterbury.

He has been a world influence in the ecumenical movement toward closer inter-church relations.

Vatican Aide Arrives In Spain Crisis

MADRID (UPI) — A high foreign affairs official of the Vatican arrived today and immediately met with Spain's highest church leaders, who two days ago defended a controversial bishop in Spain's worst church-state crisis in 35 years.

A church spokesman said Msgr. Agnello Acerbi, of the Vatican's Office for Public Affairs, met with the standing committee of the Spanish episcopal conference, the country's highest church body. Two days ago the conference issued a statement defending the liberal bishop of Bilbao Msgr. Antonio Anoveros, who had written a controversial sermon advocating greater freedom for the Basque people of northern Spain.

The government has called the sermon "a very grave attack on national unity" and tried to have Anoveros leave the country. The government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco was reported studying the bishop's document, which had invited the government to take legal action against Anoveros if it thought he had violated any laws.

Another Soviet Writer's Woes

MOSCOW (UPI) — Author Viktor Nekrasov said today KGB secret police agents tried to coerce him into denouncing writer Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn and physicist Andrei D. Sakharov, but he refused.

He said the agents, during a 42-hour search of his apartment last January, also seized the manuscript of a book he was writing about the Nazi massacre of tens of thousands of Kiev Jews at Babi Yar in 1941.

Nekrasov, 63, is a Stalin Prize winner who fell from favor during the regime of the late Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev when he wrote a travel book that portrayed the United States in sympathetic terms.

In a 2,000-word statement made available to Western newsmen today, Nekrasov recounted his trouble with authorities over the years and lamented the continuing exodus of writers, artists, poets and other intellectuals from the Soviet Union.

Nekrasov said KGB agents who interrogated him implied that his books could be published again if he joined in the denunciation of Solzhenitsyn and Sakharov.

"Surely no one seriously thinks that a decent man can allow himself to join in that shameful stream of slander which was poured onto the heads of the two most worthy people of our country," he said.

"No, better let the reader get by without my books. He will understand why they are not to be seen."

Nekrasov achieved fame in 1946 with his novel "In the Trenches of Stalingrad," based on the World War II battle in which he participated.

He said the book he was writing about the Babi Yar massacre described how there is still no monument to the slain Jews and how Jews who go to the site each Sept. 29 to place commemorative wreaths are driven away by the police.

Referring to a KGB agent by the name of Tvitya who searched his apartment, he wrote:

" I fought for my country, for my people, for a boy called Vitya... I hoped that Vitya would become a musician, a poet or just a human being. But I did not fight so that that little boy, now grown up a little, could come to me with a search warrant, rummage in my archives, search my visitors and lecture me on patriotism as he understands it."

Douglas Still Firm On Press Freedoms

CHICAGO (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas says the authors of the First Amendment realized that "'no' meant what it said" when they wrote that Congress should make no laws abridging freedom of speech and press.

The senior justice made his remarks Saturday night at a Decalogue Society of Lawyers dinner in his honor. The society presented Douglas with its annual merit award.

"Though we have a First Amendment saying "Congress shall make no laws . . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press,' men of high repute still read it as saying "Congress may make some laws abridging freedom of speech and of the press,'" Douglas said.

"Their theme is that the interest of 'free speech' or 'free press' must be balanced against some other interest; and so judges weigh what they deem to be important 'values' on one side against freedom of speech and press on the other side.

"Justice (Hugo) Black and I always thought that the 'balancing' had been done by the framers—that Madison and Jefferson realized that 'no' meant what it said," Douglas said.

Although he noted that the press "has unethical members or, more precisely, a few who use unethical practices," and that he had been "done in by some manipulators of tapes..," Douglas said freedom of press and speech remained one of the nation's proudest achievements.

"Our uncensored press even with its shortcomings has fulfilled, I believe, most of Jefferson's and Madison's dreams," he said. "It continuously breaks through the barriers of secrecy with which men and women in power usually like to cloak their activities.

"The stamp 'secrecy' can cover the tracks of a bureaucrat for years on end. We need to know more, not less. The press can grow fat and contented on agency and industrial press releases. But it cannot fulfill its destiny without investigative reporting; and investigative reporting need not wire people for sound, or use electronic 'bugs' in government or in business offices to discover the truth."

Wounded Man Dies In Hospital

A Novato man died in Marin General Hospital yesterday noon, after being found at a hunt club suffering from two bullet wounds in his head.

David B. Colclough, 45, of 1020 Greenwood Drive, apparently shot himself in despondency over an impending jail sentence, according to the Marin County coroner's office. Colclough was to have reported to the Marin County Jail at 8 p.m. yesterday to begin serving a 30-day sentence for drunken driving, jail spokesmen said.

The wounded man was found at 10:32 a.m. in his car in the parking lot of a hunting club at Bel Marin Keys, by club members. He died 80 minutes later in the hospital emergency room. Notes to his wife and a son were found in his pocket, the coroner reported.

Colclough was a carpenter for a San Rafael construction firm.

Hub Council To Eye Vacancy

The San Anselmo City Council will consider a vacancy on the parks and recreation commission when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

Applicants for the post are Atha Mathieu, 12, and Irene Cowan, mother of four grown children.

The council will also consider adoption of an ordinance limiting smoking in places of public assembly.

Opposition To Bill On Bargaining

The executive board of the Marin County School Boards Association has gone on record against Assembly Bill 1243, which would permit exclusive union collective bargaining for all public employees in California.

The bill, by Assemblyman Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood, has passed the Assembly and is now in the Senate Committee on Public Employment and Retirement.

The Marin County association board, in its resolution of opposition, criticized the bill on several counts, among them being that organization representation should not be exclusive, and that such union control "is incompatible with California teacher tenure laws." It also cited higher costs for administering such collective bargaining procedures, and urged that the Winton Act, which now governs school board-teacher negotiations, should be retained.

Marilyn Crowell, association president, said it was the first time, to her knowledge, that the executive board of the county association had taken a stand against pending legislation on its own initiative.

Youth Said In Good Condition

The 12-year-old son of a San Rafael policemen was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with a gunshot wound received in an accident at his home Thursday.

Darrel Vargo, son of Inspector David Vargo, was hurt while playing with his father's revolver. Police said the senior Vargo was away from home when the accident happened.

Officers said the boy took the gun from the top shelf of a closet and was playing with it when it accidentally discharged into his left index finger.

Four In Ross Valley Election

Two incumbents and a third man have filed for election to the Ross Valley Sanitary District board and have assured a contest for three open board seats in elections June 4.

Contrary to a report in Saturday's Independent-Journal, filings closed in the district Friday.

Incumbents George C. Davison and James G. McDonald filed Friday for reelection and were joined in the contest by John K. Brunswig. Incumbent Eugene A. Ostaggi had previously filed for reelection.

Davison, 42, was elected to the board in 1970. He is married, has two children and lives at 164 Camino de Herrera.

He is the principal engineer of the Marin County public works department and has lived in Marin 12 years.

McDonald 42, was appointed to the board in January to fill the unexpired term of Alva N. Nipper. He lives at 509 The Alameda in San Anselmo with his wife Mary, and five children.

McDonald has been a partner for 13 years with the architectural and planning firm of Wagstaff and McDonald. He is a 38-year resident of the Ross Valley.

Brunswig, 44, is a seven-year resident of Marin and lives at 67 Yolanda Drive, San Anselmo, with his wife, Esther, and three children.

West End School Closing On Agenda

The San Rafael Board of Education will consider closing West End School due to sagging enrollment when it meets at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Sun Valley School, 75 Happy Lane.

The board will also discuss the educational program at Sun Valley school, review course offerings for summer school and hear reports on early childhood education, the elementary reading program, and the "more able learner" program.

ARE YOU CARRYING A BOMB IN YOUR TRUNK

. . . or in the back of your station wagon, back seat of your car, bed of your pick-up or any place gasoline storage is dangerous?

The California Highway Patrol has a one-word response for motorists who contemplate carrying a container of gasoline in their cars to beat the fuel shortage: DON'T.

Trying to beat the gasoline shortage by storing gasoline in the family car can turn your holiday outing into a bad trip. Gasoline in containers become fire bombs when jolted in rear end collisions. Better to run out gas, than gamble with life.

Also, fumes from gasoline cans may be ignited by pilot lights or other heat sources when stored in closed garages.

Car Rally Set

A car rally will be held Saturday, starting from 6 to 8:30 p.m. from the Corte Madera Shopping Center and ending about 11:30 p.m. at the Straw Hat Pizza in Novato, sponsored by the Marin Rallye Association, according to Thomas Dillon, club president.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 8 p.m. — "Marlo Thomas and Friends in Free to Be . . . You and Me" features Marlo Thomas in a combination of music, animation, live-action, dancing, puppetry, sketches and fun evolving from her best-selling record album. Among the guests are Harry Belafonte, Dustin Hoffman, Rita Coolidge, Kris Kristofferson, Alan Alda, Roberta Flack, Rosey Grier and Dick Cavett.

KQED (9), 8 p.m. — "Cancer: The Cell that Won't Die," the last of five medical documentaries on the "Killer" series, examines the killer that strikes one out of every four Americans. The "Special of the Week" presentation takes a look at the current research, detection and prevention underway in the field of cancer research.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 9 p.m. — John Denver, one of the country's most popular singer-composers will star in his first television special, along with his guests David Carradine, Lilly Tomlin and James Whitmore.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 10 p.m. — Robert Vaughn stars as Harry S. Truman in the special drama, "Portrait, the Man from Independence," which reveals the story of Truman's strong devotion to his family, his deep knowledge of history and love of country, and his incorruptibility.

Family Of Five Killed In Crash of Small Plane

LEBANON, Va. (UPI) — A Trenton, Mich. family of five died Sunday when their light plane crashed and burned in a southwest Virginia residential area. The plane grazed a house, but no residents were injured.

Authorities identified the crash victims as Richard Johnston, 40; his wife, Joyce; son Gregory, 10, and daughters Joy, 13, and Jill, 2. A state policeman said the victims were all burned beyond recognition.

One Burglary Term Given

One person was sentenced last week for a residential burglary.

Thomas Wade Ayers of San Rafael, who pleaded guilty to the Aug. 22 burglary of the Kenneth D. Peterson home in Woodacre, was sentenced to six months in jail and placed on probation for two years.

Judge Charles Read Best said Ayers, 21, may spend the time in a drug treatment program.

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI has recovered from a light bout of influenza and yesterday he spoke up in behalf of Pope Pius XII, calling him a defender of justice and peace throughout World War II.

The Roman Catholic pontiff spoke from his open study window only days after influenza forced him to cancel Lenten retreat exercises. He said in his weekly noon blessing that Pius XII was a "great Pope (whose name will certainly be venerated in the glorious history of the Roman pontificates."

Study Indicates That Strangers Can Communicate With ESP

The latest menace to privacy in this Watergate era may be telepathic "bugging."

At any rate, a young psychiatrist's research indicates that people — not only those who know each other but even total strangers — can pick one another's brains by ESP, and with alarming accuracy.

This raises, besides the specter of extrasensory eavesdropping, some bizarre possibilities.

Is violence caught like the measles? Are there telepathic Typhoid Marys among us who spread violent thoughts by psychic contagion?

And, just as there are people who thought they were going crazy until the voices they heard turned out to be police radio calls picked up on their dental bridgework, there are others considered insane because they hear voices, who may actually be involuntary telepathic receivers?

Such questions now seem, in the light of Dr. Howard Eisenberg's startling telepathy experiments, much less crazy than they once did.

The experiments were done at McGill University, Montreal, where Eisenberg received (in 1972, when he also got his M.D.) the first graduate degree in psychology awarded by a Canadian university for research in extrasensory perception.

Previous telepathy experiments generally had used people who knew one another well — professor and student, friends, family members — and the most common were card-guessing tests in which the "receiver" tried to think of the correct card being looked at by the "sender." Eisenberg changed both these aspects.

For his experiments he used mainly strangers. As targets, he discarded the familiar ESP cards for something with more emotional wallop.

"After all," he explained, "we know from real life cases that telepathy is usually associated with strong emotion."

His targets were randomly selected segments of seven motion pictures, including a World War II documentary and Hollywood's "The Boston Strangler."

Of the 48 subjects in the experiment, three-quarters were students and the rest housewives, teachers and secretaries, ranging in age from 14 to 44.

These were divided into 24 pairs of telepathic "sender" and "receiver," of which only eight couples knew each other before the experiment.

The sender and receiver were put in separate rooms on different floors at McGill University. The sender was shown a randomly selected six-minute film clip. The receiver, lying in darkness to minimize distractions, tried to describe what the sender was seeing.

The results?

"Very significant," said Eisenberg. "The odds in favor of telepathy were 10,000 to one against chance." (For comparison, in medical research generally odds of 100 to one are considered significant.)

In some cases, the correspondence between what the sender was shown and the receiver described was so close that both might have been watching the same movie.

While one sender, for example, was watching a scene from "The Boston Strangler," the receiver reported these impressions:

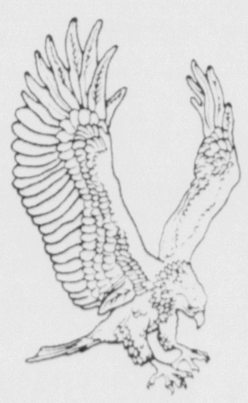

"I see a young man coming out of a house. He's wearing a cap and his collar's turned up. Near the sidewalk is mud. The mud is very dark — like blood. The look on the young man's face is very evil."

For all this person knew, the target film could have been a Walt Disney cartoon, but, as Eisenberg commented, "he correctly described the murderer as a young man wearing a cap and with his collar turned up.

There is a long sequence in which the murderer strangely stares at his face in the mirror and the subject refers specifically to the man's evil-looking face.

In another session, the film clip showed two children playing outdoors and the receiver said: "I keep getting thoughts of two kids playing outside."

HEY, NEIGHBOR.....

WHO'S WATCHING YOUR HOUSE, NOW..? a security system or a....BURGLAR?????

WHAT'S YOUR EXCUSE!!!!

Since we know you, we listed some justifications you might use for NOT CALLING us about a home security system:

( ) I've got locks on my doors and windows.
( ) I'm too lazy.
( ) My family and possessions aren't worth $300 to $1500 for Failsafe protection.
( ) The poodle will bark if a stranger comes around.
( ) It will never happen to me,..maybe someone down the street.
( ) The insurance company always reimburses the full amount of all losses.

NOW, RATE YOURSELF!

If you checked:

[ ] only one...you're probably reaching for the phone right now to call 472-2162,'cause you're smart and CONCERNED.

[ ] two or three...you'll probably think about it, then call us after your next burglary.

[ ] four or five...you own a gun and besides, you hardly are ever away from home anyway.

[ ] six or more...either you already have a modern security system or you approve the burglary profession as a model of free enterprise.

SERIOUSLY.....

we can help you figure out an inexpensive system, but you have to make the first move. CALL NOW!!!

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Marin Community College District of Marin County, California, acting by and through its Governing Board, hereinafter referred to as the District, will receive up to, but not later than 2:00 P.M., P.D.S.T. of the fifteenth day of April, 1974, sealed bids for the award of a contract for construction of the Site Development and Utilities for Indian Valley Colleges, Novato, California consisting of demolition and removal of existing ranch facilities, tree removal, erosion control, wood and concrete structures, site lighting, vehicular and campus signage, asphaltic and concrete paving, landscaping and irrigation, storm drainage, plumbing and electrical work, and trash containers.

All bids shall be made on a bid form furnished by the District. Bids shall be received in the Board Room, Office Center 160 of District at College of Marin, Kentfield, California 94904, and shall be opened and publicly read aloud at the above stated time and place.

Each bid shall conform and be responsive to the contract documents prepared by Neptune and Thomas Associates, Architects, 1560 West Colorado Boulevard, Pasadena, California 91105, copies of which are now on file in the Office of the Director of Planning of the District, Office Center Room 180.

Plans are available from Marin Builders Exchange, 110 Belvedere, San Rafael, California 94901, 456-3233, where same may be examined and copies obtained upon deposit of $75 per set, which deposit will be refunded upon the return of such copies in good condition within five days after bids are opened.

Each bid shall be accompanied by the security referred to in the contract documents and shall also include a list of proposed subcontractors.

The District reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bids or in the bidding.

Bidders are hereby notified that, pursuant to Section 1770 of the Labor Code of the State of California, Marin Community College District has ascertained the general prevailing rates of hourly wages and rates for legal holidays and overtime work in the locality where this work is to be performed for each craft or type of workmen or mechanic needed to execute the contract which will be awarded to the successful bidder. The prevailing rates so determined by the District Board are on file with the District.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded, and upon any subcontractor under him, to pay not less than the said specified rates to all workmen employed by them in the execution of the contract.

All bidders must be contractors properly licensed to perform said work.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of sixty (60) days after the date set for the opening of bids.

Sealed Proposals shall be filed with George H. Gnoss, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Room 315, Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, California, until 2:00 p.m., March 18, 1974, for:

BULKHEAD WALL CONSTRUCTION IN FRONT OF #35 TERRACE AVENUE, BOLINAS, CALIFORNIA, INCLUDING NEW TIMBER PILES IN PREDRILLED AND CONCRETE FILLED HOLES, PLANKING, RAILING, PAVEMENT RESTORATION AND OTHER RELATED ITEMS OF WORK.

The work shall be done in accordance with official plans and specifications prepared in reference thereto which may be inspected at the office of the Department of Public Works, County of Marin, Room 304, Civic Center, San Rafael, California, and may be purchased for $3.00 per set (non-refundable). Mailed requests shall be addressed to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin, P. O. Box 4186, Civic Center, San Rafael, California, 94903. Checks should be made payable to the County of Marin.

Proposals will be opened and read at 2:00 p.m., in Room No. 304-B, Marin County Civic Center, on the day specified above.

The award of the contract, if it be awarded, will be to the lowest responsible bidder whose proposal complies with the requirements prescribed. The award, if made, will be made within thirty (30) days after the opening of the proposals.

The Board of Supervisors has made a determination of the prevailing rate of hourly wages applicable to the work to be performed. Copies of this determination are on file in the office of the County Clerk, Civic Center, Room 315, San Rafael, California, and are available to any interested party upon request. Copies may be obtained from the Department of Public Works, Room 304, Civic Center.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

MICHAEL WORNUM
Chairman of the Board

No. 296 Mar. 4, 11, 1974

NOTICE OF SALE OF PROPERTY DELINQUENT FOR NON-PAYMENT OF ASSESSMENT 130 OCEANA MARIN UNIT 5 ASSESSMENT DISTRICT IN THE COUNTY OF MARIN.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, default having been made in the payment of the following named coupons, Principal #1 due 1-2-73, 286.76; Principal #2 due 1-2-74, 286.66; interest #1 due 1-2-73; Interest No. 2 due 7-2-73, $392.00; 140.46; interest #3 due 1-2-74; 140.46; and the holder of said bond having demanded in writing that the County Treasurer of the County of Marin, State of California, proceed to advertise and sell the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond. Now, therefore, I give notice that I will on the 20th day of March, 1974, at the hour of 10:00 a.m. of said day, sell at public auction, the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond, or so much thereof as may be necessary, at my office in the Marin County Civic Center at San Rafael, California, unless the amount due on said bond and the accrued interest thereon together with the cost of publication of this notice, are paid, and that I will so sell the same to the person who will take the least amount of said lot or parcel of land and pay the full amount of unpaid principal and interest on said bond together with the cost of publication. The lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond and to be sold, is more particularly described, to-wit:

The amount due on said bond up to the date of this notice is as follows: Due on the principal thereof $4300.00; due on account of interest $604.72; due on account of penalties $112.84; total amount due on said bond $5017.56.

In order to avoid this sale, payment of the total amount above named will be required, together with the cost of publication made before such payment and the additional interest accruing up to the date of payment. Bond may be reinstated upon payment of amounts due, principal, interest, penalties, and fees, in the manner provided by law.

In the event of sale, such sale will include interest in addition to the above total amount due, accruing up to the date of sale, the cost of publication of notice of sale, and $1.00 for the issuance of certificate of sale.

The Independent-Journal is designated as the newspaper in which this notice shall be published.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

The Treatment Of Tuberculosis Is Much Changed In 50 Years

In the last 50 years we have seen many changes in the treatment of tuberculosis. Bed rest and sunshine, once basic remedies, now play a minor role. Because of the changes, the climate of the Southwest has nothing to offer these people, and sanatoriums in these areas have been closed for years. Bed rest still is of value when the victim has high fever, weakness, pain, shortness of breath, or a productive cough. But the majority of victims are put on medications and advised to remain active.

To follow this regimen, the person need not go to Denver or Arizona. He can remain in Chicago, New York, or wherever he likes. The sanatorium becomes the place where he learns about his desease and is started on the medicines that will subdue the tubercle bacilli. Meanwhile, his family and friends are not exposed to the causative organisms while he is contagious.

THE LENGTH of hospitalization has been shortened from years to months. Exceptions occur when the lung condition is complicated by diabetes or alcoholism. Now and then the coexisting disorders are worse than the tuberculosis.

The latest recommendation is to treat tuberculosis in general hospitals. However, many institutions are not ready for this. Furthermore, health authorities are concerned that it might mean the end of the physician who specializes in the treatment of tuberculosis.

This proposal has more serious implications than appear on the surface, because TB control has been the result of early detection, modern drugs, and prolonged periods of aftercare. In order to eradicate tuberculosis, the chain of transmission of the causative agent must be broken. These measures have been carefully worked out and cannot be discarded.

MODERN ANTITUBERCULOSIS drugs such as PAS, isoniazid, streptomycin, and rifampin, are wonderful adjuncts, but they are not overnight cures. In addition, these drugs are combined and must be used properly because TB microbes are notorious for developing resistance to them and treatment must be continued long after the victim leaves the sanatorium. General hospitals are not equipped to give this type of aftercare.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

STUTTERING

Mr. G. writes: A 3-year-old child is a stutterer. Will this go away as she gets older?

REPLY

Not necessarily, unless the girl receives help from the family or from an expert in speech training. Maintain a calm, sympathetic, and unhurried atmosphere in the home. Let your daughter set her own pace when speaking so she can relax while talking.

KINDS OF VITAMINS

REPLY

Do you mean on going to bed? Or, if you refer to an older person, he needs no vitamin products if he eats a balanced diet, chews well, does not drink too much whisky, and does not suffer from gastrointestinal problems. There is no harm in taking a multiple vitamin-mineral mixture as a nutritional safeguard. Some physicians might also suggest vitamin E and still others vitamin C for colds.

TB OUTLOOK

REPLY

Yes, with modern remedies.

NERVE DEAFNESS

B. H. writes: Is nerve deafness caused by age?

REPLY

Age plays a role in the majority, but nerve degeneration also may occur in conjunction with other ear disorders that result in deafness.

PERITONITIS

REPLY

Weekly Pay Of $152 Is Backed

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Americans participating in a recent Gallup poll believe the average U.S. family of four needs a minimum of $152 a week to make ends meet today.

The figure compares with $30 in 1937 and $101 in 1967.

Those participating in the poll were asked, "What is the smallest amount of money a family of four (husband, wife, and two children) needs each week to get along in this community?"

When the same question was asked last year the average answer was $149.

Belvedere Council To Pick New Mayor

The Belvedere City Council, including its two new members, will elect a new mayor tomorrow at 8 p.m. at city hall.

The council will debate how to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Councilman Merritt Ruddock last week. At that time councilmen recommended that the new council appoint the person with the third highest vote count in the March 5 elections.

Newsday Links Four To The Present Oil Crisis

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — Three former and one current official of the Nixon administration influenced three major decisions in favor of the oil industry in return for political and financial support dating back to the 1968 presidential campaign, the newspaper Newsday reported yesterday.

In a copyrighted story signed by Bob Wyrick and Brian Donovan, Newsday said the key decisions "led to fuel shortages that could have been avoided and sent fuel prices soaring—well before the Arab embargo."

"Those decisions were made while the President's reelection campaign fund-raisers were collecting contributions of about $5 million—some of them illegal—from oil companies and their exceutives," the newspaper said.

According to Newsday, ex-Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, in an Oct. 21, 1968, speech before the Petroleum Club in Midland, Tex., promised to halt a proposed duty-free trade zone for oil imports at Machiasport, Maine.

"The free trade would have allowed Occidental Petroleum Corp. to build an offshore refinery at Machiasport and bring in cheap Libyan crude oil to supply fuel-pinched New England," Newsday said. "...He knew the oil men in the audience were afraid that if the Machiasport plan was approved it would be the first step in letting in cheaper foreign oil and would eventually force down the price of domestic oil and hurt them in the pocketbook. So Agnew made a promise," the newspaper said.

Study Will Continue On Two Projects

The Fairfax Design and Environmental Review Board will continue its review of two controversial development proposals off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard when it meets at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Fairfax Women's Club.

At issue are environmental impact reports for 80 units proposed for the Buon Gusto parcel and 20 units proposed southeast of Oak Manor Drive.

MICHAEL RAMSEY

Canterbury Announces Resignation

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury and spiritual head of the church of England, announced today he will resign next November.

Ramsey is 69. He has been Archbishop of Canterbury and primate of England since 1961.

His resignation affective Nov. 15 was announced in a message to Queen Elizabeth II, temporal head of the Anglican Church. His successor will be appointed on the advice of Prime Minister Harold Wilson-assuming Wilson's minority government survives in power.

Ramsey came to the forefront of the Anglican Church after a series of academic posts including professorships at Durham and Cambridge universities.

He was archbishop of York from 1956 to 1961 before promotion to Canterbury.

He has been a world influence in the ecumenical movement toward closer inter-church relations.

Vatican Aide Arrives In Spain Crisis

MADRID (UPI) — A high foreign affairs official of the Vatican arrived today and immediately met with Spain's highest church leaders, who two days ago defended a controversial bishop in Spain's worst church-state crisis in 35 years.

A church spokesman said Msgr. Agnello Acerbi, of the Vatican's Office for Public Affairs, met with the standing committee of the Spanish episcopal conference, the country's highest church body. Two days ago the conference issued a statement defending the liberal bishop of Bilbao Msgr. Antonio Anoveros, who had written a controversial sermon advocating greater freedom for the Basque people of northern Spain.

The government has called the sermon "a very grave attack on national unity" and tried to have Anoveros leave the country. The government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco was reported studying the bishop's document, which had invited the government to take legal action against Anoveros if it thought he had violated any laws.

Another Soviet Writer's Woes

MOSCOW (UPI) — Author Viktor Nekrasov said today KGB secret police agents tried to coerce him into denouncing writer Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn and physicist Andrei D. Sakharov, but he refused.

He said the agents, during a 42-hour search of his apartment last January, also seized the manuscript of a book he was writing about the Nazi massacre of tens of thousands of Kiev Jews at Babi Yar in 1941.

Nekrasov, 63, is a Stalin Prize winner who fell from favor during the regime of the late Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev when he wrote a travel book that portrayed the United States in sympathetic terms.

In a 2,000-word statement made available to Western newsmen today, Nekrasov recounted his trouble with authorities over the years and lamented the continuing exodus of writers, artists, poets and other intellectuals from the Soviet Union.

Nekrasov said KGB agents who interrogated him implied that his books could be published again if he joined in the denunciation of Solzhenitsyn and Sakharov.

"Surely no one seriously thinks that a decent man can allow himself to join in that shameful stream of slander which was poured onto the heads of the two most worthy people of our country," he said.

"No, better let the reader get by without my books. He will understand why they are not to be seen."

Nekrasov achieved fame in 1946 with his novel "In the Trenches of Stalingrad," based on the World War II battle in which he participated.

He said the book he was writing about the Babi Yar massacre described how there is still no monument to the slain Jews and how Jews who go to the site each Sept. 29 to place commemorative wreaths are driven away by the police.

Referring to a KGB agent by the name of Tvitya who searched his apartment, he wrote:

" I fought for my country, for my people, for a boy called Vitya... I hoped that Vitya would become a musician, a poet or just a human being. But I did not fight so that that little boy, now grown up a little, could come to me with a search warrant, rummage in my archives, search my visitors and lecture me on patriotism as he understands it."

Douglas Still Firm On Press Freedoms

CHICAGO (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas says the authors of the First Amendment realized that "'no' meant what it said" when they wrote that Congress should make no laws abridging freedom of speech and press.

The senior justice made his remarks Saturday night at a Decalogue Society of Lawyers dinner in his honor. The society presented Douglas with its annual merit award.

"Though we have a First Amendment saying "Congress shall make no laws . . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press,' men of high repute still read it as saying "Congress may make some laws abridging freedom of speech and of the press,'" Douglas said.

"Their theme is that the interest of 'free speech' or 'free press' must be balanced against some other interest; and so judges weigh what they deem to be important 'values' on one side against freedom of speech and press on the other side.

"Justice (Hugo) Black and I always thought that the 'balancing' had been done by the framers—that Madison and Jefferson realized that 'no' meant what it said," Douglas said.

Although he noted that the press "has unethical members or, more precisely, a few who use unethical practices," and that he had been "done in by some manipulators of tapes..," Douglas said freedom of press and speech remained one of the nation's proudest achievements.

"Our uncensored press even with its shortcomings has fulfilled, I believe, most of Jefferson's and Madison's dreams," he said. "It continuously breaks through the barriers of secrecy with which men and women in power usually like to cloak their activities.

"The stamp 'secrecy' can cover the tracks of a bureaucrat for years on end. We need to know more, not less. The press can grow fat and contented on agency and industrial press releases. But it cannot fulfill its destiny without investigative reporting; and investigative reporting need not wire people for sound, or use electronic 'bugs' in government or in business offices to discover the truth."

Wounded Man Dies In Hospital

A Novato man died in Marin General Hospital yesterday noon, after being found at a hunt club suffering from two bullet wounds in his head.

David B. Colclough, 45, of 1020 Greenwood Drive, apparently shot himself in despondency over an impending jail sentence, according to the Marin County coroner's office. Colclough was to have reported to the Marin County Jail at 8 p.m. yesterday to begin serving a 30-day sentence for drunken driving, jail spokesmen said.

The wounded man was found at 10:32 a.m. in his car in the parking lot of a hunting club at Bel Marin Keys, by club members. He died 80 minutes later in the hospital emergency room. Notes to his wife and a son were found in his pocket, the coroner reported.

Colclough was a carpenter for a San Rafael construction firm.

Hub Council To Eye Vacancy

The San Anselmo City Council will consider a vacancy on the parks and recreation commission when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

Applicants for the post are Atha Mathieu, 12, and Irene Cowan, mother of four grown children.

The council will also consider adoption of an ordinance limiting smoking in places of public assembly.

Opposition To Bill On Bargaining

The executive board of the Marin County School Boards Association has gone on record against Assembly Bill 1243, which would permit exclusive union collective bargaining for all public employees in California.

The bill, by Assemblyman Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood, has passed the Assembly and is now in the Senate Committee on Public Employment and Retirement.

The Marin County association board, in its resolution of opposition, criticized the bill on several counts, among them being that organization representation should not be exclusive, and that such union control "is incompatible with California teacher tenure laws." It also cited higher costs for administering such collective bargaining procedures, and urged that the Winton Act, which now governs school board-teacher negotiations, should be retained.

Marilyn Crowell, association president, said it was the first time, to her knowledge, that the executive board of the county association had taken a stand against pending legislation on its own initiative.

Youth Said In Good Condition

The 12-year-old son of a San Rafael policemen was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with a gunshot wound received in an accident at his home Thursday.

Darrel Vargo, son of Inspector David Vargo, was hurt while playing with his father's revolver. Police said the senior Vargo was away from home when the accident happened.

Officers said the boy took the gun from the top shelf of a closet and was playing with it when it accidentally discharged into his left index finger.

Four In Ross Valley Election

Two incumbents and a third man have filed for election to the Ross Valley Sanitary District board and have assured a contest for three open board seats in elections June 4.

Contrary to a report in Saturday's Independent-Journal, filings closed in the district Friday.

Incumbents George C. Davison and James G. McDonald filed Friday for reelection and were joined in the contest by John K. Brunswig. Incumbent Eugene A. Ostaggi had previously filed for reelection.

Davison, 42, was elected to the board in 1970. He is married, has two children and lives at 164 Camino de Herrera.

He is the principal engineer of the Marin County public works department and has lived in Marin 12 years.

McDonald 42, was appointed to the board in January to fill the unexpired term of Alva N. Nipper. He lives at 509 The Alameda in San Anselmo with his wife Mary, and five children.

McDonald has been a partner for 13 years with the architectural and planning firm of Wagstaff and McDonald. He is a 38-year resident of the Ross Valley.

Brunswig, 44, is a seven-year resident of Marin and lives at 67 Yolanda Drive, San Anselmo, with his wife, Esther, and three children.

West End School Closing On Agenda

The San Rafael Board of Education will consider closing West End School due to sagging enrollment when it meets at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Sun Valley School, 75 Happy Lane.

The board will also discuss the educational program at Sun Valley school, review course offerings for summer school and hear reports on early childhood education, the elementary reading program, and the "more able learner" program.

ARE YOU CARRYING A BOMB IN YOUR TRUNK

. . . or in the back of your station wagon, back seat of your car, bed of your pick-up or any place gasoline storage is dangerous?

The California Highway Patrol has a one-word response for motorists who contemplate carrying a container of gasoline in their cars to beat the fuel shortage: DON'T.

Trying to beat the gasoline shortage by storing gasoline in the family car can turn your holiday outing into a bad trip. Gasoline in containers become fire bombs when jolted in rear end collisions. Better to run out gas, than gamble with life.

Also, fumes from gasoline cans may be ignited by pilot lights or other heat sources when stored in closed garages.

San Rafael's Satisfaction

By LEW CODDINGTON

OAKLAND — San Rafael High School did not win its final basketball game Saturday afternoon, but even that could not prevent the Bulldogs from looking back on their 1973-74 basketball season with satisfaction.

San Rafael was defeated by Amador Valley of Pleasanton, 53-46, in the consolation championship game of the Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

"The kids were great — I couldn't have asked for more," said coach Bret Tovani between bites of a sandwich in the locker room afterward.

Composed largely of previously obscure players, San Rafael experimented its way through the practice season, and its 4-7 record in early January gave little hint that, come March, it would be representing the Marin County Athletic League in the tournament.

The Bulldogs did it, though, by making use of every player. In fact, Tovani may have set an unofficial TOC record by using every player on the roster in every tournament game.

"That's the way we play," the coach said. "We have 11 men on a team, not five or seven. That's what did it for us all year long."

One player of the 11 stood out during the tournament, however. It was Steve D'Ambra, the 6-foot-1 senior guard who made the all-tourney team following three successive strong nights.

D'Ambra, who led the team in scoring just once during the 14-game MCAL season, broke loose to be high man all three nights in the tourney with 15, 18 and 13 points. Though a second-team all-MCAL selection, he was not noted for his scoring, averaging under 10 points a game.

He became the first player in the school's history to make the all-tournament team. San Rafael participated in 1959, 1962 and 1964, being eliminated after two games each year.

Marin's representative on the all-tourney selection committee was Bernie Schneider, coach at Tamalpais High.

The man expected to lead San Rafael, 6-7 center Byron Stewart, had a tough tournament. A 22.4 scorer in MCAL play, he was held to 34 points and 27 rebounds in three games, and fouled out of the first and third games. He had 12 points and eight rebounds against Amador.

San Rafael (18-10 overall) jumped out to a 10-0 lead on Amador (22-3) before the Dons' height began to tell. Six-foot-six Bruce Cavestri, 6-6 Andy Finn and 6-4 Jeff Hine combined for 27 rebounds to lead Amador to a 33-22 advantage on the boards.

With San Rafael unable to get close first shots or any kind of second shots, Amador inexorably began to move. The Dons closed to 17-12 at the quarter, took a 30-25 lead at the half, and moved ahead 47-34 with about three minutes left in the game.

Amador, which gave up only 41 points per game in winning the East Bay Athletic League title, showed its suffocating defense in the third quarter, holding San Rafael to just two baskets (in eight shots) over eight minutes.

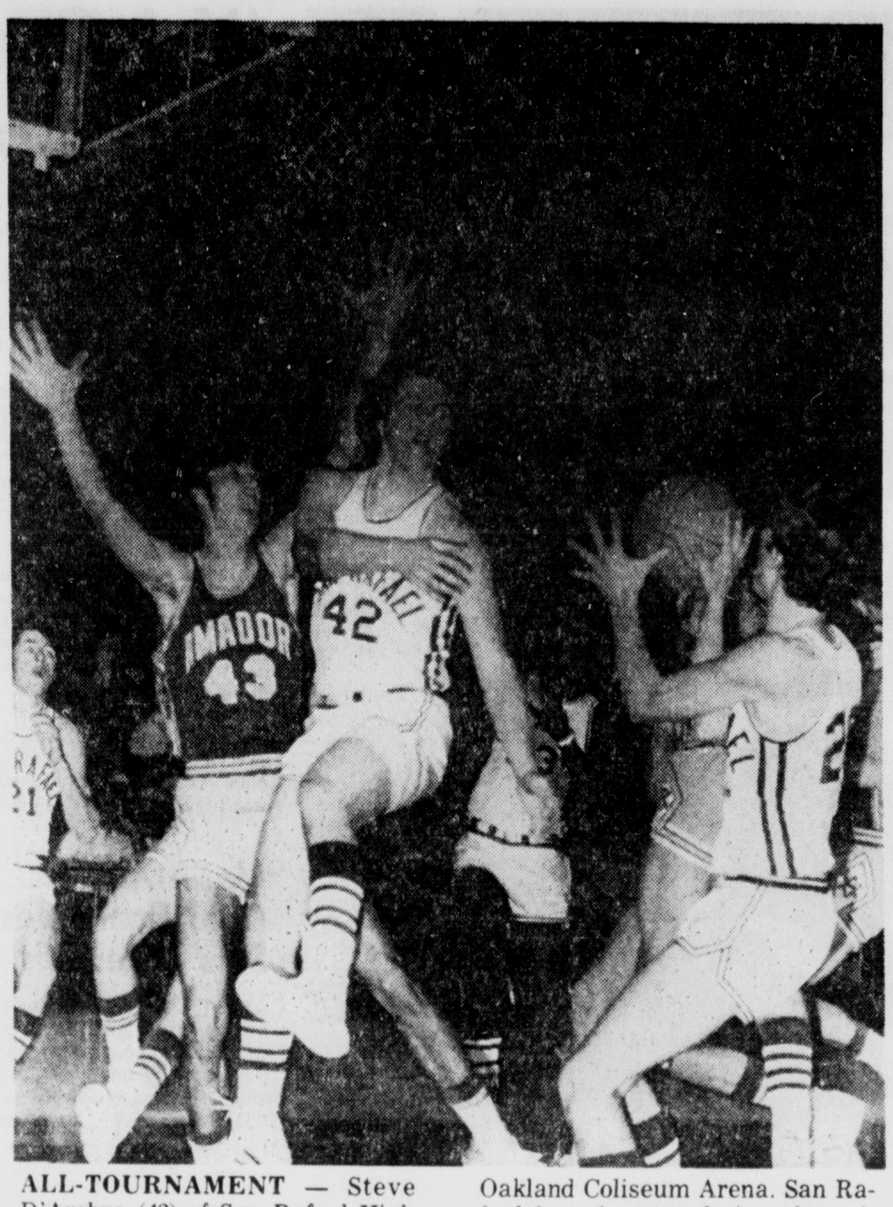

D'Ambra, coming back from a knee injury which kept him out of the final four minutes of the first half, made them both.

Game statistics showed Amador hitting 45 per cent from the field (19 of 42) compared to San Rafael's 38 per cent (19 of 50).

The tournament was won by Oakland Tech, which whipped St. Joseph's of Alameda in the title game, 65-58. Berkeley swamped Lincoln of San Francisco, 86-71, for third place.

ALL-TOURNAMENT — Steve D'Ambra (42) of San Rafael High School, shown passing off to teammate Jim Grant (20), was the only Bulldog to be chosen to the all-star team in the basketball Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena. San Rafael lost the consolation championship game Saturday to Amador Valley of Pleasanton, 53-46. Amador's Andy Finn (43) blocked D'Ambra's path.

CRUSHING DEFEAT

Unexpected Ending For Sonoma Quintet

By PAUL DWORIN

SAN LUIS OBISPO — Everyone on the Sonoma State College basketball team knew the end would come eventually, but no one suspected such a stunning termination Saturday night.

The Cossacks were literally crushed by University of California, Riverside, 71-56, in the championship game of the National Collegiate Athletic Association College Division western regionals.

The loss ended their bid for a berth in the national championships next week in Evansville, Ind. and left Sonoma with an 18-10 mark this season. Riverside, which earned its second straight trip to the nationals, meets the University of New Orleans Wednesday.

It was an especially hard defeat for the seven seniors on the squad, who sat numbly on the bench near the end, watching the final game of their college careers. Most of them were in tears.

"It was too bad it had to end this way," said a sad but proud coach Bill Trumbo. "It's been a good two years. It's a shame we had to save our worst for the last."

Possessing an 11-8 lead with 15:35 left in the period, the Cossacks were held scoreless for the next seven minutes and fell behind, 22-11.

They were never closer than nine points thereafter, with Riverside going ahead by as much as 25 points in the second half.

Beforehand, Sonoma was concerned with Riverside's vaunted press, which led to Chico State's defeat Friday night, 62-51. It was the press that beat Sonoma. It was the Highlanders' overall defense which stifled the Cossacks' attack.

Riverside (21-7), held season-long scoring leaders Bill Belander (21.5 points per game), Steve Tiedeman (15.0) and Tom Fitchie (11-3) to just 18 points.

Only Bob LeBrun was able to penetrate the Riverside defense. He scored nine of the Cossacks' first 11 points. After that, however, LeBrun was also held in check, adding just seven points.

Sonoma went into the game with a glossy 48.2 field goal percentage for the season but could convert just 34 per cent of their shots against the Highlanders' clawing, man-to-man defense.

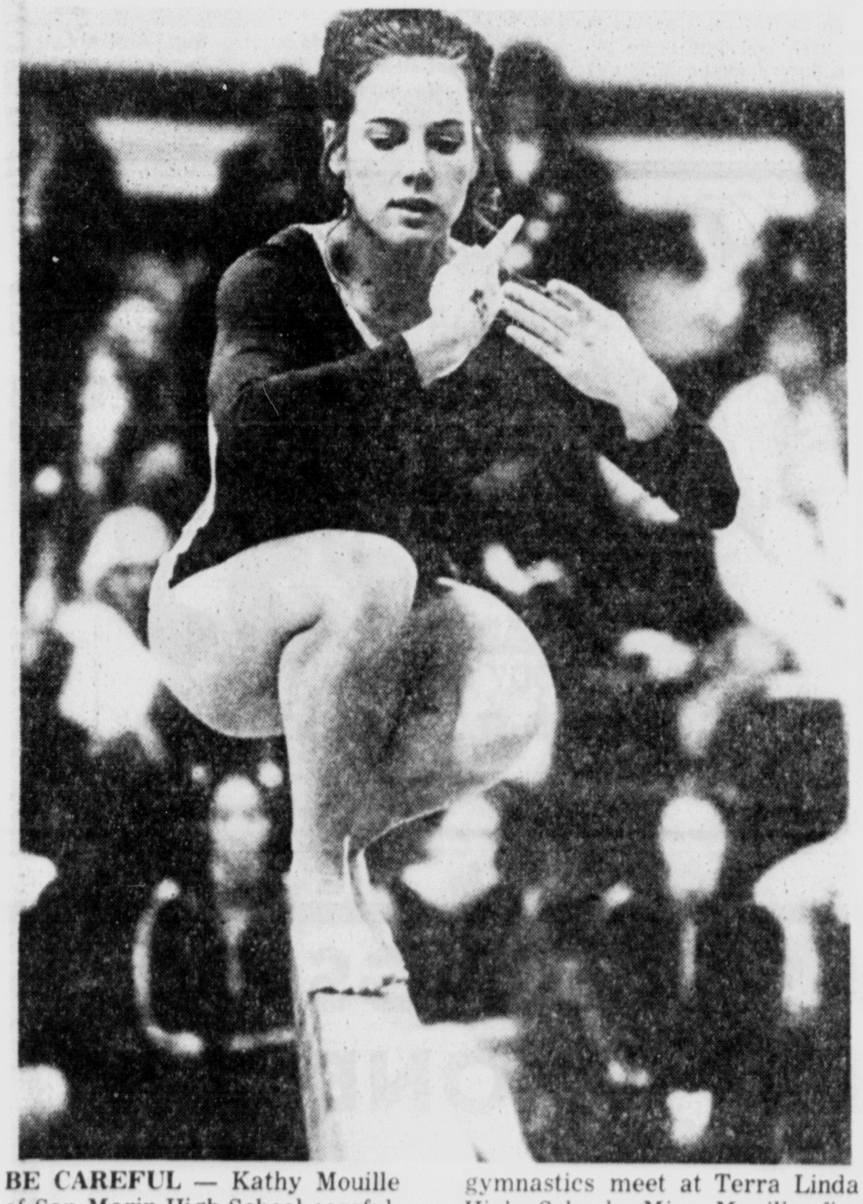

Ironically, the Cossacks' season-long rebounding inadequacy was not a factor in the loss. They were outrebounded, 45-40, with LeBrun and Belander collecting eight each and Dan Heien adding six.

Belander was voted to the all-tournament team by the sports reporters and coaches. Joining him were Pinky Williams and John Parker from Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo and Keith Batiste and Bobby Walters (Most Valuable Player award winner) from Riverside.

In the first game Saturday, San Luis Obispo took third place with an 81-63 victory over Chico. Former College of Marin star Joe Casteel was held scoreless but had 11 assists.

Warriors Have 'Hunted' Label

DETROIT (UPI) — Golden State Coach Al Attles says his team is the "hunted" and the Los Angeles Lakers are the "hunters".

"But I'd rather be in that position," he says.

The Warriors lost to the Capital Bullets 117-107 yesterday and are still a half-game ahead of second-place Los Angeles in the Pacific Division of the National Basketball Association. The Lakers were beaten 94-82 by Boston.

The Lakers are idle so a Warrior defeat would put the two teams in a virtual tie for the lead. The Warriors dropped their four previous meetings this season against Detroit.

"All I'm going to do is play them one at a time and try to win each one," Attles said. "The Lakers are the hunters and we're the hunted."

Rick Barry led Golden State with 30 points, including 12-of-13 from the foul line. Butch Beard added 17.

Seals' Win Over Boston A First

Reggie Leach, a former Bruin, scored a three-goal hat trick against his former team last night as the Seals shellacked Boston 6-2.

It was the first win for the last place National Hockey League West Division Seals this season in five games against the East Division leaders and the first time they have beaten the Bruins since December, 1971.

The loss cut Boston's lead over second-place Montreal to nine points and was the first setback for Bruin goaltender Ross Brooks after he set a National Hockey League record last week with 14 consecutive victories. Brooks, whose has only previous loss was his season opener, is now 14-2-0.

Boston scored first on a delayed penalty at 11:45 of the first period when Don Marcotte took a Phil Esposito pass and beat goalie Giles Meloche. Esposito picked up his 124th point with the assist. He was the sixth man on the ice as the Bruins pulled Brooks.

The Seals led 2-1 and 5-1 after the first and second period as Hilliard Graves added two goals and Morris Mott scored once. Leach scored at 1:32 and 7:46 of the middle period and Graves scored on a power play to give the Seals a 5-1 edge.

Gregg Sheppard scored a short-handed goal at 8:45 of the final period to reduce the margin but Leach scored his third of the night and 21st of the season a minute later.

Bando Expected To Play Today

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Third baseman Sal Bando expects to play in his first spring training game today when the Oakland A's host the Milwaukee Brewers in the Cactus League.

Bando has been suffering from an injured finger and missed the bus trip to Palm Springs, Calif., where the A's lost to California Saturday, 5-1.

"The only way to get in shape is to play, so I expect to play," the A's' captain said.

Bando also missed Friday's opener against San Diego in Yuma, Ariz. He was sent to Oakland after he hurt the middle finger of his right hand during batting practice last Wednesday. X-rays proved negative.

The A's held a two hour workout yesterday. Paul Lindblad, Bob Locker and Dave Hamilton are expected to pitch against the Brewers.

TARS' ALL-LEAGUER

Garner Is Most Valuable

Wil Garner, College of Marin's record-setting basketball star, was voted to the California all-state team and was also named the Most Valuable Player of the Camino Norte Conference, it was announced today.

It was the second straight year for both honors for Garner, a sophomore forward who set school scoring records this year for the Tars.

Marin guard Len Smith was named to the second all-conference team by loop coaches and teammate Bill Donnellan was given honorable mention.

Garner will be heading for Long Beach this weekend — if enough money is raised by the school — to try out for a berth on the California Junior College Association All-Star team.

Garner is one of 20 players nominated to the all-star team by representatives of the state's conferences. Those 20 players will attempt to win 10 places on the all-star team during week-end tryouts at Long Beach Naval Air Station.

The all-star team will compete in the National Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Basketball Tournament March 21-24 at Baton Rouge, La.

College of Marin basketball coach John Panagakis today said $300 is needed to send Garner to Long Beach for the tryouts. Some money will come from the student body and some from the Block M Club's

Family Of Five Killed In Crash of Small Plane

LEBANON, Va. (UPI) — A Trenton, Mich. family of five died Sunday when their light plane crashed and burned in a southwest Virginia residential area. The plane grazed a house, but no residents were injured.

Authorities identified the crash victims as Richard Johnston, 40; his wife, Joyce; son Gregory, 10, and daughters Joy, 13, and Jill, 2. A state policeman said the victims were all burned beyond recognition.

One Burglary Term Given

One person was sentenced last week for a residential burglary.

Thomas Wade Ayers of San Rafael, who pleaded guilty to the Aug. 22 burglary of the Kenneth D. Peterson home in Woodacre, was sentenced to six months in jail and placed on probation for two years.

Judge Charles Read Best said Ayers, 21, may spend the time in a drug treatment program.

Study Indicates That Strangers Can Communicate With ESP

The latest menace to privacy in this Watergate era may be telepathic "bugging."

At any rate, a young psychiatrist's research indicates that people — not only those who know each other but even total strangers — can pick one another's brains by ESP, and with alarming accuracy.

This raises, besides the specter of extrasensory eavesdropping, some bizarre possibilities.

Is violence caught like the measles? Are there telepathic Typhoid Marys among us who spread violent thoughts by psychic contagion?

And, just as there are people who thought they were going crazy until the voices they heard turned out to be police radio calls picked up on their dental bridgework, there are others considered insane because they hear voices, who may actually be involuntary telepathic receivers?

Such questions now seem, in the light of Dr. Howard Eisenberg's startling telepathy experiments, much less crazy than they once did.

The experiments were done at McGill University, Montreal, where Eisenberg received (in 1972, when he also got his M.D.) the first graduate degree in psychology awarded by a Canadian university for research in extrasensory perception.

Previous telepathy experiments generally had used people who knew one another well — professor and student, friends, family members — and the most common were card-guessing tests in which the "receiver" tried to think of the correct card being looked at by the "sender." Eisenberg changed both these aspects.

For his experiments he used mainly strangers. As targets, he discarded the familiar ESP cards for something with more emotional wallop.

"After all," he explained, "we know from real life cases that telepathy is usually associated with strong emotion."

His targets were randomly selected segments of seven motion pictures, including a World War II documentary and Hollywood's "The Boston Strangler."

Of the 48 subjects in the experiment, three-quarters were students and the rest housewives, teachers and secretaries, ranging in age from 14 to 44.

These were divided into 24 pairs of telepathic "sender" and "receiver," of which only eight couples knew each other before the experiment.

The sender and receiver were put in separate rooms on different floors at McGill University. The sender was shown a randomly selected six-minute film clip. The receiver, lying in darkness to minimize distractions, tried to describe what the sender was seeing.

The results?

"Very significant," said Eisenberg. "The odds in favor of telepathy were 10,000 to one against chance." (For comparison, in medical research generally odds of 100 to one are considered significant.)

In some cases, the correspondence between what the sender was shown and the receiver described was so close that both might have been watching the same movie.

While one sender, for example, was watching a scene from "The Boston Strangler," the receiver reported these impressions:

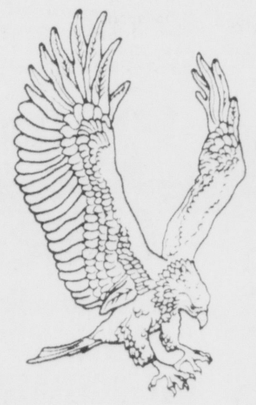

"I see a young man coming out of a house. He's wearing a cap and his collar's turned up. Near the sidewalk is mud. The mud is very dark — like blood. The look on the young man's face is very evil."

For all this person knew, the target film could have been a Walt Disney cartoon, but, as Eisenberg commented, "he correctly described the murderer as a young man wearing a cap and with his collar turned up.

There is a long sequence in which the murderer strangely stares at his face in the mirror and the subject refers specifically to the man's evil-looking face.

In another session, the film clip showed two children playing outdoors and the receiver said: "I keep getting thoughts of two kids playing outside."

Pitchers Kline, Clyde Impressive

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Steve Kline, a pitcher trying to come back, and David Clyde, a pitcher who wants to stay, both showed they could do it yesterday.

The two pitchers turned in solid spring training stints in starting roles.

Kline, who suffered from a sore arm last year, threw his first pitches in game conditions since last August 2nd.

In that start, he was routed by the Boston Red Sox and his inability to pitch played a major role in the Yankee downfall in the last two months of the season.

He suffered the loss in a 4-2 defeat to Baltimore as he was tagged for a two-run first inning homer by Earl Williams. But he gave up only four hits in three innings and was pleased with his showing.

"I felt good. It didn't hurt and that's all I care about. I don't care how many runs they scored. Let him hit all the home runs he wants to at this point. I was just happy to be able and go out and not have it hurt at all," Kline said.

The Texas teen-ager joined the Texas Rangers right out of high school last summer and a lot of baseball experts figured he could use some seasoning in the minors, But Clyde wants to stay in the majors and he threw three strong innings as the ıngers belted Atlanta 13-7.

Clyde struck out two and walked none while allowing only one unearned run on three hits.

You might say that Kline and Clyde are ahead of the hitters—no spring traaning is complete without that bromide.

But Roy Howell, a rookie third baseman is ahead of the pitchers. He drove in five runs with a grand slam and a triple.

In the other games, St. Louis beat the Mets 6-5, Los Angeles routed Atlanta 10-1, Cincinnati blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, Houston topped Montreal 5-1, Philadelphia beat Boston 9-2, Kansas City beat the White Sox 6-1, Detroit nipped Minnesota 4-2, Milwaukee routed the Cubs 14-8, California blanked San Diego 1-0 in 12 innings, and San Francisco beat Cleveland 5-4.

Among the heroes yesterday were Garry Maddox, who doubled in the deciding run in San Francisco's victory over Cleveland...Mike Anderson, who drove in four runs in Philadelphia's win over Boston...John Knox, who had three hits in Detroit's win over Minnesota . . . rookie Joe Younglbood, who homered in Cincinnati's win over Pittsburgh...Cesar Cedeno, who drove in two runs in Houston's triumph over Montreal...John Vukovich, who hit a two-run homer in Milwaukee's triumph over the Cubs and Keith Hernandez, who doubled in the deciding run in St. Louis' win over the Mets.

CROWDED IN CREASE

'If I Couldn't Win, I'm Glad Bobby Did—Al Unser

Combined AP & UPI

ONTARIO — "If I couldn't win it, I'm glad Bobby did," Al Unser said yesterday after losing a stirring stretch duel to older brother Bobby by less than a second (.58) in the fifth annual California 500.

"Regardless which one of us wins, it helps the name and it's good for both of us," Al continued.

Bobby, who has had problems finishing races, earned a $70,250 pot, while little brother Al earned $58,800.

"We had a game plan before we went into this race, and everything went according to plan," said Bobby. "No way was I faster than (A.J.) Foyt. If I'd tried to run with him, I would have run out of gas."

Gurney disclosed that the winning car averaged 1.9 miles per gallon for 500 miles and added, "That's cutting it pretty damn close."

Baseball Lessons By Terra Linda, 'Cats

Terra Linda managed just two safeties in beating Riordan of San Francisco, 3-1, at Albert Field, while Marin Catholic also got two in a 2-1, eight-inning victory over visiting St. Ignatius of S.F.

Marin lost the second game of their doubleheader, 6-3. The only other non-league game saw Redwood lose at San Leandro, 2-0.

Terra Linda (2-1) scored all its runs in the fourth inning on a walk, two errors, an infield out by Jack Crimmins and a two-run single by Jim McCarthy — the Trojans' first hit.

Winning pitcher Mike Bird retired all 12 batters he faced before being relieved by Jeff Creamer and Kevin Kirby, who allowed only three hits between them.

Marin Catholic (2-1) scored in the eighth as S.I.'s pitcher walked four of the five men he faced, including Bob Yetter with the bases loaded. Tom Cronin and Terry Ryan combined for a two-hitter, Cronin getting the win.

Marin Catholic's Wildcats made four errors in the top of the seventh inning in the nightcap to permit S.I.'s victory. Tim Little and Rich Speidel each went two for three with a double in that game.

Redwood (2-1) was shut out for the first time in 33 games dating back to 1972. San Leandro scored in the fifth on a bases-loaded walk and in the sixth on a bases-loaded single.

Redwood will play all its remaining non-league games on the road due to poor field conditions at home, coach Al Endriss announced.

DeMONT SETS SWIM MARK IN 1,650

SEATTLE (UPI) — Rick DeMont of San Rafael, freshman at University of Washington, set a Pacific-8 record and posted the second best time in the nation for the 1,650-yard freestyle in winning his specialty at the Pac-8 swimming championships.

DeMont's 15:50.51 effort came on the final day of the meet Saturday. It helped Washington win second place behind University of Southern California. It was USC's fourth straight Pac-8 swimming championship and its 12th in the 14-year history of the meet.

The Trojan swimmers won the title Saturday night with 430 points. Washington's freshman-laden team came in second with 346 and UCLA was third with 342.

GARNER

fund, but additional money will be needed from the public, Panagakis said. Checks should be made out to the "Block M Club," and sent to the college.

Garner won the CNC scoring title this year with 397 points in 16 games for a 24.8 average. Garner set school records in almost every category, including career conference scoring (625) and career overall scoring (1227).

Redwood Crew Wins 1,500-Meter Races

Redwood High School's rowers won all three events Friday against St. Joseph's of Alameda in four-oared races over a 1,500-meter course on Corte Madera Creek.

The varsity heavyweights won in 5:28 to St. Joseph's 5:56, the varsity lightweights won in 5:30 to 6:02, and the junior varsity won in 5:44 to 5:53.

Close Track Race Looms For Preps

If the Marin County Athletic League Relays are an accurate indicator —and they usually are —look for a close race for the track and field championship this year between Redwood and Terra Linda high schools.

Some 14 events were held, all as four-man relays except for the pole vault, a three-man relay. All eight MCAL schools participated.

Redwood's Mark Kilmer turned in some outstanding individual performances as he long jumped 22-2¼, triple jumped 44-0¼ and high jumped 6-0 (as did teammate Steve Trobbe). Fellow Giant Darrell Elder uncorked a 49-9 shot put and 158-5 discus throw.

PILE UP GAS SAVINGS OR ... DON'T PAY ONE CENT!

SUPERCHARGER, n a blower or compressor used to increase the power of an internal-combustion engine by increasing the supply of air or combustible mixture to the cylinders beyond that normally pumped in by pistons at the prevailing atmospheric pressure.
— From Webster's New World Dictionary, 1970

INCREASES POWER UP TO 28%!
Prove it in highway driving as your car maintains 60 — 70 — even higher speeds effortlessly and with power to spare for passing and avoiding dangerous situations. Prove it when you are hauling trailers, campers, etc., or pulling through snow, mud, sand with the greatest of ease!

SAVES UP TO 2 GALLONS OF GAS EVERY HOUR YOU DRIVE!
Prove it during the coming months as you watch your savings pile up . . . put $20.00 — $30.00 — $50.00 — even $100.00 back in your pocket! Remember: if you don't get these savings, you will not have risked one cent of your money!

AMAZING NEW PERFORMANCE!
What a thrill as you get split-second starts even on the frostiest mornings . . . as you drive in stop-and-go city traffic with the quietest engine in town . . . as you flatten out hills like pancakes . . . always driving a car with a marvelous get-up and go spirit that will never cease to amaze you!

FITS ALL CARS AMERICAN AND FOREIGN ... FROM A CADILLAC TO A VOLKSWAGEN!

Documented Reports!

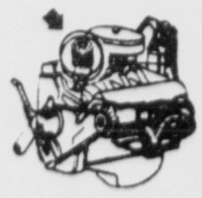

HORSEPOWER INCREASE!
New data on automotive ROAD HORSEPOWER is just in on the MINI TURBOCHARGER. Test cars included Chevrolet, Ford, Plymouth, Rambler, you name it! Some increases were:
36% 18.75% 11% 55% 43%
Test Lab: Walton's Auto Lab., Mass.

BETTER GAS MILEAGE!
Checking your miles per gallon after installion of the MINI TURBO-CHARGER can be most revealing! Look at this test result reported by one of America's most respected auto laboratories:
16.7% MORE miles per gallon
Test Lab: Fema Corporation, California

LESS AIR POLLUTION!
HC: 13.74% CO: 19.96% NOX: 30.85%
Test Lab: Anaheim, California

You get with each order:
— Complete installation instructions
— An extra air filter

Weekly Pay Of $152 Is Backed

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Americans participating in a recent Gallup poll believe the average U.S. family of four needs a minimum of $152 a week to make ends meet today.

The figure compares with $30 in 1937 and $101 in 1967.

Those participating in the poll were asked, "What is the smallest amount of money a family of four (husband, wife, and two children) needs each week to get along in this community?"

When the same question was asked last year the average answer was $149.

Belvedere Council To Pick New Mayor

The Belvedere City Council, including its two new members, will elect a new mayor tomorrow at 8 p.m. at city hall.

The council will debate how to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Councilman Merritt Ruddock last week. At that time councilmen recommended that the new council appoint the person with the third highest vote count in the March 5 elections.

Newsday Links Four To The Present Oil Crisis

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — Three former and one current official of the Nixon administration influenced three major decisions in favor of the oil industry in return for political and financial support dating back to the 1968 presidential campaign, the newspaper Newsday reported yesterday.

In a copyrighted story signed by Bob Wyrick and Brian Donovan, Newsday said the key decisions "led to fuel shortages that could have been avoided and sent fuel prices soaring—well before the Arab embargo."

"Those decisions were made while the President's reelection campaign fund-raisers were collecting contributions of about $5 million—some of them illegal—from oil companies and their exceutives," the newspaper said.

According to Newsday, ex-Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, in an Oct. 21, 1968, speech before the Petroleum Club in Midland, Tex., promised to halt a proposed duty-free trade zone for oil imports at Machiasport, Maine.

"The free trade would have allowed Occidental Petroleum Corp. to build an offshore refinery at Machiasport and bring in cheap Libyan crude oil to supply fuel-pinched New England," Newsday said. "...He knew the oil men in the audience were afraid that if the Machiasport plan was approved it would be the first step in letting in cheaper foreign oil and would eventually force down the price of domestic oil and hurt them in the pocketbook. So Agnew made a promise," the newspaper said.

Study Will Continue On Two Projects

The Fairfax Design and Environmental Review Board will continue its review of two controversial development proposals off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard when it meets at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Fairfax Women's Club.

GOLFERS' NIGHTMARE

18th Hole Of 'Blue Monster'

MIAMI (UPI) — A computer once came up with a set of figures that showed the 18th hole on the "blue monster" course at the Doral Country Club was the toughest finishing hole on the pro golf tour.

The hole is lined with trees, sand and lots of water. It was so tough yesterday that it almost seemed like there wouldn't be a winner of the $150,000 Doral Eastern Open golf tournament.

Of course, the winner was Brian "Buddy" Allin, a fifth year pro, a Vietnam veteran, a former Brigham Young University golf teammate of John Miller and now a three-time winner on the Professional Golfers Association tour.

Heard, who had led after the first two rounds in the chase for the $30,000 first prize, was hot behind Allin when he reached the 18th. But his drive was pushed far to the right, hit a spectator and bounced away. He couldn't go for the green so lagged up, pitched to 20 feet and two putted for the bogey.

An even sadder case was rangy Tom Weiskopf. Weiskopf had pretty much shot himself out of the tournament with a bogey on the 17th hole which he bogeyed after pushing his drive behind a grove of trees.

Obviously the 17th hole is no piece of cake either. But it all fell apart for Weiskopf on the 18th. His second shot landed in the pond that guards the left side of the green and the best he could do was a double-bogey six.

Weiskopf had seemed destined to finish in a tie for second behind Allin but his fold to an even par round of 72 over the 7,028-yard course landed him all the way back to a tie for fifth with Bert Yancey at 275 for four rounds.

If the hole lived up to its reputation, the "Blue Monster" itself did not. Allin's 67 yesterday gave him a 272, three strokes better than the record 275 shot nearly a decade ago by Doug Sanders. Heard, with his 68-273, and Bruce Devlin (71-274) and Bruce Crampton (68-206) also beat the record, set in 1965.

In addition, Texan Tom Kite shot an amazing 29 on the front nine with seven birdies and two pars. It broke the front nine record set three years ago by Yancey. Kite finished at 36-276. Napa's Ron Cerrudo shot a 287.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

UCLA To Take First Step

Donoher made his remark after learning that UCLA routed USC 82-52 for the Pacific 8 title.

Three-time All America Bill Walton personally smashed USC's upset dreams, scoring 26 points and taking down 20 rebounds for the defending NCAA champion Bruins.

"I don't know anything about Dayton yet but I have great respect for their coach," UCLA Coach John Wooden said. "I know Dayton had a fine win over Notre Dame Monday night."

The Flyers whipped the Irish 97-82 and it was Notre Dame that snapped UCLA's NCAA record 88-game win streak.

"But we were really poor on defense," he said. "We could stay ahead of them on scoring, we just couldn't stop them."

Willoughby Enhances His Chances

PHOENIX (UPI) — Jim Willoughby strengthened his bid for a starting rotation job yesterday with three almost perfect innings in the San Francisco Giants' 5-4 Cactus League win over Cleveland.

Doubleheader Is Divided By St. Vincent

St. Vincent High School opened its 1974 baseball season Saturday with a split of a non-league doubleheader with visiting Clear Lake.

In other high school diamond action Saturday, Casa Grande beat visiting non-league foe Fort Bragg, 7-2, in its season opener.

San Rafael's Satisfaction

By LEW CODDINGTON

OAKLAND — San Rafael High School did not win its final basketball game Saturday afternoon, but even that could not prevent the Bulldogs from looking back on their 1973-74 basketball season with satisfaction.

San Rafael was defeated by Amador Valley of Pleasanton, 53-46, in the consolation championship game of the Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

"The kids were great — I couldn't have asked for more," said coach Bret Tovani between bites of a sandwich in the locker room afterward.

Composed largely of previously obscure players, San Rafael experimented its way through the practice season, and its 4-7 record in early January gave little hint that, come March, it would be representing the Marin County Athletic League in the tournament.

The Bulldogs did it, though, by making use of every player. In fact, Tovani may have set an unofficial TOC record by using every player on the roster in every tournament game.

"That's the way we play," the coach said. "We have 11 men on a team, not five or seven. That's what did it for us all year long."

One player of the 11 stood out during the tournament, however. It was Steve D'Ambra, the 6-foot-1 senior guard who made the all-tourney team following three successive strong nights.

D'Ambra, who led the team in scoring just once during the 14-game MCAL season, broke loose to be high man all three nights in the tourney with 15, 18 and 13 points. Though a second-team all-MCAL selection, he was not noted for his scoring, averaging under 10 points a game.

He became the first player in the school's history to make the all-tournament team. San Rafael participated in 1959, 1962 and 1964, being eliminated after two games each year.

Marin's representative on the all-tourney selection committee was Bernie Schneider, coach at Tamalpais High.

The man expected to lead San Rafael, 6-7 center Byron Stewart, had a tough tournament. A 22.4 scorer in MCAL play, he was held to 34 points and 27 rebounds in three games, and fouled out of the first and third games. He had 12 points and eight rebounds against Amador.

San Rafael (18-10 overall) jumped out to a 10-0 lead on Amador (22-3) before the Dons' height began to tell. Six-foot-six Bruce Cavestri, 6-6 Andy Finn and 6-4 Jeff Hine combined for 27 rebounds to lead Amador to a 33-22 advantage on the boards.

With San Rafael unable to get close first shots or any kind of second shots, Amador inexorably began to move. The Dons closed to 17-12 at the quarter, took a 30-25 lead at the half, and moved ahead 47-34 with about three minutes left in the game.

Amador, which gave up only 41 points per game in winning the East Bay Athletic League title, showed its suffocating defense in the third quarter, holding San Rafael to just two baskets (in eight shots) over eight minutes.

D'Ambra, coming back from a knee injury which kept him out of the final four minutes of the first half, made them both.

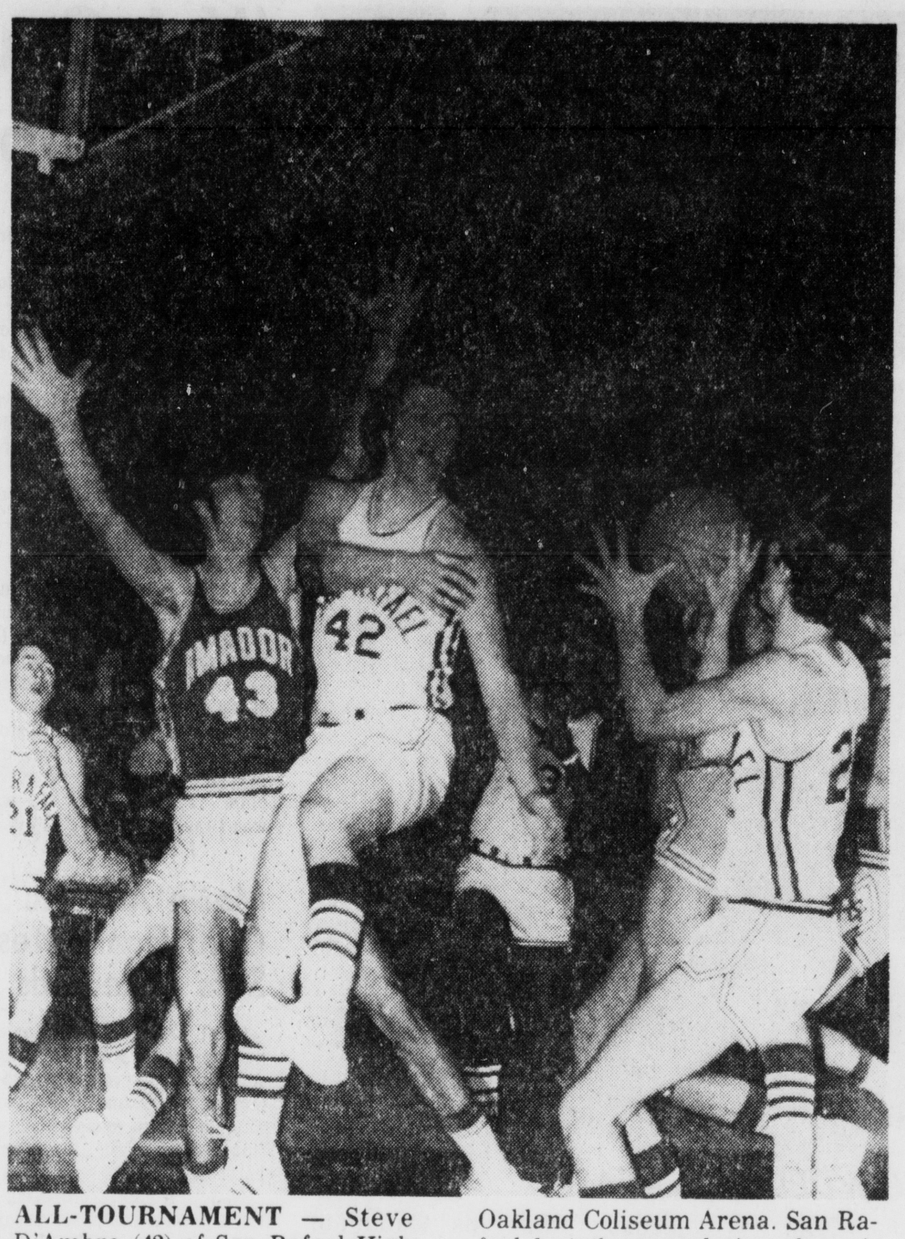

Game statistics showed Amador hitting 45 per cent from the field (19 of 42) compared to San Rafael's 38 per cent (19 of 50).

The tournament was won by Oakland Tech, which whipped St. Joseph's of Alameda in the title game, 65-58. Berkeley swamped Lincoln of San Francisco, 86-71, for third place.

ALL-TOURNAMENT — Steve D'Ambra (42) of San Rafael High School, shown passing off to teammate Jim Grant (20), was the only Bulldog to be chosen to the all-star team in the basketball Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena. San Rafael lost the consolation championship game Saturday to Amador Valley of Pleasanton, 53-46. Amador's Andy Finn (43) blocked D'Ambra's path.

CRUSHING DEFEAT

Unexpected Ending For Sonoma Quintet

By PAUL DWORIN

SAN LUIS OBISPO — Everyone on the Sonoma State College basketball team knew the end would come eventually, but no one suspected such a stunning termination Saturday night.

The Cossacks were literally crushed by University of California, Riverside, 71-56, in the championship game of the National Collegiate Athletic Association College Division western regionals.

The loss ended their bid for a berth in the national championships next week in Evansville, Ind. and left Sonoma with an 18-10 mark this season. Riverside, which earned its second straight trip to the nationals, meets the University of New Orleans Wednesday.

It was an especially hard defeat for the seven seniors on the squad, who sat numbly on the bench near the end, watching the final game of their college careers. Most of them were in tears.

"It was too bad it had to end this way," said a sad but proud coach Bill Trumbo. "It's been a good two years. It's a shame we had to save our worst for the last."

Possessing an 11-8 lead with 15:35 left in the period, the Cossacks were held scoreless for the next seven minutes and fell behind, 22-11.

They were never closer than nine points thereafter, with Riverside going ahead by as much as 25 points in the second half.

Beforehand, Sonoma was concerned with Riverside's vaunted press, which led to Chico State's defeat Friday night, 62-51. It was the press that beat Sonoma. It was the Highlanders' overall defense which stifled the Cossacks' attack.

Riverside (21-7), held season-long scoring leaders Bill Belander (21.5 points per game), Steve Tiedeman (15.0) and Tom Fitchie (11-3) to just 18 points.

Only Bob LeBrun was able to penetrate the Riverside defense. He scored nine of the Cossacks' first 11 points. After that, however, LeBrun was also held in check, adding just seven points.

Sonoma went into the game with a glossy 48.2 field goal percentage for the season but could convert just 34 per cent of their shots against the Highlanders' clawing, man-to-man defense.

Ironically, the Cossacks' season-long rebounding inadequacy was not a factor in the loss. They were outrebounded, 45-40, with LeBrun and Belander collecting eight each and Dan Heien adding six.

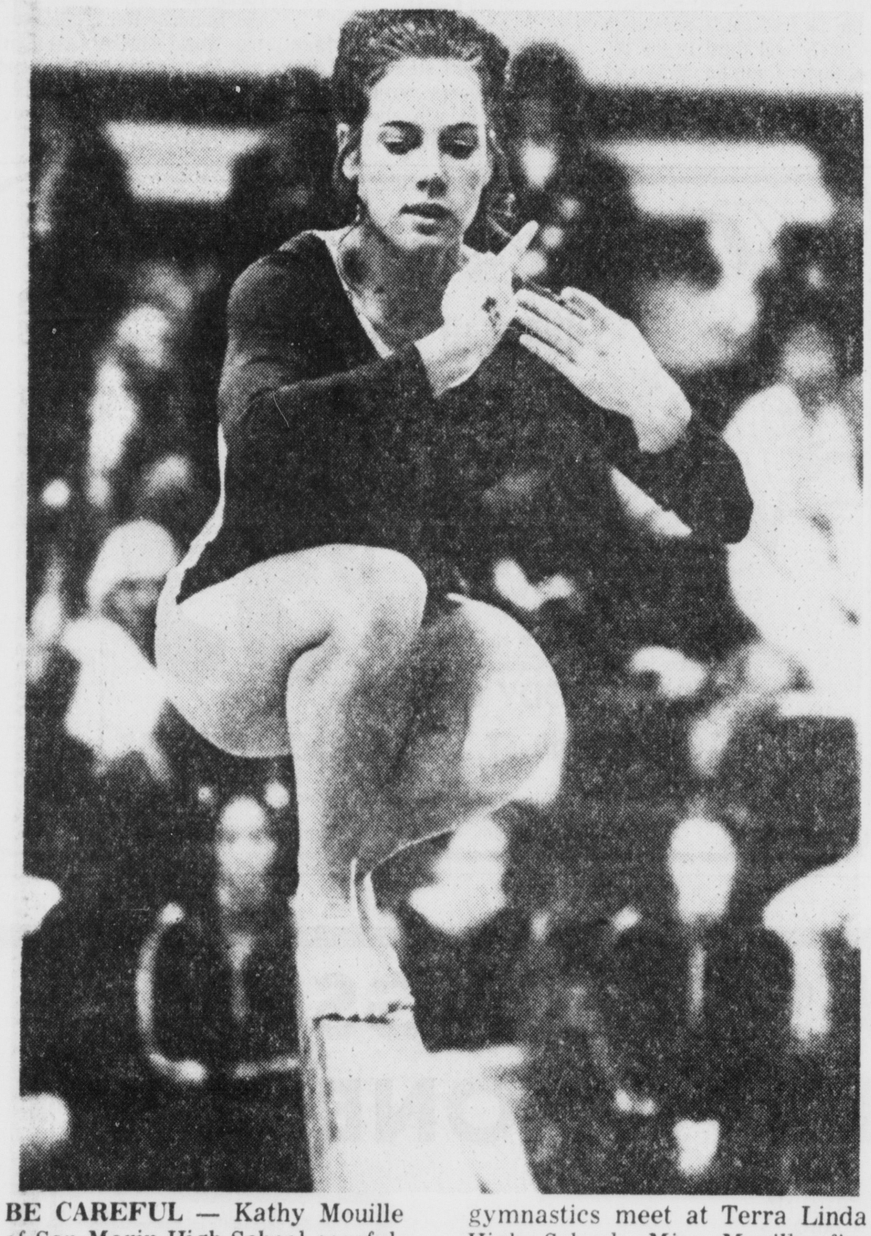

Belander was voted to the all-tournament team by the sports reporters and coaches. Joining him were Pinky Williams and John Parker from Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo and Keith Batiste and Bobby Walters (Most Valuable Player award winner) from Riverside.

In the first game Saturday, San Luis Obispo took third place with an 81-63 victory over Chico. Former College of Marin star Joe Casteel was held scoreless but had 11 assists.

Warriors Have 'Hunted' Label

DETROIT (UPI) — Golden State Coach Al Attles says his team is the "hunted" and the Los Angeles Lakers are the "hunters".

"But I'd rather be in that position," he says.

The Warriors lost to the Capital Bullets 117-107 yesterday and are still a half-game ahead of second-place Los Angeles in the Pacific Division of the National Basketball Association. The Lakers were beaten 94-82 by Boston.

The Lakers are idle so a Warrior defeat would put the two teams in a virtual tie for the lead. The Warriors dropped their four previous meetings this season against Detroit.

"All I'm going to do is play them one at a time and try to win each one," Attles said. "The Lakers are the hunters and we're the hunted."

Rick Barry led Golden State with 30 points, including 12-of-13 from the foul line. Butch Beard added 17.

Seals' Win Over Boston A First

Reggie Leach, a former Bruin, scored a three-goal hat trick against his former team last night as the Seals shellacked Boston 6-2.

It was the first win for the last place National Hockey League West Division Seals this season in five games against the East Division leaders and the first time they have beaten the Bruins since December, 1971.

The loss cut Boston's lead over second-place Montreal to nine points and was the first setback for Bruin goaltender Ross Brooks after he set a National Hockey League record last week with 14 consecutive victories. Brooks, whose has only previous loss was his season opener, is now 14-2-0.

Boston scored first on a delayed penalty at 11:45 of the first period when Don Marcotte took a Phil Esposito pass and beat goalie Giles Meloche. Esposito picked up his 124th point with the assist. He was the sixth man on the ice as the Bruins pulled Brooks.

The Seals led 2-1 and 5-1 after the first and second period as Hilliard Graves added two goals and Morris Mott scored once. Leach scored at 1:32 and 7:46 of the middle period and Graves scored on a power play to give the Seals a 5-1 edge.

Gregg Sheppard scored a short-handed goal at 8:45 of the final period to reduce the margin but Leach scored his third of the night and 21st of the season a minute later.

Bando Expected To Play Today

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Third baseman Sal Bando expects to play in his first spring training game today when the Oakland A's host the Milwaukee Brewers in the Cactus League.

Bando has been suffering from an injured finger and missed the bus trip to Palm Springs, Calif., where the A's lost to California Saturday, 5-1.

"The only way to get in shape is to play, so I expect to play," the A's' captain said.

Bando also missed Friday's opener against San Diego in Yuma, Ariz. He was sent to Oakland after he hurt the middle finger of his right hand during batting practice last Wednesday. X-rays proved negative.

Garner Is Most Valuable

Wil Garner, College of Marin's record-setting basketball star, was voted to the California all-state team and was also named the Most Valuable Player of the Camino Norte Conference, it was announced today.

It was the second straight year for both honors for Garner, a sophomore forward who set school scoring records this year for the Tars.

Marin guard Len Smith was named to the second all-conference team by loop coaches and teammate Bill Donnellan was given honorable mention.

Garner will be heading for Long Beach this weekend — if enough money is raised by the school — to try out for a berth on the California Junior College Association All-Star team.

Garner is one of 20 players nominated to the all-star team by representatives of the state's conferences. Those 20 players will attempt to win 10 places on the all-star team during weekend tryouts at Long Beach Naval Air Station.

College of Marin basketball coach John Panagakis today said $300 is needed to send Garner to Long Beach for the tryouts. Some money will come from the student body and some from the Block M Club's

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Frederick IX, King of Denmark, was born March 11, 1899.

On this day in history:

In 1930, William Howard Taft became the first president of the United States to be buried in National Cemetery at Arlington, Va.

In 1959, The Senate approved Hawaii as the 50th state of the union.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You Must Learn To Zig When You'd Like To Zag In Bridge

Scientists tell us that the dinosaurs once owned the earth but didn't have brains enough to hold onto it. They couldn't change their minds, and they continued to zig when the time had come to zag. Maybe that's why no dinosaur ever became a really good bridge player.

Opening lead — ♡ K

West opened the king of hearts and continued with the ace of hearts. Then he switched to the six of diamonds.

South won with the ace of diamonds and planned to cash the king of diamonds, give up a diamond, and ruff his last diamond in the dummy. Then he could draw trumps and take the top clubs.

As a safety measure, South decided not to lead the king of diamonds. Instead, he led a trump to dummy and returned a diamond toward his hand.

This was a shrewd maneuver. East stepped up with a trump, but South naturally played a low diamond when he saw East's trump.

ABANDONS PLAN

South had never been a dinosaur in his life, so he abandoned his original plan. Dummy and East still had one trump. If declarer led another diamond, East would ruff. If declarer drew trumps, dummy would be unable to ruff the last diamond.

Since the time had come to zag, declarer tried to set up dummy instead of his own hand. Leaving one trump out, he cashed dummy's top clubs and ruffed a club. The suit broke 3-3, and South returned to dummy with a trump to cash one of the good clubs. This was all he needed for his game contract.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:
♠ - K Q 10
♥ - Q J
♦ - 8 4 2
♣ - A K 8 7 3.

ANSWER:

Bid two clubs. At your next turn you will make sure of reaching game. An immediate jump to three spades is out since you have only three trumps instead of the required four. Hence you bid a side suit first and reserve your game force for later.

Saturday's Answer

Pitchers Kline, Clyde Impressive

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Steve Kline, a pitcher trying to come back, and David Clyde, a pitcher who wants to stay, both showed they could do it yesterday.

The two pitchers turned in solid spring training stints in starting roles.

Kline, who suffered from a sore arm last year, threw his first pitches in game conditions since last August 2nd.

In that start, he was routed by the Boston Red Sox and his inability to pitch played a major role in the Yankee downfall in the last two months of the season.

He suffered the loss in a 4-2 defeat to Baltimore as he was tagged for a two-run first inning homer by Earl Williams. But he gave up only four hits in three innings and was pleased with his showing.

"I felt good. It didn't hurt and that's all I care about. I don't care how many runs they scored. Let him hit all the home runs he wants to at this point. I was just happy to be able and go out and not have it hurt at all," Kline said.

The Texas teen-ager joined the Texas Rangers right out of high school last summer and a lot of baseball experts figured he could use some seasoning in the minors, But Clyde wants to stay in the majors and he threw three strong innings as the Rangers belted Atlanta 13-7.

Clyde struck out two and walked none while allowing only one unearned run on three hits.

You might say that Kline and Clyde are ahead of the hitters—no spring traaning is complete without that bromide.

But Roy Howell, a rookie third baseman is ahead of the pitchers. He drove in five runs with a grand slam and a triple.

In the other games, St. Louis beat the Mets 6-5, Los Angeles routed Atlanta 10-1, Cincinnati blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, Houston topped Montreal 5-1, Philadelphia beat Boston 9-2, Kansas City beat the White Sox 6-1, Detroit nipped Minnesota 4-2, Milwaukee routed the Cubs 14-8, California blanked San Diego 1-0 in 12 innings, and San Francisco beat Cleveland 5-4.

Among the heroes yesterday were Garry Maddox, who doubled in the deciding run in San Francisco's victory over Cleveland...Mike Anderson, who drove in four runs in Philadelphia's win over Boston...John Knox, who had three hits in Detroit's win over Minnesota ... rookie Joe Younglbood, who homered in Cincinnati's win over Pittsburgh...Cesar Cedeno, who drove in two runs in Houston's triumph over Montreal...John Vukovich, who hit a two-run homer in Milwaukee's triumph over the Cubs and Keith Hernandez, who doubled in the deciding run in St. Louis' win over the Mets.

CROWDED IN CREASE

'If I Couldn't Win, I'm Glad Bobby Did—Al Unser

Combined AP & UPI

ONTARIO — "If I couldn't win it, I'm glad Bobby did," Al Unser said yesterday after losing a stirring stretch duel to older brother Bobby by less than a second (.58) in the fifth annual California 500.

"Regardless which one of us wins, it helps the name and it's good for both of us," Al continued.

Bobby, who has had problems finishing races, earned a $70,250 pot, while little brother Al earned $58,800.

"We had a game plan before we went into this race, and everything went according to plan," said Bobby. "No way was I faster than (A.J.) Foyt. If I'd tried to run with him, I would have run out of gas."

Gurney disclosed that the winning car averaged 1.9 miles per gallon for 500 miles and added, "That's cutting it pretty damn close."

Baseball Lessons By Terra Linda, 'Cats

Terra Linda managed just two safeties in beating Riordan of San Francisco, 3-1, at Albert Field, while Marin Catholic also got two in a 2-1, eight-inning victory over visiting St. Ignatius of S.F.

Marin lost the second game of their doubleheader, 6-3. The only other non-league game saw Redwood lose at San Leandro, 2-0.

Terra Linda (2-1) scored all its runs in the fourth inning on a walk, two errors, an infield out by Jack Crimmins and a two-run single by Jim McCarthy — the Trojans' first hit.

Winning pitcher Mike Bird retired all 12 batters he faced before being relieved by Jeff Creamer and Kevin Kirby, who allowed only three hits between them.

Marin Catholic (2-1) scored in the eighth as S.I.'s pitcher walked four of the five men he faced, including Bob Yetter with the bases loaded. Tom Cronin and Terry Ryan combined for a two-hitter, Cronin getting the win.

Marin Catholic's Wildcats made four errors in the top of the seventh inning in the nightcap to permit S.I.'s victory. Tim Little and Rich Speidel each went two for three with a double in that game.

Redwood (2-1) was shut out for the first time in 33 games dating back to 1972. San Leandro scored in the fifth on a bases-loaded walk and in the sixth on a bases-loaded single.

Redwood will play all its remaining non-league games on the road due to poor field conditions at home, coach Al Endriss announced.

DeMONT SETS SWIM MARK IN 1,650

SEATTLE (UPI) — Rick DeMont of San Rafael, freshman at University of Washington, set a Pacific-8 record and posted the second best time in the nation for the 1,650-yard freestyle in winning his specialty at the Pac-8 swimming championships.

DeMont's 15:50.51 effort came on the final day of the meet Saturday. It helped Washington win second place behind University of Southern California. It was USC's fourth straight Pac-8 swimming championship and its 12th in the 14-year history of the meet.

The Trojan swimmers won the title Saturday night with 430 points. Washington's freshman-laden team came in second with 346 and UCLA was third with 342.

Close Track Race Looms For Preps

If the Marin County Athletic League Relays are an accurate indicator —and they usually are —look for a close race for the track and field championship this year between Redwood and Terra Linda high schools.

Some 14 events were held, all as four-man relays except for the pole vault, a three-man relay. All eight MCAL schools participated.

Redwood's Mark Kilmer turned in some outstanding individual performances as he long jumped 22-2¼, triple jumped 44-0¼ and high jumped 6-0 (as did teammate Steve Trobbe). Fellow Giant Darrell Elder uncorked a 49-9 shot put and 158-5 discus throw.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Warrants Seen Worth Holding

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What are the prospects of a person who bought American Telephone & Telegraph warrants (NYSE) at $8 and $10 coming out profitably on the deal? — M.F.

A. Two technical factors are at work here: the warrants' exercise price and the period of time left prior to the expiration of the warrants. As the price of American Telephone common stock has approached and exceeded exercise price — in this case $52 per share — the premium at which the warrants trade (the amount in excess of exercise value) has tended to narrow. Now, with the warrant nearing its maturity date, its trading value has diminished. The telephone warrant will expire May 15, 1975, 14 months from now. Late in November, when the common was $46, the warrant commanded a 22 per cent premium over exercise value while currently the premium is about 8.5 per cent despite the 13 per cent advance in share price.

On a more fundamental basis, a continuation of the uptrend in both earnings and dividends should be reflected in the price of telephone common. At present, the shares are trading 10.5 times fiscal 1973 earnings and 9.8 times estimated 1974 results. An upward assessment of the multiple to 12 times could lift the share price to about $63. If this were to occur, the warrant would be worth $11, plus premium. However, in a sidewise or declining market; earnings multiples tend to shrink rather than expand. Thus, although your chances of coming out even are dependent on a more vigorous market than we have recently witnessed, I would hold.

Q. Should we hold or sell 1,577 Selected American Shares? We bought 893 shares at $10.21 nine years ago. In the first year we took out $1,800 in dividends. — L.W.

A. Although your total return on this investment averages an unspectacular 5 per cent annually, I would not advise redeeming the shares at this time. The fund has a well-balanced portfolio, with over 25 per cent of assets in bonds, preferreds and cash. If you are in need of income, you should once again take distributions in cash.

POOL & PATIO OF MARIN

Compact sauna baths that can fit into a home or office are among items available at the new Pool & Patio of Marin, which held its grand opening last weekend at 536 Irwin Street, San Rafael. Store Manager Don Koss shows Kathy Croke of Santa Rosa how the Finnish sauna operates. Other items carried by the store include a hot-water spa made of redwood; an above-ground, vinyl-lined pool (partially shown at left of picture); and patio and garden furniture and accessories. Operated in conjunction with this shop is Master Pools Service and Supplies, which provides pool maintenance and supplies.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Moving Expense Deduction Now Available To More Than Before

The moving expense deduction is available to more taxpayers than ever before. Employers must furnish their employees with an itemized Form 4782 for each move made during the year. This form shows amounts paid to the employee, amounts paid to a third party for benefit of the employee and value of services furnished in-kind.

This could result in additional taxable income to you rather than a deduction, or both a deduction and additional taxable income. To claim a moving expense deduction for 1973, you must have Form 4782 from your employer and you complete Fomr 3903 in order to determine the actual amount of the deduction.

If you are self-employeed and moved for business reasons, you do not have to have a Form 4782 and you may be able to deduct many of the costs of moving.

The new job location must be at least 50 miles further from your old home than the old job was. This is via the most commonly used route.

You must be employed full time for at least 39 weeks during the 12 month period immediately after the move.

If you are self-employed, you must also during the 24 month period immediately following arrival at the new job, perform services on a full time basis for at least 78 weeks of which not less than 39 weeks must fall within the 12 month period immediately following your arrival at your new place of work.

If you pay the expenses in the last part of the year, claim the deduction. If you don't complete the full 39 or 78 weeks, you must include whatever you deducted in your next year's income. In cases of death, disability, discharge or transfer, the 39 or 78 week test does not apply.

Moving expenses are deductible from gross income in computing adjusted gross income, so you can deduct your moving expenses even if you don't itemize.

Trading Moderate As Market Opens

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks declined in moderate trading today on the New York Stock Exchange, with profit taking sparked by disappointment over the weekend's oil embargo developments.

Stocks that gained most last week on the hopes of an end to the embargo, particularly travel and motor tourism issues, were hit hardest early today by profit taking.

Among other motor tourism issues, Ponderosa System, Howard Johnson, Holiday Inns, and Outboard Marine moved fractionally lower.

Curtiss-Wright, holder of North American rights to the Wankel rotary car engine, slid ⅜. Ford Motor confirmed it has abandoned research and development on the Wankel.

Oils were mixed, but oil field service stocks stood out among the losers. Schlumberger fell 2 ½. Halliburton 1 ⅛.

DuPont dropped 1 ½ among declining blue chip chemicals. Union Pacific and United Aircraft each fell a point to lead the sliding transportation group. Motors also dropped in fractions, while steels, electronic and computers were mixed.

Dorris Of Marin Hairstyling Will Open San Rafael Shop

Dorris Of Marin, a new hairstyling shop for both men and women, will open next month in the West End area of San Rafael at the former Alibi Club location, 1547 Fourth Street.

It will offer complete hairstyling for men and women, wigs, and boutique items like jewelry and some wearing apparel.

Owner will be Doris Muzinich, a resident of San Rafael for 30 years, who was office manager at Montgomery Ward in Corte Madera for about a year and then at Ferrer Plumbing in San Rafel for three years. Her husband, William Muzinich, had his own plumbing firm for 12 years and now works for Testa Plumbing in San Rafael.

Mrs. Muzinich hopes to open Dorris Of Marin on April 1, with a staff of four beauticians. The remodeled interior of the building will have Grecian-Roman decor. Eventually, she hopes to create a separate men's department and call it The Lion's Den.

The new beauty shop will have parking in the rear lot for about a dozen customers.

SARA LABAS, fashion coordinator for Cannon Mills, will present a fashion show this Wednesday noon (March 13) at the Emporium Marin, Northgate Mall, for women planning their vacation wardrobes.

The fashion show will be from noon until 3 p.m. in the second floor linens department. Miss Labas will feature vacation wardrobes, with each garment made from either sheets, towels or bedspreads.

Holm

RUSSEL H. HOLM of Tiburon was appointed western regional sales vice president for the C-E Power Systems Group of Combustion Engineering Inc., headquartered in Windsor, Conn.

A graduate of the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy, Holm is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and a registered professional engineer. He joined C-E in 1946 and was western regional sales director until his promotion.

A NEW TENNIS Club, co-owned and managed by former Davis Cupper Herb Clark, has opened at 250 Point San Pedro Road next to Marin Yacht Club in San Rafael.

Called Marin Beach and Tennis Club, it has three tennis courts, a swimming pool and an air-conditioned clubhouse building, designed by Belvedere architect Allan Steinau and built by co-owner L. B. Fleischman, Mill Valley builder and developer.

Clark, who has been teaching tennis in Marin for more than 15 years, and his professional staff offer lessons to all caliber players daily by appointment.

"To insure all members the opportunity to play tennis, our memberships are limited," said Clark. "Applications for family, single and social memberships have been accepted, with some still available. I guess we'll have a waiting list soon, just like all other high grade clubs."

The company, headed by Larry D. Fulwider of San Francisco, will sell and apply a product to glass which stops fading, reduces heat intensity, and cuts glare. Fulwider rented the office space at Northgate Industrial Park through the William Hoey Company. Other leases arranged by Hoey include the following four:

AMERICAN GROUP AGENCY Inc., at 77 Mark Drive also expanded into the La Plaza, Building C.

PACIFIC COAST TITLE Co. of Marin, with its main office at 900 Mission Avenue in San Rafael, got additional space in suite 3 at the La Plaza in Northgate Industrial Park.

MEL EMBURY TERMINATES and Trees, which has been operating in Fairfax for about four years, just relocated to 51 Belvedere Street in San Rafael. Owner is Meldon A. Embury, an entomologist, who specializes in insect control, tree care, and weed control. He operated at 85 Bolinas Avenue in Fairfax before moving the office to San Rafael.

BRAVERMAN'S Fine Furniture at 208 Greenfield Avenue in San Anselmo announced the addition of interior designer G. Robert Rogers as design consultant.

A resident of Larkspur for the past eight years, Rogers owned and operated his own design firms, Robindale Interiors in San Anselmo and G. Robert Rogers Custom Interiors in Napa. He gives personalized attention in adapting interiors to fit the client and specializes in full-color floor plans depicting the final setting. Rogers was also associated with Lorette Larson Interiors in Mill Valley and was a designer in La Jolla for 12 years before coming to the Bay Area.

A real estate broker with nine years of experience in Marin, Mrs. Wolfe was formerly with Frank Howard Allen & Co. and with Home and Land Co.

WOLF'S DEN hairstyling and massage salon at 1157 Post Street in Francisco, which suffered some $50,000 damage in a fire last Wednesday night, will be rebuilt and reopened in about two months, owner Ole A. Brix of San Rafael announced.

Brix also operates the Wolf's Den in San Rafael, at 900 Fifth Avenue, which offers facials, massage and sauna. The San Rafael Wolf's Den, opened by Brix in January this year, replaced the former Le Chateau massage and sauna parlor.

A NEEDLEPOINT shop called the Razberi Patch opened two weeks ago at 970 Second Street in Novato, next to Secret Hangups boutique.

Owner is Laura Rasmussen of Novato, who has been a needlepoint hobbyist for about five years. The shop, open Tuesday through Saturday, carries original handpainted canvases, yarns and all supplies needed for needlepoint. Mrs. Rasmussen also teaches classes, with special attention to left handers.

Her husband, William Rasmussen, is a glass sculptor who operates Fantasies in Glass at Ghirardelli Square in San Francisco. The Rasmussens came to Novato two years ago from Southern California.

GOLFERS' NIGHTMARE

18th Hole Of 'Blue Monster'

MIAMI (UPI) — A computer once came up with a set of figures that showed the 18th hole on the "blue monster" course at the Doral Country Club was the toughest finishing hole on the pro golf tour.

The hole is lined with trees, sand and lots of water. It was so tough yesterday that it almost seemed like there wouldn't be a winner of the $150,000 Doral Eastern Open golf tournament.

Of course, the winner was Brian "Buddy" Allin, a fifth year pro, a Vietnam veteran, a former Brigham Young University golf teammate of John Miller and now a three-time winner on the Professional Golfers Association tour.

But Allin was almost a casualty of the 437-yard 18th. His second shot landed in a bunker snugged against the sprawling green.

He took his wedge and blasted eight feet from the pin. It took him two putts to get down for the bogey.

Heard, who had led after the first two rounds in the chase for the $30,000 first prize, was hot behind Allin when he reached the 18th. But his drive was pushed far to the right, hit a spectator and bounced away. He couldn't go for the green so lagged up, pitched to 20 feet and two putted for the bogey.

An even sadder case was rangy Tom Weiskopf. Weiskopf had pretty much shot himself out of the tournament with a bogey on the 17th hole which he bogeyed after pushing his drive behind a grove of trees.

Obviously the 17th hole is no piece of cake either. But it all fell apart for Weiskopf on the 18th. His second shot landed in the pond that guards the left side of the green and the best he could do was a double-bogey six.

Weiskopf had seemed destined to finish in a tie for second behind Allin but his fold to an even par round of 72 over the 7,028-yard course landed him all the way back to a tie for fifth with Bert Yancey at 275 for four rounds.

If the hole lived up to its reputation, the "Blue Monster" itself did not. Allin's 67 yesterday gave him a 272, three strokes better than the record 275 shot nearly a decade ago by Doug Sanders. Heard, with his 68-273, and Bruce Devlin (71-274) and Bruce Crampton (68-206) also beat the record, set in 1965.

In addition, Texan Tom Kite shot an amazing 29 on the front nine with seven birdies and two pars. It broke the front nine record set three years ago by Yancey. Kite finished at 36-276. Napa's Ron Cerrudo shot a 287.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

UCLA To Take First Step

"Our kids would rather play UCLA than Southern Cal," said Dayton Coach Don Donoher Saturday night after his team beat Los Angeles State 88-80 at Pocatello, Idaho, in the opening game of the NCAA Western Regionals.

Donoher made his remark after learning that UCLA routed USC 82-52 for the Pacific 8 title.

Three-time All America Bill Walton personally smashed USC's upset dreams, scoring 26 points and taking down 20 rebounds for the defending NCAA champion Bruins.

"I don't know anything about Dayton yet but I have great respect for their coach," UCLA Coach John Wooden said. "I know Dayton had a fine win over Notre Dame Monday night."

The Flyers whipped the Irish 97-82 and it was Notre Dame that snapped UCLA's NCAA record 88-game win streak.

Donoher said his team shot well on offense against the Diablos.

"But we were really poor on defense," he said. "We could stay ahead of them on scoring, we just couldn't stop them."

Willoughby Enhances His Chances

PHOENIX (UPI) — Jim Willoughby strengthened his bid for a starting rotation job yesterday with three almost perfect innings in the San Francisco Giants' 5-4 Cactus League win over Cleveland.

The hitting star for San Francisco was Bobby Bonds with a single and a triple. Garry Maddox doubled home Mike Phillips from second with the winning run in the eighth.

For the second game in a row, the Giants went without their full starting lineup. Chris Speier was ill with the flu.

Doubleheader Is Divided By St. Vincent

St. Vincent High School opened its 1974 baseball season Saturday with a split of a non-league doubleheader with visiting Clear Lake.

The Mustangs scored four runs in the fourth inning to take the first game, 7-6, but dropped the nightcap, 14-1.

In other high school diamond action Saturday, Casa Grande beat visiting non-league foe Fort Bragg, 7-2, in its season opener.

Ervin Is Playing Wait-See Game

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., said yesterday evidence of President Nixon's involvement in illegal invasion of privacy and bribery schemes would be grounds for an impeachment trial, but added that the Senate Watergate hearings had produced no such evidence.

"Although the testimony at the investigation indicated to me the President had not committed an impeachable offense—as he (Nixon) interprets the law—we'll just have to wait and see what happens," Ervin said.

Ervin said a "total misconception" of the U.S. Constitution allowed former aides such as John Ehrlichman, under indictment for the Watergate coverup and the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, to tell his committee the President had the power to authorize the burglary in the interest of national security.

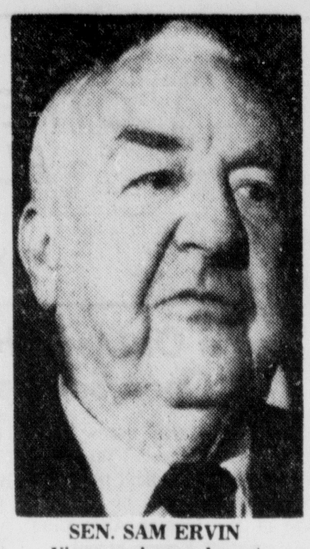

"The refrain was constantly repeated throughout the hearings that those who were implicated in Watergate thought the most important thing in the universe was the reelection of the president," Ervin said.

Ervin, 77, who is not seeking reelection this year, made the comments in an extemporaneous address to about 2,000 persons at a Case Western Reserve University lecture series at Severance Hall here.

He listed what he said were causes of Watergate — "the great American Tragedy"—but declined to comment on Nixon's future at the White House.

Ervin said Watergate was caused by the President's aides who placed their success above everything else. He said they did not understand our government or respect the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

Ervin said the 25 Nixon aides who are under indictment or have been already convicted placed their success above the success of their government.

Family Held The Best Institution

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — The responsibility for the development of young children must remain a family function and not a school or institution responsibility, according to child care experts from 17 nations.

"The responsibility for guiding the development of young children is currently centered in the family," the experts said in a report drafted Saturday at the end of a five-day meeting at the University of Illinois. "It is strongly urged that this responsibility continue to reside primarily with the family and that those institutions which have specific responsibilities for the nutrience of young children seek to facilitate and to strengthen family efforts on behalf of children."

The experts gathered at the university to attend a conference sponsored by the United Nations Educationa, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) to exchange ideas on the psychological development of children and its implication in education.

"We must seek to support the family as the most important of all institutions, not supplant it," a final consencus report by the group said.

Gigantic Quake Is Forecast In The Rocky Mountain Region

DENVER (UPI) — Geologist Vincent Matthews says a major earthquake is in the making for the Rocky Mountain region and that it could kill thousands of people and cause billions of dollars in property damage. Government scientists agree, but they can't do anything about it.

Matthews, a geology instructor at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley, says the environmental conditions which set off the tremors — fault movements—are active all over the region and especially in Colorado.

"It's been about 100 years since an earthquake occurred in Colorado," Matthews said. "Although the state is classified as a minor seismic risk, I wouldn't be surprised if we have a major earthquake tomorrow."

Arthur Tarr, acting chief of the National Earthquake Information Center (NEIC) at Boulder, connedes to Matthews' theory, but emphasizes that the government operated center is responsible for providing information about the earthquakes, not predicting them.

"But I can safely say this," Farr said, "other government agencies and university geology departments throughout the nation are actively trying to find some means of predicting earthquakes.

"It is just that this area of study is so ill-defined that it will take time to come up with an answer."

"We're all living under a blanket of false security, if we rely upon time intervals between earthquakes as an accurate means of predicting the next tremor," Matthews said. "What we should be doing is enacting legislation in our State Houses that would offer the public some type of safeguard in the event of an earthquake."

The earth scientist says the government of Colorado should appoint a special seimoslogy risk commission to explore the potential threat of an earthquake to the state."

"A panel could find out from some experts around the country what sort of problem really exists—whether to increase safety precautions, or if there's a need for such precautions."

Matthews noted that Colorado was particularly vunerable if an earthquake should strike because of its two nuclear generating plants and the Rocky Mountain Arsenal, where toxic nerve gases are stored.

You Must Learn To Zig When You'd Like To Zag In Bridge

Scientists tell us that the dinosaurs once owned the earth but didn't have brains enough to hold onto it. They couldn't change their minds, and they continued to zig when the time had come to zag. Maybe that's why no dinosaur ever became a really good bridge player.

Opening lead — ♡ K

West opened the king of hearts and continued with the ace of hearts. Then he switched to the six of diamonds.

South won with the ace of diamonds and planned to cash the king of diamonds, give up a diamond, and ruff his last diamond in the dummy. Then he could draw trumps and take the top clubs.

As a safety measure, South decided not to lead the king of diamonds. Instead, he led a trump to dummy and returned a diamond toward his hand.

This was a shrewd maneuver. East stepped up with a trump, but South naturally played a low diamond when he saw East's trump.

ABANDONS PLAN

South had never been a dinosaur in his life, so he abandoned his original plan. Dummy and East still had one trump. If declarer led another diamond, East would ruff. If declarer drew trumps, dummy would be unable to ruff the last diamond.

Since the time had come to zag, declarer tried to set up dummy instead of his own hand. Leaving one trump out, he cashed dummy's top clubs and ruffed a club. The suit broke 3-3, and South returned to dummy with a trump to cash one of the good clubs. This was all he needed for his game contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- K Q 10
♥- Q J
♦- 8 4 2
♣- A K 8 7 3.

ANSWER:

Bid two clubs. At your next turn you will make sure of reaching game. An immediate jump to three spades is out since you have only three trumps instead of the required four. Hence you bid a side suit first and reserve your game force for later.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Warrants Seen Worth Holding

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What are the prospects of a person who bought American Telephone & Telegraph warrants (NYSE) at $8 and $10 coming out profitably on the deal? — M.F.

A. Two technical factors are at work here: the warrants' exercise price and the period of time left prior to the expiration of the warrants. As the price of American Telephone common stock has approached and exceeded exercise price — in this case $52 per share — the premium at which the warrants trade (the amount in excess of exercise value) has tended to narrow. Now, with the warrant nearing its maturity date, its trading value has diminished. The telephone warrant will expire May 15, 1975, 14 months from now. Late in November, when the common was $46, the warrant commanded a 22 per cent premium over exercise value while currently the premium is about 8.5 per cent despite the 13 per cent advance in share price.

On a more fundamental basis, a continuation of the uptrend in both earnings and dividends should be reflected in the price of telephone common. At present, the shares are trading 10.5 times fiscal 1973 earnings and 9.8 times estimated 1974 results. An upward assessment of the multiple to 12 times could lift the share price to about $63. If this were to occur, the warrant would be worth $11, plus premium. However, in a sidewise or declining market; earnings multiples tend to shrink rather than expand. Thus, although your chances of coming out even are dependent on a more vigorous market than we have recently witnessed, I would hold.

Q. Should we hold or sell 1,577 Selected American Shares? We bought 893 shares at $10.21 nine years ago. In the first year we took out $1,800 in dividends. — L.W.

A. Although your total return on this investment averages an unspectacular 5 per cent annually, I would not advise redeeming the shares at this time. The fund has a well-balanced portfolio, with over 25 per cent of assets in bonds, preferreds and cash. If you are in need of income, you should once again take distributions in cash.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Moving Expense Deduction Now Available To More Than Before

The moving expense deduction is available to more taxpayers than ever before. Employers must furnish their employees with an itemized Form 4782 for each move made during the year. This form shows amounts paid to the employee, amounts paid to a third party for benefit of the employee and value of services furnished in-kind.

This could result in additional taxable income to you rather than a deduction, or both a deduction and additional taxable income. To claim a moving expense deduction for 1973, you must have Form 4782 from your employer and you complete Fomr 3903 in order to determine the actual amount of the deduction.

If you are self-employeed and moved for business reasons, you do not have to have a Form 4782 and you may be able to deduct many of the costs of moving.

The new job location must be at least 50 miles further from your old home than the old job was. This is via the most commonly used route.

You must be employed full time for at least 39 weeks during the 12 month period immediately after the move.

If you are self-employed, you must also during the 24 month period immediately following arrival at the new job, perform services on a full time basis for at least 78 weeks of which not less than 39 weeks must fall within the 12 month period immediately following your arrival at your new place of work.

If you pay the expenses in the last part of the year, claim the deduction. If you don't complete the full 39 or 78 weeks, you must include whatever you deducted in your next year's income. In cases of death, disability, discharge or transfer, the 39 or 78 week test does not apply.

Moving expenses are deductible from gross income in computing adjusted gross income, so you can deduct your moving expenses even if you don't itemize.

Trading Moderate As Market Opens

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks declined in moderate trading today on the New York Stock Exchange, with profit taking sparked by disappointment over the weekend's oil embargo developments.

Stocks that gained most last week on the hopes of an end to the embargo, particularly travel and motor tourism issues, were hit hardest early today by profit taking.

Among other motor tourism issues, Ponderosa System, Howard Johnson, Holiday Inns, and Outboard Marine moved fractionally lower.

Curtiss-Wright, holder of North American rights to the Wankel rotary car engine, slid ¾. Ford Motor confirmed it has abandoned research and development on the Wankel.

Oils were mixed, but oil field service stocks stood out among the losers. Schlumberger fell 2 ½. Halliburton 1 ⅛.

DuPont dropped 1 ½ among declining blue chip chemicals. Union Pacific and United Aircraft each fell a point to lead the sliding transportation group. Motors also dropped in fractions, while steels, electronic and computers were mixed.

Ervin Is Playing Wait-See Game

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., said yesterday evidence of President Nixon's involvement in illegal invasion of privacy and bribery schemes would be grounds for an impeachment trial, but added that the Senate Watergate hearings had produced no such evidence.

"Although the testimony at the investigation indicated to me the President had not committed an impeachable offense—as he (Nixon) interprets the law—we'll just have to wait and see what happens," Ervin said.

Ervin said a "total misconception" of the U.S. Constitution allowed former aides such as John Ehrlichman, under indictment for the Watergate coverup and the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, to tell his committee the President had the power to authorize the burglary in the interest of national security.

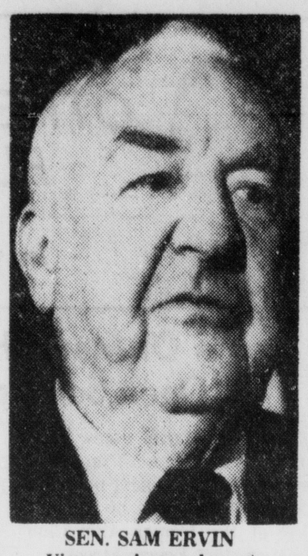

"The refrain was constantly repeated throughout the hearings that those who were implicated in Watergate thought the most important thing in the universe was the reelection of the president," Ervin said.

Ervin, 77, who is not seeking reelection this year, made the comments in an extemporaneous address to about 2,000 persons at a Case Western Reserve University lecture series at Severance Hall here.

He listed what he said were causes of Watergate — "the great American Tragedy"—but declined to comment on Nixon's future at the White House.

Ervin said Watergate was caused by the President's aides who placed their success above everything else. He said they did not understand our government or respect the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

Family Held The Best Institution

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — The responsibility for the development of young children must remain a family function and not a school or institution responsibility, according to child care experts from 17 nations.

"The responsibility for guiding the development of young children is currently centered in the family," the experts said in a report drafted Saturday at the end of a five-day meeting at the University of Illinois. "It is strongly urged that this responsibility continue to reside primarily with the family and that those institutions which have specific responsibilities for the nutrience of young children seek to facilitate and to strengthen family efforts on behalf of children."

The experts gathered at the university to attend a conference sponsored by the United Nations Educationa, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) to exchange ideas on the psychological development of children and its implication in education.

"We must seek to support the family as the most important of all institutions, not supplant it," a final consencus report by the group said.

Gigantic Quake Is Forecast In The Rocky Mountain Region

DENVER (UPI) — Geologist Vincent Matthews says a major earthquake is in the making for the Rocky Mountain region and that it could kill thousands of people and cause billions of dollars in property damage. Government scientists agree, but they can't do anything about it.

Matthews, a geology instructor at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley, says the environmental conditions which set off the tremors — fault movements—are active all over the region and especially in Colorado.

"It's been about 100 years since an earthquake occurred in Colorado," Matthews said. "Although the state is classified as a minor seismic risk, I wouldn't be surprised if we have a major earthquake tomorrow."

Arthur Tarr, acting chief of the National Earthquake Information Center (NEIC) at Boulder, connedes to Matthews' theory, but emphasizes that the government operated center is responsible for providing information about the earthquakes, not predicting them.

"But I can safely say this," Farr said, "other government agencies and university geology departments throughout the nation are actively trying to find some means of predicting earthquakes.

"It is just that this area of study is so ill-defined that it will take time to come up with an answer."

"We're all living under a blanket of false security, if we rely upon time intervals between earthquakes as an accurate means of predicting the next tremor," Matthews said. "What we should be doing is enacting legislation in our State Houses that would offer the public some type of safeguard in the event of an earthquake."

The earth scientist says the government of Colorado should appoint a special seimoslogy risk commission to explore the potential threat of an earthquake to the state."

"A panel could find out from some experts around the country what sort of problem really exists—whether to increase safety precautions, or if there's a need for such precautions."

Matthews noted that Colorado was particularly vunerable if an earthquake should strike because of its two nuclear generating plants and the Rocky Mountain Arsenal, where toxic nerve gases are stored.

Streaking In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Three nude American high school boys streaked the length of the football field at the American School in Japan today. It was the first streaking reported in Japan.
